BAR TO BE ASKED TO RECONSIDER OK IT GAVE MILLER

Walter Diehm Says He Will Make Motion in Executive Committee If No One Else Does.

ACTION IS POSSIBLE AT MEETING SEPT. 9

Question of Withdrawing Indorsement Due to Circuit Attorney's Attitude on Election Frauds.

Walter Diehm, a member of the Executive Committee of the Bar Association of St. Louis, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that if no other member did so, he would offer a motion to the committee calling for reconsideration by the membership of the association's indorsement of Circuit Attorney Miller for re-election, because of public criticism of Miller's attitude in conducting the investigation of registration frauds.

"I think the Executive Committee should submit the question of reconsideration to the membership," Diehm said. "While I don't want to be in the position of attempting to shape the administrative policies of the association, if no other member of the committee makes the motion, I would move to submit the question of reconsideration."

Others Expect Petition.

Other members of the Executive Committee said they understood a petition would be filed by association members, calling for reconsideration of the indorsement. However, they said they did not know who would file the petition. A membership meeting must be called on receipt of such a petition, signed by 10 members, or it may be called by the Executive Committee. The meeting would transact only business specified in the call.

Other members of the Executive Committee declined to express opinions on the Circuit Attorney's attitude toward the fraud inquiry or to say whether they favored reconsidering the indorsement.

As was told in yesterday's Post-Dispatch Samuel H. Liberman, president of the association and chairman of the Executive Committee, will call a meeting of the committee after his return, about Sept. 8 from a vacation at Frankfort, Mich. He told a reporter by telephone that a proposal to withdraw support from Miller could be presented with propriety before the committee, which could decide whether to place the question before the membership at a special meeting.

Other members of the Executive Committee are: John S. Marsalek, vice-president; Thomas F. McDonald, vice-president; George L. Stemmler, vice-president; Forrest M. Hemker, secretary; Ronald J. Foulis, treasurer, and James E. Garstang.

Doubt Among Members.

It was learned that there was some doubt among committee members as to whether the reconsideration, if taken up, should be handled through a ballot mailed to all members or through a membership meeting. It was recognized that a meeting had final authority, but it also was pointed out that the original preferential poll was by mail ballot.

McDonald told a reporter he was aware of the attitude of the Circuit Attorney in the investigation, but that he did not care to express an opinion for publication because the matter probably would come before the committee and he desired to hear what might be said on either side of it with an open mind.

"I have taken cognizance of the developments," said Stemmler, "but am not prepared to say whether anything ought to be done about it."

Marsalek, reached by telephone at Boston, where he is attending the American Bar Association meeting, was not prepared to say whether he would favor reconsideration of the indorsement, but declared he had no present intention of taking action himself. He left here Saturday and will return about the end of this week, when he will consult other members of the committee about the matter.

"I haven't lost my confidence in Miller," Marsalek said. "I can understand the feeling of some members of the public that he should take more definite action about the registration frauds, yet there are some technical aspects of the situation, concerning the ability to make prosecutions stick."

CITY EMPLOYE FOR 17 YEARS FIRED FROM LICENSE OFFICE

Another Republican Holdover to Be Ousted From Inspectorship Sept. 15.

Thomas A. Immel, an employe of the City License Collector's office for 17 years, six of them as chief deputy collector during Republican administrations has received notice of dismissal, effective Sept. 15, License Collector Fred A. Renick announced today. Immel was demoted last March to assistant chief deputy and his salary reduced from $250 a month to $200.

Announcement was also made of the dismissal, effective Sept. 15, of Charles E. Hoffman, another Republican holdover, who had been an inspector in the office about 10 years at a salary of $150 a month.

The dismissal of Immel and Hoffman leaves only two Republican holdovers among the 35 employes of the office. Renick, a Democrat, succeeded Oliver G. Chapman, Republican, in January, 1935.

ARABS REPORTED TO HAVE ACCEPTED PEACE PROPOSALS

Plan of Iraq Foreign Minister Calls for Suspension of Jewish Immigration to Palestine.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 26.—(Palcor Agency.)—The Arab higher committee, directing the Holy Land's troublous general strike against Jewish immigration, was reported today to have accepted peace proposals made by Iraq's Foreign Minister, Nuri Pasha Said.

Under the proposals the Arabs would end the strike in return for an announcement by British High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope suspending Jewish immigration, freeing offenders arrested in 18 weeks of sporadic terror and releasing agitators held in concentration camps.

The Arab committee decided to invite the Iraq Foreign Minister to return to Jerusalem from Egypt in connection with the plan, which some sources said was evolved after consultation with the British High Commissioner.

FOUR REBEL OFFICERS EXECUTED AT BARCELONA

The four, convicted of fostering rebellion against the Leftist government, were Commander Lopez Amor, and Capts. Lopez Belua, Lopez Varela and Liztada de la Roza.

The Catalonian Government, continuing its purge of Fascist sympathizers, approved creation of a "People's Committee of Public Safety.

Mrs. Pat Maloney Accuses City Employe—Contests Re-Election of Committeewoman McQuade.

ALLEGES FRAUD IN 22D WARD

The charge that a city employe on duty as a watcher for Mrs. Lucille McQuade, re-elected Democratic City Committeewoman of the Twenty-second Ward with the support of Mayor Dickmann in the primary Aug. 4, offered a watcher for Mrs. Pat Maloney, her opponent, $25 to "keep quiet" and permit Mrs. Maloney to be "counted out," was contained in the notice of an election contest suit against Mrs. McQuade filed with the Sheriff today by Mrs. Maloney.

Mrs. Maloney, who received 3763 votes to 3922 for Mrs. McQuade in the official count, alleged widespread frauds and irregularities in the conduct of the election and the counting of the ballots, asserting that a proper count would have given her 4180 voters and Mrs. McQuade only 3505.

Other Allegations.

Among other allegations were that 417 voters were counted but not cast for Mrs. McQuade; that in each of 11 precincts of the ward five ballots were counted for Mrs. McQuade which were not properly numbered; that in each of 16 precincts of the ward five ballots were counted for Mrs. McQuade which were not properly initialed by the election judges; that in all of the precincts enumerated Democratic ballots were handed to voters with Mrs. Maloney's name already scratched.

Mrs. Maloney also alleged that in each of the precincts enumerated, the judges of election entered the booths with voters and persuaded them to vote for Mrs. McQuade; that judges distributed sample ballots marked for Mrs. McQuade with the official ballots; that the judges did not make a proper count of the ballots cast for Democratic committeewoman in the ward, and that in each of 12 precincts of the ward 10 ballots were voted and cast for Mrs. Maloney which the judges "illegally and fraudulently" refused to count for her, but counted for Mrs. McQuade.

Intimidation Alleged.

It was also alleged that in all of the precincts of the ward city employes were intimidated into voting for Mrs. McQuade; that in the Eighteenth Precinct one of the watchers illegally handled and counted at least 50 per cent of the Democratic ballots, and that in the Fifth Precinct a man was allowed to vote whose name did not appear on the registration books until it was written in by one of the judges on primary day.

Other allegations were that in each of 30 precincts of the ward eight persons who were scratched on the registration books were permitted to vote on presentation of printed notices from the Board of Election Commissioners; that more votes were counted for Democratic committeeman and committeewoman than were cast in the ward, and that in practically all of the polling places the Democratic ballots were counted only by Democratic officials in violation of election regulations which require officials of both parties to count all ballots.

PARTIAL VICTORY IN CALIFORNIA FOR TOWNSEND SLATE

11 of 20 Indorsed for Congressional Nomination Appear to Have Won—Doctor's Aid Beaten.

SHERIDAN DOWNEY LOSES TO INCUMBENT

Congressman McGroarty, Who Broke With Pension Plan Founder, Wins in Democratic Race.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 26. —The Townsend Old Age Pension organization lost its most important single test of political strength in the State of its origin yesterday, but apparently 11 of 20 congressional candidates it indorsed were nominated in the primary election.

The returns showed the defeat of Sheridan Downey, legal counsel to Dr. F. E. Townsend, founder of the pension plan. Downey, behind whom the district Townsend organization had thrown its strength, lost the Third District Democratic nomination to Representative Frank H. Buck. The count in 451 of 727 precincts gave Buck 22,581 and Downey 15,747.

McGroarty in Lead.

John S. McGroarty, who introduced the original Townsend legislation in Congress and then broke with Townsend, was far ahead for the Democratic nomination in the Eleventh District. McGroarty had 4631 votes against 2231 for J. C. Packard, his closest opponent, in incomplete returns.

A. I. Stewart, Townsend candidate who ran on the Republican ticket in the Eleventh District, trailed Carl Hinshaw, 2375 to 2682 in 186 of 535 precincts.

Representative John H. Hoeppel, recently convicted of conspiracy to sell a West Point appointment, dropped to third place among 10 candidates seeking the Twelfth Distric Democratic nomination, in returns from 199 of 488 precincts. The Democratic leader was H. J. Voorhis, San Dimas teacher, who had 2136 votes.

In the same district, the Townsend-backed Republican candidate, W. R. Peeler, trailed F. F. Houser, Alhambra attorney, 936 to 1857.

How Incumbents Fared.

Townsend-backed incumbents who were leading or were not opposed for their party's nomination were Representative Harry Englebright, R. J. Welch, A. E. Carter, B. W. Gearhart, Republicans; J. J. McGrath, H. E. Stubbs, J. H. Tolan, and Charles Kramer, Democrats.

Townsend-opposed incumbents who had no party opposition or established impressive leads were Florence P. Kahn and S. L. Collins, Republicans: C. F. Lea, Buck, McGroarty, Thomas Ford, John M. Costello, J. F. Dockweiler, Charles J. Golden and Byron N. Scott.

Edward J. Margett, State manager for the Townsend organization, issued a statement saying 14 of 20 Townsend-indorsed candidates had won.

"I feel we have clearly demonstrated our strength," he said. "I predicted that 750,000 Townsendites and friends would march to the polls. The final ballot bore me out."

Margett said that before the November election the national Townsend headquarters will indorse a candidate in each of the state's 20 congressional districts.

NOTED HEART SPECIALIST FLIES TO DERN'S BEDSIDE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Dr. Fritz Meyer, a noted heart specialist, came here by plane from Boston today at President Roosevelt's direction to attend Secretary of War Dern, seriously ill in Walter Reed Hospital.

Dr. Meyer arrived early this morning and immediately was taken to the hospital where Dern was reported in a physicians' statement to be in a semi-conscious condition after having spent a "rather restless night."

Dr. Meyer was sent for at President Roosevelt's direction after he had been recommended by William C. Bullitt, newly named Ambassador to France. Bullitt informed the President that Dr. Meyer was considered the outstanding heart specialist in Europe, and had saved the life of Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant, when Filene was ill in Moscow a year ago.

After reporting that the Secretary was in a semi-conscious condition, the statement issued by the physicians this morning added:

"While some improvement is shown in that there is less congestion in the lungs and less oedema, his general physical condition remains about the same."

LEFTISTS LINK EX-KING ALFONSO TO FASCIST SIDE

"You May Count on Me for Any Assistance You May Need," He Is Quoted as Saying.

LETTER SEIZED IN SEARCH OF HOUSE

Declares 'Victory Is Ours,' According to Government—Note in Custody for Further Inquiry.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

MADRID, Aug. 26.—The Spanish Leftist Government linked former King Alfonso to the civil war today with a letter attributed to him assuring Fascist rebels that "victory is ours."

The letter, urging rebels to "respect nothing," said: "You may count on me for any assistance you may need."

It was addressed, the Government said, to Ramon Alberola, former aid to Deputy Jose Maria Albinana, and was seized by agents searching Alberola's residence.

The letter, with a long list of names of persons alleged to be implicated in the revolt, was turned over to the Department of Public Safety.

Army Captain Arrested.

The Government also announced arrest of a Captain of artillery and a Sergeant at the aviation grounds for acting in liaison with Fascists.

Documents found in the residence of the Secretary to the Spanish Embassy at Warsaw, Perez Caballero, linked him with the revolt, the Government asserted.

Two Fascist war planes were reported shot down during fighting in the Guadarrama Mountains as loyalist forces advanced against the rebels. Another plane was reported captured.

White Flag at Alcazar.

Government officials, excited by news that a white flag was flying from the Alcazar at Toledo, ordered a cordon around the beleaguered fort to be ready for the surrender of the 1700 rebels within, now thought to be fighting among themselves.

With their 1500 sacks of wheat burned by fire which resulted from shelling by loyalist airplanes, the Alcazar rebels with their women and children were known to be in desperate straits. They had little hope of holding out long enough to give insurgents pressing from the west any chance to relieve them.

Rumors of the surrender of the besieged barracks, which had resisted all attack for five weeks, arose from the hoisting of a white flag on one of the towers.

The white flag, however, appeared to have been hoisted by one section of the Fascist forces, supposedly private soldiers and civil guards. A loyalist Captain who went to the gates for a truce parley was fired on and wounded severely by one rebel group, presumably officers willing to die rather than surrender.

Other Reports of Fighting.

Loyalist commanders of the territory west of Toledo kept their troops ready for battle after reports were received of fierce fighting between Navalmoral de la Mata and Talavera de la Reina. Communications between these points were irregular throughout the night.

In a battle in the same sector, loyalists said they routed a rebel column commanded by three priests, each throwing hand grenades with dexterity. Loyalists captured the priests and 39 others, the Government said.

Government war planes prepared for renewed bombing of Oviedo, Zaragoza and Teruel, northern Fascist strongholds, while troops were ordered into an offensive against the "well-entrenched enemy" at Cordoba.

Official reports said three rebel planes, one piloted by a foreign crew, thought to be Italian, were shot down in the Province of Guipuzcoa.

Loyalist Flyer Quits.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 26.—A Spanish Government airplane, equipped with a machine gun and ammunition, landed near Portalegre last night, and the pilot, Capt. Jose Fernando Lopes, surrendered to Portuguese authorities. They said he explained he preferred internment in a neutral country to "the anarchy of the Spanish capital and the horrible crimes of the Marxists."

SEVERE FIGHTING; FASCISTS THREE MILES FROM CITY

ARMORED CARS AND TANK IN ACTION

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

HENDAYE, France, Aug. 26. — Gen. Emilio Mola's Spanish rebels battered their way toward Irun today in the most furious assault this French-Spanish frontier region yet has seen.

Exploding bombs and shells on the French side of the frontier tonight forced the evacuation of the region between Hendaye and Beahomie.

By mid-afternoon, however, the attack had not achieved its goal. Government forces still were in possession of the really important defenses outside the city.

In the most definite advance, along the Bidassoa Aiver, 2000 rebel soldiers smashed their way forward 800 yards before they could be checked.

At least 60 air bombs were dropped on Irun, followed by leaflets, demanding the Government surrender or face complete destruction of the town. Casualties were reported heavy on both sides, and several civilian deaths were reported in Irun.

Dynamite Grenades Used.

In the hills back of the city, where the rebels attacked behind an advance guard of 700 Foreign Legionnaires, the Government militiamen manned machine guns, hurled dynamite grenades and burned their rifles hot with incessant firing, all to good advantage.

The rebels, with a tank, six armored cars and anti-aircraft guns, centered their attack along the Bidassoa River while 6000 Legionnaires led advances in the Oyarzun sector toward the Irun-San Sebastian road.

Two thousand loyalist militiamen, blasting roads and throwing up a screen of machine gun fire, checked the advance on Irun when the rebels still had three miles to go.

The defenders held strong positions in the hills but many wounded were being carried back to Irun.

The battle started at 4 a. m. and raged for seven hours with rebels still pressing their advance.

Spectators on the French side of the frontier from vantage points to which they flocked throughout the day saw men mowed down by machinegun fire and witnessed bombings of Irun by rebel airplanes.

Battle Begins in Mist.

Heavy mist overhung the hills as the offensive began. Fighting along the Bidassoa River opposite the French village of Biriatou, witnesed by this correspondent, became more fierce as the mist cleared.

While retreating militiamen blew up roads before the insurgents, Government airplanes bombed the rebels and scored at least one direct hit on an anti-aircraft battery.

Along the riverfront, rebels in armored cars following a Fascist tank, charging forward for a half mile until a section of dynamited road exploded before the cars. The tank lumbered over the debris and infantry forces followed, deploying in the hills.

PENDERGAST PASSES COMFORTABLE NIGHT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The condition of Thomas J. Pendergast, Missouri Democratic leader, was described as satisfactory by Dr. A. V. Lyman, his physician, after he had visited his patient at Roosevelt Hospital shortly before noon today. Pendergast passed a "comfortable night," the doctor said, after undergoing an abdominal operation yesterday.

His nurse said he roused from sleep around 3 a. m., but was not awake long.

The operation was necessitated by an intestinal obstruction that became acute, Dr. Lyman stated, expressing belief that "it may relieve itself spontaneously now that the back pressure has been relieved. It was a drainage operation and it may be a good many days before nature completes its work."

Mrs. Pendergast and other members of his family are here. Mrs. Pendergast said her husband insisted on the operation yesterday. He recovered only recently from a heart ailment that had kept him confined to his hotel room since late in June, when he came East to attend the National Democratic convention in Philadelphia.

QUITS SYMPHONY, CAN'T STAND 'HOT DOGS,' POP, STREET CARS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—Jose Iturbi, noted pianist, resigned as guest conductor of symphony concerts at the Great Lakes Exposition last night—the occasion of his first concert. Iturbi held up a 45-minute radio broadcast for nine minutes while the audience was combed for a pianist to play the score of "Impressions of Buenos Aires" by Jose Andre, and also asked to be released from his contract.

Iturbi left the stage for 19 minutes last week at Philadelphia, where he was conducting concerts in Robin Hood Dell. Mistaking the audience's hissing of photographers for disapproval of the orchestra's performance, he walked off.

Valentin de Molinedo, who said he was a New York newspaperman, escaped from the liner by fighting off sailors with his fists and a pistol. He told police here that the sailors' committee was refusing landing permits to passengers.

The ship left New York last month and has been off the coast of France the last two weeks, unable to proceed to Spain because of the Spanish war.

SEATTLE TAKING SIDES IN STRIKE ON NEWSPAPER

PLANT TIE-UP IN 13TH DAY

Publishers' Association Protests to A. F. of L. Over 'Lawless Acts of Certain Affiliates'.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 26.—Striking editorial employes of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and several thousand sympathizers cheered speakers who denounced William Randolph Hearst, publisher of the newspaper, at a mass meeting last night. The strike called by the Seattle chapter of the American Newspaper Guild, has tied up the newspaper plant for 13 days, preventing publication.

At the same time a group of business men met and organized a "law and order league" and selected a secret committee to combat the strike.

Mayor John F. Dore, speaking at the mass meeting, termed the walkout a "battle of all wage earners of the community."

"Whether the citizens of this city are going to run this town or whether William Randolph Hearst is going to run it is the main issue at stake," the Mayor said.

"If Hearst brings his gang of gorillas into Seattle we will make it hotter than hell for him.

"As to radio reports of mob violence, there has been no mob violence since I became Mayor and there never will be."

Dore said the situation had been "so quiet around the Post-Intelligencer building that the police complained their job was tiresome."

Jonathan Eddy Speaks.

Jonathan Eddy, international secretary of the American Newspaper Guild, said there had been "no mob and no violence by pickets in the strike so far."

"But if the mob which Hearst has hired at stupendous expense to crush this strike sets out to club and blackjack and shoot its way into the plant, the blood must be upon the head of William Randolph Hearst," he said.

A. N. P. A. Resolution.

Harvey J. Kelly, in charge of labor relations for Hearst, said the board of directors of the American Newspaper Publishers Association had adopted a resolution, addressed to William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, protesting against the "lawless acts of certain affiliates of the A. F. of L., at Seattle," and saying that "such action, if condoned by the A. F. of L., means great loss of confidence in all contracts with union labor."

Pacific northwest newspaper publishers will meet here today to review the situation.

In a closed meeting at the Washington Athletic Club, about 100 business men elected "a secret executive committee to transact business at hand" in connection with the strike and passed a series of resolutions which included:

"We pledge ourselves to work for the suppression of racketeering of every kind and type now rampant in the city of Seattle."

The league said it would begin a house-to-house canvass to enlist 25,000 supporters.

Labor Leader Sues Paper.

Dave Beck, Pacific Coast representative for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, filed a $250,000 damage suit against the Times Printing Co., yesterday, based on an editorial on the closing of the Post-Intelligencer by the strike.

The editorial, "This Shameful Page" (in Seattle history) appeared in the Times Aug. 14. The suit asserted the Times intended to charge that Beck ordered the strike, established the picket lines and was responsible for acts of violence. The suit also contended the newspaper intended to brand Beck as a labor racketeer and radical racketeer, intent upon overthrowing the authority of the lawfully constituted city officials and "stifling the constitutional rights of free speech and right to do business" and that the Post-Intelligencer had been compelled to suspend publication by his order.

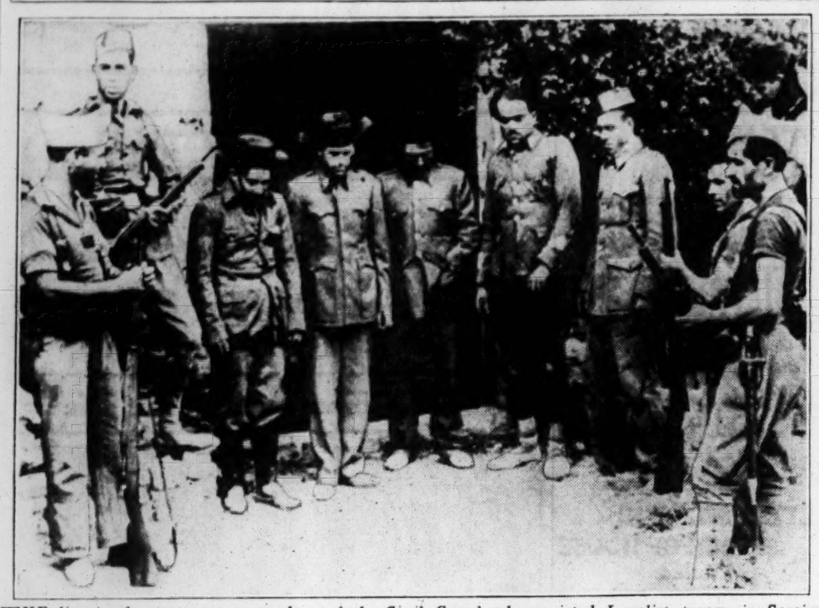

Guild members of the Post-Intelligencer staff went on strike because, they said, two members were dismissed for Guild activity. The paper said they were discharged for cause.

Peoria Council Withholds Advertising in Guild Dispute.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA Ill., Aug. 26.—The Peoria City Council voted last night at the request of the Peoria Newspaper Guild to withhold all city legal advertising from the Peoria Journal-Transcript until the publishers cease what the guild termed a violation of the Wagner Labor Act. The action was requested in a communication signed by recently discharged employes of the publishing company. Three discharged employes of the company have appealed, through the American Newspaper Guild, to Peoria and Pekin trades assemblies for a boycott of the newspaper, asserting that the men were discharged because of activities in organizing employes. The newspaper management stated that the dismissals were for cause.

GOV. PARK SEES ICKES ON MISSOURI PWA WORK

Indicates He Will Alter Prison Plans After Protests Hold Up Contract.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Gov. Guy B. Park of Missouri, conferring briefly today with Secretary of the Interior Ickes, indicated that he would order changes in the plans for the $3,000,000 cell-brock addition to the Stat penitentiary of Missouri, according to PWA officials.

I nresponse to widespread protests, not only from Missouri but from various parts of the country, Ickes ordered the contract for the cell block held up pending an investigation.

According to PWA officials, the most vigorous protest came from the Bureau of Prisons of the Department of Justice. The bureau held that the cells in the proposed new block would result in inhumane overcrowding of prisoners.

Construction of the $3,000,000 cell block is part of the State's $14,-000,000 penal eleemosynary construction program. From PWA the State obtained a grant of $3,-778,000 for the program.

Park was accompanied by Senators Clark and Truman of Missouri who participated in the conference with Ickes. A. E. Bettis, member of the State Bi-partisan Advisory Board supervising the construction program, also was with Park as were Charles A. Haskins, chief engineer, and Edward Voskamp, the designing engineer.

Protests against the proposed plans for the cell block came from the University of Missouri Department of Sociology, the St. Louis Medical Society, the Missouri Welfare League ,the Missouri Business and Professional Women's League and from many individuals in the State.

Cells in the proposed block, which would have been seven feet two inches by six xfeet six inches and eight feet in eight, were designed to house three prisoners, according to PWA officials. This would have allowed, it was said at PWA, only 15 square feet for each prisoner which is in contrast to the minimum resuirement for army prisons of 60 square feet for each individual.

Sanford Bates, director of the Bureau of Prisons is on vacation, but Ickes told Park that he would attempt to bring him back to Washington for a conference tomorrow. An effort will be made at that time to work out some compromise whereby the plans for the new prison construction can be made to conform with Department of Justice standards.

FIRE DAMAGES FACTORY OF LINSTROTH WAGON CO.

Blaze Does Damage Estimated at $800 in Plant Where Parts Are Made.

Fire caused damage estimated at $800 this afternoon at the Linstroth Wagon Co., 2616 Chouteau avenue. Most of the damage was confined to a rear building facing LaSalle street where parts are manufactured. The cause was not determined.

The fire started in a corner of the machine roo mand spread rapidly upstairs. Two fire alarms were turned in. A large quantity of wood stored in a rear section of the brick building was protected from the flames by a fire wall.

Deputy Fire Chief Lawrence Cornoyer, who made the estimate of the damage, expressed the opinion that a spark from a machine might have started the fire.

which I would want to take into consideration."

Additional Comment.

Hemker said: "I wouldn't express an opinion until we have a meeting of the committee. I don't know that I have formed an opinion."

Foulis, reached at Boston, where he also is attending the American Bar Association meeting, said: "I hesitate to express myself one way or another, until I have opportunity to discuss this with other members of the committee. I left St. Louis Aug. 15."

"I am not sufficiently familiar with the facts to express an opinion," said Garstang. "I want to approach the question in a fair, lawyer-like way. I wouldn't want to express myself until the matter was referred to me in committee."

President Liberman has been out of the city for virtually the last month and said he was not fully conversant with the situation.

Miller, renominated on the Democratic ticket without opposition in the Aug. 4 primary, has as his Republican opponent, Edward Gragg, 521 Loughborough, whose law office is in Boatmen's Bank Building.

The Bar Association indorsement of Miller, along with a set of candidates for Circuit Judgeships and for a place in the Court of Criminal Correction, was made in a preferential poll completed July 20, before the primary. The votes for those indorsed and those failing of indorsement were not announced, under the rules of the judicial canvass adopted this year by the association.

How Poll Was Taken.

Ballots in the poll contained the names of all candidates of both parties for each office, listed alphabeticallq. Thus Miller's name was last under the heading of Circuit Attorney, following the names of the two candidates for the Republican nomination. Ballots were issued only to paid up members in good standing in the association, numbering 950. Of these, 588 were returned, but 16 were rejected for failure to comply with the voting rules and of the 572 ballots counted five were rejected in the case of Circuit Attorney only.

It was provided that if any of those indorsed failed of nomination the next in rank of preference, among the nominees, would be backed by the association for election, and it was further provided that petitions would be circulated among voters of the city to make possible the inclusion of the association's slate on the November election ballot as a separate nonpartisan judicial ticket. In previous years the association conducted separate polls before the primary and before the election.

PHILIP LAFOLLETTE SPEAKS AT GOV. OLSON'S FUNERAL

Thousands Gather Inside and Outside Minneapolis Auditorium for Service.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 26.—Gov. Floyd B. Olson was buried today on a shaded knoll in Lakewood Cemetery.

Thousands inside and outside the city auditorium heard Gov. Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin deliver a funeral oration before the flag-draped coffin. Arrangements were made to seat 16,000 persons.

"The exaggeration of friend and bitterness of foe alike disappear in the silence of death," LaFollette said. "He was no hypocrite. He was endowed with the vitality and courage of his Viking ancestors. He stood by his friends with loyalty which no question of expediency or personal consideration could swerve. He never posed as anything he was not. He had a rugged, honest quality like that of Cromwell who said, 'Paint me as I am, warts and all.' He reached power without baseness, and wielded it without fear."

President Roosevelt was represented by Major-General David L. Stone, commandant at Fort Snelling. Four United States Senators were among the active pallbearers —Henrik Shipstead and Elmer Benson, Minnesota; Robert M. La Follette Jr. of Wisconsin and Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota.

LANDON AND FARLEY EXHORT THEIR PARTIES IN KANSAS

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 26.—Kansas Republicans and Democrats reorganized yesterday for the political campaign.

Gov. Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee, telegraphed the State Republican council from Buffalo, N. Y., expressing confidence "that your meeting will reflect the harmony between men and principles which makes secure the victory of the Republican party in Kansas."

James A. Farley, national chairman, wired the Democratic council: "We have Landon groggy. Your punch is all that is needed."

Landon's message read: "It is a pleasure to send you my earnest greetings and an expression of my confidence in the sincerity and effectiveness of the work you do today in behalf of the State and the nation.

"I know your platform will be a calm reflection of your steadfast purposes and that your meeting will reflect the harmony between men and principles which makes secure the victory of the Republican party in Kansas. I am sorry that I cannot be there to greet you personally and to thank you for all you have done for me in the past."

Both State platforms favored social security, economy in government, easing of the tax burden on real estate and retention of State prohibition of liquor.

CHINESE AVIATION SCHOOL COMMANDANT IN ST. LOUIS

Lieutenant-Colonel Chank Tsu Chien of Nanchang Visits City Airport.

Lieutenant-Colonel Chang Tsu Chien, commandant of the technical school of the Republic of China air force at Nanchang, was a visitor at Lambert-St. Louis airport today, inspecting airplane factories and training schools.

He was greeted on his arrival at 10:30 a. m., by three young Chinese who are students at the Robertson Aviation School. One, T. K. Wong, was formerly a student of Col. Chien at the Centro Aviation School in China. The others were Joe Ho Shen and George Young.

The school headed by Col. Chien was opened a year ago and has an enrollment of about 250 students. Ultimately it will have 500 students. The Chinese air force, he said, is being developed for peace-time as well as war-time service.

Interest in aviation is growing rapidly in China, he continued. More opportunities for mechanical as well as flying training are being offered.

Col. Chien is making a two-months' tour of the United States studying the progress of aviation here. He came to St. Louis from Chicago on a regularly-scheduled transport flight and will depart tomorrow morning for San Antonio.

HARRISON, BYRNES ARE RENOMINATED FOR U. S. SENATE

Former Ahead of Ex-Gov. Conner, Bilbo-Backed Candidate, by 68,479 in Mississippi.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 26.—Pat Harrison, supported by the Roosevelt administration, was renominated for a fourth term in the United States Senate in the Democratic primary yesterday. He had a lead of 68,479 over former Gov. Sennett Conner.

The veteran chairman of the Senate Finance Committee won the nomination—tantamount to election—over the opposition of his colleague, Senator Theodore G. Bilbo, who stumped the State for Conner.

Congratulations from President Roosevelt were among the first to arrive.

With only 106 of the State's 1659 precincts missing, a tabulation gave Harrison 131,284 votes to 62,805 for Conner. State Senator Frank Harper trailed with 2176.

Conner pledged to co-operate with the President if elected. Senator Bilbo, who repeated his New Deal affiliations, broke with Harrison several months ago over the appointment of Edwin R. Holmes to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Among the Democratic Congressmen renominated was John E. Rankin, in the First District, chairman of the House Committee on Veterans' Legislation.

Senator Byrnes Rolls Up Heavy Lead in South Carolina.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 26.—United States Senator James F. Byrnes won a 7 to 1 primary victory yesterday over two critics of the Roosevelt administration policies.

Virtually complete returns from the Democratic primary showed he won renomination over Thomas P. Stoney, former Mayor of Charleston, and William C. Harllee, retired Marine Colonel, by the largest margin the State has given a candidate for a major nomination in recent years.

The vote in 1284 of 1474 precincts was: Byrnes, 199,961; Stoney, 18,789; Harllee, 9850.

Byrnes' office said President Roosevelt in a telephone conversation told the Senator: "My happiness is complete."

Returns from legislative races indicated that Gov. Olin D. Johnston, who stumped for candidates favoring his highway program, made some gains but failed to win control of the General Assembly.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—George L. Berry, president of labor's so-called non-partisan league, made public today a letter from A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, in which the league was officially indorsed by the brotherhood. Berry said indorsement of the league also had been received from Frank B. Powers, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. The league was organized to seek the re-election of President Roosevelt.

FRANCE PROPOSES TALKS ON SPANISH NEUTRALITY PACT

Asks Powers to Name "Semi-Permanent" Committee, Which Probably Will Meet in London.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—France proposed today a conference of European powers for drafting a formal joint plan to enforce non-intervention in the Spanish civil war.

A spokesman said the French Government had asked other nations to name members of a "semi-permanent" committee which would meet, probably in London, to coordinate measures for arms embargoes and to discuss practical application of the non-intervention idea.

France initiated the hands-off-Spain proposal, which has received the adherence of Great Britain, Germany, Italy and Russia.

Simultaneous with the request for a committee meeting, France urged Italy, Russia and Portugal to give "full and complete" acceptance of the neutrality scheme by applying actual arms embargoes, in order that the non-interference agreement might be universally effective.

The co-ordination committee would be a clearing house for measures by various countries for carrying out the embargo and would discuss any additional action needed to make neutrality really effective.

Italy announced yesterday it considered the neutrality pact in effect, but said its system of export licenses made an actual embargo unnecessary. Germany, on Monday, announced it would effect an immediate embargo. Russia has informed France it would do likewise when Italy, Germany and Portugal acted. France and Great Britain already have barred arms shipments to Spain.

MOTHER LOSES BOY'S CUSTODY

He Goes to Aunt Who Has Had Him For Five Years.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—Judge John P. Egan settled the court fight today of two sisters, both seeking the custody of eight-year-old David L. Duncan. He overruled the claim of the mother, Mrs. Virginia Lawson Duncan of Phoenix, Ariz., and awarded custody of the boy for one year to the aunt, Miss Grace Lawson of Rennerdale, Pa.

Miss Lawson has had the boy the last five years. Judge Egan said: "At the present time, the welfare and best interests of the child will be served by permitting him to live with his aunt."

A loyalist plane began bombardment of the rebels at 9 a. m., and encountered severe anti-aircraft fire.

A Government truck from Irun rushed a field gun into position near Behobia, suburb of the city, and a Government armored train also took up a position there, indicating it would be the final line of loyalist defense.

Stone walls along the river provided shelter for this correspondent.

Terrified refugees fled from the battle areas and huddled under the international bridge across the French frontier. Throughout the fighting the guns of Fort Guadalupe which the rebels have sought for weeks to silence by almost incessant sea and air bombardment kept pounding away at the attacking lines of rebels.

PICKETS CLOSE PLANT AT CUMBERLAND, MD.

Tire Factory Head Says Employes Could Not Get Proper Protection.

By the Associated Press.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 26.—Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. plant here, announced today the plant was closed indefinitely. A strike has been under way since Monday.

Burke said the plant was closed because "employes who wanted to work could not get proper protection."

Police hurled tear gas bombs three times yesterday as shifts were changing and workers were passing through lines of pickets. Police said they hurled the bombs to clear the streets.

Burke said approximately 1800 men were at work in the plant last week.

Pickets still were gathered in front of the plant today despite the fact that it was closed. There was no attempt to have the 7 a. m. shift go to work.

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Western Maryland labor leader, objected to use of the gas. He conferred with Burke, and urged him to close the plant, pending negotiations, "to prevent loss of life."

The Alleghany Trades Council named a committee of six to assist Local No. 26, United Rubber Workers of America, in pressing the strike.

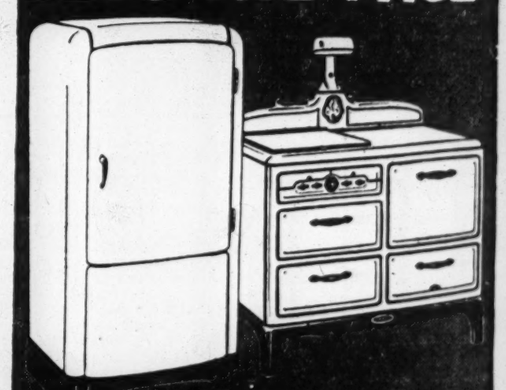

The local union is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Officials of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor, an A. F. of L. unit, said early today they had not been officially notified of any developments in the strike.

FRANKLIN MILLER DEFENDS COURSE IN VOTE INQUIRY

Back From Vacation, Circuit Attorney Says Basis Has Been Laid for Reaching 'Higher Ups.'

EXPECTS TO 'TRADE' WITH THOSE INDICTED

Declares Present Grand Jury Would Have Wasted Time if It Had Set Out to Get Leaders First.

Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, who returned yesterday from a vacation in Michigan, gave to the press last evening a nine-page typewritten statement, in which he sought to justify his procedure in conducting an investigation of the registration and election frauds exposed by the Post-Dispatch, suggesting that the indictment of petty election officials on misdemeanor charges had "laid the foundation" for reaching the "higher ups" by persuading those indicted to turn State's evidence.

As to the future course of the inquiry, Miller said that the September term grand jury, to be impaneled Sept. 14 by Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood, and succeeding grand juries will resume the investigation and will inquire, as well, into charges of fraud in the river front memorial bond issue election of September, 1935, and the August primaries of 1934. Because of the statute of limitations, Miller said, it probably would be advisable to proceed first with the 1934 cases. A writ of prohibition issued by the Supreme Court, which blocked that inquiry when it was first undertaken in 1934, was discharged by the Supreme Court the first of this month.

"Would Have Wasted Time."

The present grand jury, Miller said, would only have wasted its time if it had, at the outset, undertaken an investigation looking toward prosecution of the "higher ups" responsible for the frauds.

"As to the argument, advanced in some quarters, that the election clerks are only minor officials (small fry) and that the grand jury and I should have first undertaken to discover and indict the so-called 'higher-ups' who are assumed to have ordered or induced the election judges to register the fraudulent names and the clerks to make false canvasses of their precincts, it should be clearly understood," his statement said, "that there was no legal evidence whatever, when the grand jury undertook their inquiry, of the existence or identity of any such 'higher-up' influencing these officials.

"On the other hand, cases could be made against the clerks for willful neglect of their duty, without the necessity of proving any such order or inducement. By thus establishing the existence of such neglect, widespread through a number of wards, a foundation has been laid for the possible uncovering of any such 'higher-ups' by the testimony of some of the indicted clerks given to a subsequent grand jury in return for consideration shown them in their own cases.

Promises Vigorous Prosecution.

"Such trades are always open for the State to make after the indictments are returned and defendants are waiting trial. In our opinion it would have been futile to have expected any of them to 'turn State's evidence' in the grand jury room at the outset of the investigation of their own cases. I will add that if there is brought to me from any source, or if I am able to discover, any evidence or information naming or implicating any person whomsoever as such 'higher-up,' it will be promptly submitted to the grand jury and any resulting indictments will be vigorously prosecuted.

"If there is to be any "trading" with those indicted on misdemeanor charges, the State, presumably, would be represented in such negotiations by Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan, since these indictments, when returned in Circuit Court, will be referred to the Prosecuting Attorney for prosecution in the Court of Criminal Correction and Miller will have no further responsibility in the matter. Finnegan, likewise, has no responsibility in the institution or prosecution of felony charges such as might be brought against the "high-ups."

Of the 30 persons indicted by the present grand jury in its investigation of registration and election frauds, 23 were named in misdemeanor indictments, and seven were indicted on felony charges when the grand jury, of its own motion, went into matters which had not been included in the program laid out for it by the Circuit Attorney.

Reviews Investigation.

Reviewing the course of the inquiry undertaken by the present grand jury, Miller recalled that on July 22, the day the Post-Dispatch first published evidence of wholesale registration frauds, he had sent a letter to the Election Board on the assumption that the Board would investigate, and requesting that he be supplied with a copy of its report. Up to this time, he said, he has received no report nor any acknowledgement of his letter.

Realizing the gravity of the situation," Miller said, he conferred the next day with the foreman of the grand jury, which was then in recess, and they agreed that when the grand jury met again the next week they would recommend that it begin an investigation without waiting for a report from the Election Board.

Beginning July 29, he recalled, the grand jury had daily sessions, investigating one precinct each day, choosing precincts in which available evidence appeared to indicate clear cases of willful neglect by election clerks to canvass their precincts. These sessions were held until Aug. 15, the statement said, and on Aug. 10 Miller left for a vacation in Michigan, after having mapped out with the foreman of the grand jury and Assistant Circuit Attorney James E. McLaughlin the grand jury's program for the coming week, the last before its recess.

Approaching Primary.

"In deciding to take up first the misdemeanor cases against the election clerks," Miller's statement continued, "consideration was given to the existing emergency of the approaching primary, one week off when the grand jury met to plan their course. It seemed probable that, as a result of holding daily sessions and the indictment, where the evidence warranted, of officials who might be still on the Election Board's list for service in the primary, the Board would be moved to replace unfit officials with proper ones, at least in the worst spots, before the primary was held. It also seemed probable that the Board might be moved to order a recanvass of the registration and thus prepare the way to purge the books of the improper names before the primary. Both of these hoped-for results were, in fact, partly attained.

"As to the offenses themselves, it should not be considered a mere minor offense or a trifling matter for sworn election officials, charged by law and by explicit instructions of the Board with the duty of going together and making a true and complete house-to-house canvass of every registered voter on their precinct list, to permit by willful neglect of such duty large numbers of improper or fraudulent names to remain on the books for want of their challenge; thus making possible (as only it can be made possible) the fraudulent voting of such names in the ensuing election."

Promises Aid to Finnegan.

The statement promised the full co-operation of the Circuit Attorney's office to Prosecuting Attorney Finnegan, and pointed out that he would have available the sworn testimony before the grand jury and the evidence it obtained through subpena, which would not have been available to the Prosecuting Attorney had he instituted the prosecutions.

In this connection, Miller said that he would refer to the Prosecuting Attorney the list of 89 hotels and lodging houses which did not file with the Board of Election Commissioners sworn statements of the number of their residents, as required by law. For failing to file such lists, Alderman Harry Israel of the Fifth Ward, operator of the Laclede and New LaSalle hotels, has been named in two misdemeanor indictments.

The Circuit Attorney's statement then referred as follows to the criticism of his office resulting from the grand jury's action in voting felony indictments on a matter which he had not intended to present to it:

"Among the nine felony indictments voted, the circumstances of the three charging fraudulent voting in the primary have been severely criticised by one of the afternoon newspapers on the ground that the first report in the matter, brought to me by one of its reporters while voting was in progress, was not instantly acted on and witnesses called before the grand jury then in session, but was deferred for a week and then brought before the grand jury on their own motion, resulting in prompt indictment.

Calls Criticism Unfair.

"This criticism is unfair and unjustified by the facts. When the reporter called, all the evidence he could indicate was wholly insufficient to make a case against any one. No arrest had been made, the alleged repeating voter had disappeared, and the witnesses did not know and could not identify him. Moreover the registration books, containing the names claimed to have been fraudulently voted—necessary evidence in the case—were then in use in the polling place in the conduct of the election and could not be produced until later.

"All this was explained to the reporter, who was asked to return to the polling place and get, if possible, a better description of the offender and report again to me. This was not done. His original memorandum report was, however, placed in my grand jury file for further attention—not suppressed or pigeon-holed—and was duly called to the grand jury's attention a few days later by Mr. McLaughlin in connection with the scheduled investigation of the canvass of the same precinct. The witnesses were then called and testified; and were able for the first time when recalled the next day to identify their man, whom Mr. McLaughlin had in the meantime brought in on suspicion. Upon the evidence thus obtained, with the registration books then available, the indictments followed, to be prosecuted in due course by my office."

GOV. LANDON CANCELS PLAN TO SPEAK HERE TOMORRROW

G. O. P. Presidential Nominee Will Be in St. Louis Half Hour on Way to Topeka.

Chairman Fred W. Pape of the Republican City Committee was notified today by John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, that Gov. Alfred M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee, had cancelled plans to make a brief address here tomorrow afternoon when his train passes through St. Louis.

In a telegram to Fape, Hamilton said that in view of the fact that Gov. Landon plans to make a major campaign speech in St. Louis later in the campaign and in view of his present heavy schedule, he would forego speaking in St. Louis tomorrow.

Landon's train is scheduled to arrive at Union Station about 3:30 p. m. and depart about half an hour later for Topeka, Kan. Pape said that in view of Landon's decision not to speak here there would be no public reception for him at the station, but that State and local Republican leaders and candidates would meet the train and confer with Landon here.

MAN SOUGHT SINCE APRIL 25 FOR TRUCK THEFT ARRESTED

Henry Wallace, Accused Under Dyer Act, Said to Admit Taking Vehicle.

Henry Wallace, chauffeur, who has been sought by Federal authorities since April 25 on a Dyer Act charge, was arrested yesterday in the 700 block of South Broadway where, police reported, he was trying to borrow money from former associates to buy repairs for the truck he is accused of stealing.

He admitted, according to police, that he took the truck from a restaurant in East St. Louis, where he was employed, loaded it with two slot machines containing about $75, and drove away, eventually to Canon City, Col., where he used the truck for hauling until it was wrecked.

Bicycle Rams Truck; Boy Hurt.

Casimir Gotch, 14 years old, 1600 North Eighth street, suffered skull and internal injuries yesterday when he rode his bicycle into the side of a truck at Ninth and La Beaume streets. Howard Turner, Kirksville, O., the driver, said he was making a slow left turn from Ninth street into La Beaume street when the accident occurred. At City Hospital it was said the youth's condition was serious.

DEPUTIES GUARD CARS SWITCHED INTO TIFF PLANT

Strikers Had Previously Persuaded Missouri Pacific Trainmen to Supply No More Empties.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

POTOSI, Mo., Aug. 26.—Four Missouri Pacific freight cars were switched into the plant of the National Pigments & Chemical Co. this afternoon under protection of 12 deputy sheriffs. Previously, striking miners of Washington County had prevailed upon trainmen not to switch cars into the National Pigments plant or that of the Superior Minerals Co., which are the chief centers of resistance to the strike.

J. F. Strickland, conductor of the freight train, said to the correspondent that the cars, after being loaded, would not be taken out of the National Pigment yards if the striking miners objected or unless there was military protection.

Earlier today, W. H. Comins, superintendent of the Fountain Farms plant of National Pigments, had appeale dtto officials of the Missouri Pacific at St. Louis, asking that they order cars to be furnished for shipping the finished product of the mill, in filling existing orders. The trainmen yesterday and Monday, hauled out the cars which had been filled, but have refused to switch in empty cars.

George Cole, organizer of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, said that since the railroad employes had agreed to suspend switching service into and out of the National and Superior plants, the union had decided to cut down its force of pickets. If the finished products cannot be shipped out, there will be little incentive for the companies to continue processing operations, or to buy tiff from non-union miners.

Closed Market Sought.

The strike, as has been told, is an effort to enforce a closed market in the tiff fields, and to compel the companies to buy tiff from union miners only. The question of price does not figure in the present controversy.

Picket forces today consisted of four groups of 12 men each, at the approaches to the National and Superior plants and two establishments of lesser operators. There was less objection to the entrance of mill employes into the plants, and 17 employes of National Pigments, who had lived in the plant since Sunday, went home and were permitted to return and enter the mill unchallenged.

Following the fight with sticks and stones, between strikers and employes trying to enter the Superior plant at Cadet yesterday, Probate Judge Samuel Richeson of Potosi and a delegation of non-union miners went to Jefferson City and asked Lieutenant-Governer Frank G. Harris, acting Governor in Gov. Park's absence, for State aid in preserving order.

Observers at Scene.

The acting Governor ordered Capt. T. L. Leigh of the State highway patrol, stationed at Kirkwood, to report on conditions in the strike area. He also ordered that observers from the National Guard be sent to the scene. The guard observers, who arrived here last evening, were Maj. Harry E. Dudley of Sikeston, Capt. John G. Christy of Festus, speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives, and Lieut. C. M. Jenni of Festus.

Two minor operators, A. E. Stocking of De Soto and W. J. Casey of St. Clair, have signed agreements with the union to buy union-mined tiff only, the union officers said today. The agreements stated, as to price, that no change should be made in the existing price without 30 days' notice. The minor operators buy tiff in comparatively small quantities, and ship it out to fill orders of outside industries. Only the National and Superior plants process the tiff in this county.

DECISION RESERVED ON SUIT AGAINST TAXICAB ORDINANCE

Operators of Black and White Cars Charge Insurance Bonds Were Rejected Capriciously.

A suit filed by the Taxi Owners' Association, Inc., and Frank Foley, one of its drivers, operators of Black and White cabs, to enjoin the city from enforcing an ordinance regulating the operation of taxicabs was taken under advisement yesterday by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt. The point at issue relates to interpretation of a section providing for liability insurance.

The petition alleged that the Board of Public Service through its secretary, Carter Burns, on Aug. 1, declined to issue a certificate to plaintiffs evidencing that they had complied with the ordinance, refusing because of objection to the form of insurance indemnity bonds submitted by plaintiffs. Such refusal, it is alleged, was made capriciously and without legal authority.

The city told the court that its action was based on the ground that the Travelers' Mutual Casualty Co. of Des Moines, Ia., in which the insurance was written, has not received a license to write bonds in Missouri such as those tendered to the Board of Public Service by the plaintiffs; further it never has made application to the proper authorities for a permit.

According to petitioners the section of the ordinance giving discretionary power to the board to determine soundness and responsibility of an insurance company tends to create a monopoly. Pending a preliminary decision in the case a restraining order issued Aug. 6 will remain in force.

ARRESTS TOTAL 378 IN TRAFFIC CAMPAIGN

123 of Those Reported in First Three Days Are Accused of Speeding.

Continuing the drive against motorists who exceed the 30-mile-per-hour speed limit and against other traffic violators, police reported that 169 persons were arrested on traffic charges in the 24-hour period ending at 4 a. m. today.

This increases the total number of arrests for the 48-hour period since the drive began on Monday to 343. Of the 169 arrested yesterday, 42 were booked on speeding charges and the remaining 127 for other traffic violations. The total number arrested for speeding in the two days was 101.

Between 4 and 10 a. m. today 18 additional arrests were made. Of these 14 were for speeding and four for other violations.

Traffic on the streeets has slowed down considerably since the drive, widely advertised with the figure "30" posted and painted along the streets, began. Even on the newly opened express highway in Forest Park, where there are no intersections and no pedestrians, few motorists have been observed to travel faster than 30 miles per hour.

The traffic drive will last for 30 days. It was suggested by Mayor Dickmann at a meeting of the Mayor's Traffic Commission last week at which it was reported that automobile accidents last month had increased 21 per cent over the total number of accidents for July, 1935. The Mayor saidi that if speed was the cause of accidents, he wanted to reduce speed and see what happens.

WORKING TIME IN PARKS TO BE CUT 16 DAYS MONTHLY

Commissioner Mestres Says Reduction Is Made to Avoid Discharging Employes.

The working time of 175 laborers in the Park Division has been reduced from 30 to 14 days a month so that the department can keep within its budget and still not discharge any employes, Park Commissioner Joseph J. Mestres said today.

Most of the laborers receive $3 or $3.50 a day. Mestres said that if all were kept at work the full month, the department's deficit at the end of the fiscal year next April would be about $60,000. He said he had considered laying off some men, but thought it better to give all of them part-time work.

The entire Park Department appropriation for the fiscal year 1936-37 was $875,935. The department requested $1,064,659. Mestres said he had discussed the possibility of a supplementary appropriation for park labor with several members of the Board of Aldermen, but had not decided whether such an appropriation would be requested.

BUSSES TO REPLACE ALTON STREET CARS TOMORROW

Busses will supplant street cars in Alton tomorrow, when the Citizens Coach Co. begins operation of 11 busses in place of street cars operated by the Illinois Terminal Transit Co., which has abandoned its Alton lines.

Stock in the new bus company is held largely by former employes of the street car system who will be employed in operation of the busses. W. C. Meyer of Alton is president of the bus company, which was organized after the street car company announced its intention of abandoning its lines last winter.

Henry Scovel, veteran street car motorman, who operated the first electric street car in Alton, will run the last car over its route tonight.

EDITOR ESCAPES FROM SPAIN

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Aug. 26.—Hair and eyebrows dyed, Sigfriedo Blasco Ibanez, son of the late Spanish author, Vicente Blasco Ibanez, reached Rome today as a fugitive from the Government's stronghold of Valencia. He said he escaped Aug. 12 after Communists had wrecked his newspaper, El Pueblo.

Faithful workers and a foreign consul, he said, enabled him to board a German ship secretly, and he reached Genoa. His family found refuge in France under assumed names. Valencia, Blasco Ibanez said, is in the hands of Communists and virtually independent of Madrid.

WOMAN IN RIVER HOUR AFTER FALL OFF BOAT

An hour and 15 minutes after Miss Zora Shelby, 3951 McPherson avenue, fell from a motor boat into the Mississippi River near Franklin avenue, early today, she turned up, drenched but safe, at boat docks at Washington avenue.

Her delay in reaching shore, which led her companion, Walter C. Grebe of the Grebe Motor Co., 3600 South Kingshighway, to have police squads search the river for more than an hour, was because she swam in the wrong direction and then had to swim back, she explained.

The search was begun about 3:15 after Grebe had summoned aid to the foot of Franklin avenue. He said it was near this point that he had stepped into the cabin of his boat, leaving Miss Shelby on deck, and that a minute later, when he returned, she was gone. They had ended an evening of dancing, he said, and had just pulled from the boat yard at 930 North Wharf street.

Strong headlights were turned on the river, and several searchers in a rowboat retraced the course of the launch. They were still searching, when Miss Shelby came in at the dock of the Streckfus Lines, about 4:30, and told Edward Barney, an employe, what had happened.

She said she was standing near the back end of the boat when she fell off. She started to swim and must have been halfway across the river, she said, before she discovered she was headed for East St. Louis. So she turned around and swam back. Formerly a telephone operator in the Police Department, she is employed in the office of a physician.

PROGRESSIVE MINERS SEEK DISMISSAL OF $400,000 SUIT

Ask Federal Court in E. St. Louis to Throw Out Coal Company's Damage Action.

A motion was filed yesterday in the Federal Court of East St. Louis by the Progressive Miners of America to dismiss a claim against the organization by the United Electric Coal Co. for $400,000 damages. The company alleges the amount is due for losses which it suffered during a labor dispute with the union, which kept the company's mine at Freeburg, Ill, idle for more than two years ending last February.

An injunction was granted the company by Judge Fred L. Wham restraining the union from interfering with operation of the mine. After the decision, the company filed a motion for damages, based on the Court's decision that the company had suffered business losses.

Your Last Will and Testament

The talent of architect, the ability of engineer, the skill of builder, have combined to give preeminence to the Robert J. Ambruster Mortuary as a special purpose structure.

As no premium is added to the cost of our funerals because of the building and interior values, this Mortuary and its facilities should be considered by all who believe that the Last Rites should be conducted on the highest possible plane, yet within an amount that can be spared without sacrifice.

Visits may be made at any time -- not necessarily for immediate reasons, but that you may know of the changes and improvements finer conceptions of service have brought about.

KELVINATOR AIR CONDITIONING

YOU have now come to the time when you plan for the distribution of your possessions.

To some the "last will and testament" is a simply worded document; to others it is so manifold in scope that an attorney is required to place your intent in precise and unequivocal language. In both instances, however, the long view is taken, so that, as a rule, the provisions are far reaching and the dependents' interests are carefully worked out.

By custom most wills begin: "I direct the payment of my just debts and my funeral expenses."

This is as it should be, but when the occasion arises "funeral expenses" is found to be so general that the survivor is at as great a loss of what to do, as if it had not been written in the will.

To stipulate the sum to be expended for the funeral will rectify this situation. But an acquaintance with funeral values will be necessary.

In like frank consideration "funeral expenses" should be given point and exactness.

PRE-ARRANGED FUNERAL PLAN

Here is the opportunity to learn about "funeral expenses." It is knowledge that everyone should have, particularly those who are making a will. For, with definite instructions on "funeral expenses," the survivor is saved the worry and, as is frequently the case, an over-expenditure due to the mental disturbance at the time and consequent unsettled judgment.

In providing for your dependents you are endeavoring to make easy their paths and to grant them as much comfort and happiness as possible, once your guidance is denied.

The first step in this direction, therefore, is to decide on the circumstances of your funeral, and thus relieve your dependents of inopportune and troublesome business considerations.

A conference is invited. We are very sure you will be interested in a discussion of this highly important matter. As our interviews are private and our responsibility well known you may express yourself frankly and in confidence. Call CAbany 2522 for an appointment.

DRUG STORE ROBBERS ESCAPE AFTER FIRING AT PURSUERS

Two men, armed with revolvers, who took $77 in a holdup last night of the Howard Wood Drug store, 2337 South Kingshighway, escaped after firing three shots at two customers who pursued them in an automobile to the 4200 block of Botanical avenue.

The robbers entered the store about 11 o'clock, displayed weapons and took $50 from the cash register, $22 from John Wetteroff, manager, and $5 from Claude Barnholzer, soda clerk. One intruder rummaged in the narcotics supply.

The customers, William McMillan, 4068 Shenandoah avenue, and Jack Williams, 2624 South Kingshighway, came into the store and were informed of the holdup as the robbers stepped in an automobile they had parked nearby. They ran to their own car and gave chase. They had overtaken the other machine when the shots were fired.

LANDON CONFERS WITH NEW YORK G. O. P. LEADERS

MILLS AND HILLES ON LIST OF CALLERS

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas held a series of conferences with State Republican leaders today. He will speak here tonight on Federal finances.

At the home of Edward H. Butler, where he was an overnight guest, the presidential nominee conferred with John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman; Ogden Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury; Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, Eastern campaign director; Senator John Townsend of Delaware, chairman of the Senatorial Campaign Committee; Representative Chester Bolton of Ohio, chairman of the Congressional Campaign Committee, and Representative Bertrand Snell of New York, Republican floor leader.

"Landon will surely carry the State," he added. "The party is united behind him."

Ogden Reid, publisher of the New York Herald Tribune, also called to meet the nominee and pay his respects.

Police sirens cleared the streets for Landon's car as he drove to the Courier-Express Building, where a continuation of conferences was planned during the afternoon.

Gov. Landon's speech tonight, at 7:30 o'clock St. Louis time, will follow a dinner to which 3000 New York Republicans have been invited. A parade through downtown Buffalo will lead Landon from his dinner engagement to Offermann baseball stadium for the address on spending and taxation.

Staying Out of State Politics.

Erwin Jaeckle, Erie County Republican chairman, said Landon "would take no hand in the selection of State candidates," although he conferred with several aspirants for the nomination for Governor.

"Mr. Landon is interested only in seeing the party unified for the fall campaign," Jaeckle said.

Theodore Roosevelt Jr., after a talk with the candidate, told reporters Landon was "the truest kind of liberal."

"It is an amusing thing to me to see President Roosevelt posing as the logical legatee of the progressive policies and spirit of 1912 when I recall that he consistently opposed my father politically during those years," Theodore Roosevelt said.

Gov. Landon, he said, "wholeheartedly supported those policies and willingly jeopardized any political career he might have had at the time for the sake of those policies."

The son of the former President said New York would vote for Landon.

At 10 o'clock tonight the Governor will board his special train for the return trip to Topeka. Platform appearances Thursday in Illinois and Missouri are planned.

Busy Day in Buffalo.

Landon drove four miles yesterday through Buffalo streets waving greetings to onlookers, lunched with Erie and Niagara County Republican leaders, received a peace delegation, attended a reception of Western Republican women and dined with friends.

Landon received a delegation of 50 representing "the People's Mandate to Governments to End War" led by Mrs. Austin L. Kimball, Buffalo, national president of the Y. W. C. A., and Rabbi Philip Bernstein, Rochester, N. Y., chairman of the peace commission of the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

"We ask you to throw your strength on the side of peace in this campaign," Bernstein said.

"I appreciate very much your visit," Landon told the delegation, "and what you say about the dangers to freedom and democracy in war. I realize war is the greatest threat to democracy. I think, however, I made clear how I feel on this matter when I saw representatives of your organization at Topeka.

"I am happy to learn from your chairman that your numbers are increasing. I hope they continue to increase. More power to you."

Liberals Out After 39 Years.

By the Associated Press.

QUEBEC, Aug. 26.—The Government of Premier Adelard Godbout, defeated in last week's provincial elections, resigned today. The resignation brought to a close the Liberal administration which governed Quebec for 39 years. Maurice Duplessis, head of the victorious Union-National party, a conservative-insurgent Liberal coalition, announced his own Cabinet.

POLISH MONEY LAWS TRIP UP AMERICANS

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Aug. 26.—A series of arrests, protests and harrowing experiences among United States travelers in Poland, kept diplomatic authorities feverishly busy today.

At the moment, however, no American actually was behind bars as a result of the tangle caused by Poland's stringent laws restricting the exportation of money.

One traveler from the United States, Mrs. Frederick Atkinson of Minneapolis, was released unconditionally and the currency exportation charges against her dropped.

Mrs. Sonia Nordegg of New York released Saturday after five days in jail, was recovering from nervous shock at a Warsaw hotel.

Mrs. Minnie Galewska, also of New York, was in Warsaw seeking to make permanent her temporary release from jail. Felix Furmanski, another New Yorker, was cleared of currency complications after spending four weeks behind bars in Gdynia.

Mrs. Atkinson, who was released from jail at Ostrow and escorted to Warsaw by the American Vice-Consul, was reported to have suffered a nervous breakdown as a result of her imprisonment.

The Vice-Consul was not permitted to speak to her until the Ministry of Justice intervened and ordered her released.

She expected to recover the passport which was taken from her at the time of her arrest. It was reported her trouble arose because of a misunderstanding as to whether a letter of credit should be declared as foreign money.

Mrs. Nordegg complained she was held five days in a vermin-infested jail after customs officials, searching her at the border, discovered a non-negotiable paper and questioned her right to export it.

Furmanski said he was forced to sleep on the floor of the Gdynia jail because it was overcrowded. He was seized, he said, because he carried an American bank book.

DR. MEYER REFUSES NEW TEST OF MERAMEC RIVER WATER

Rejects Beach Owner's Request to Reconsider Statement on Danger of Typhoid.

Health Commissioner Theodore R. Meyer of St. Louis County yesterday refused a request of a committee appointed by nine beach owners along the Meramec River to reconsider a recent statement that there is danger from typhoid to swimmers in the river because of its low stage and declined to make tests of the river water near the beaches.

No further tests were necessary, Dr. Meyer said, as those taken at the Kirkwood water plant by the State Boarfd of Health four times a week show the raw river water is polluted. He said he would go to Jefferson City tomorrow to confer with the State Board of Health and the Attorney-General regarding his powers to enforce more sanitary conditions along the river.

The beach owners have complained that business has been drastically reduced by the warning.

LIGHTNING KILLS TWO GOLFERS

Two Chicagoans Hit When Standing Under Trees.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. — Two golfers were killed by lightning at two suburban country clubs yesterday during a rainstorm.

Lester Topper, 25 years old, was struck when playing on the Pickwick course near Glenview. Otto Hanson, 53, died on the Westward Ho course in Proviso Township. Both were standing under trees for shelter when the bolts struck. Both were accompanied by golfing companions who were unhurt.

1933 SECURITY ACT CHALLENGED AGAIN

New York Operator Attacks Law Second Time on Ground of Unconstitutionality.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A new attack on the constitutionality of the 1933 securities act was added yesterday to New Deal litigation awaiting Supreme Court action.

The 1933 law, requiring that proposed issues of securities be registered with the Securities Exchange Commission in advance of sale, was challenged for the second time by J. Edward Jones, New York securities operator.

His petition contended the act violated state rights and conferred on the commission "inquisitorial powers to investigate at will suspected infractions of the laws."

Jones appealed from a ruling by the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, which upheld a temporary injunction granted by the Southern New York Federal District Court to restrain him from violating the act. The Supreme Court will announce in October whether it will review the controversy.

In deciding Jones' previous challenge last April 6, the Supreme Court refused to rule directly on constitutionality of the law. It held, however, that the commission could not compel him to testify concerning an issue of securities which was withdrawn after being registered.

The present litigation grew out of an investigation of Jones' activities by the commission. Jones said that at a New York hearing he asked "to be informed of the nature of the complaint" but that "the information requested was not furnished and no justifiable complaint of any nature was ever made."

He also contended that commission employes illegally seized records from his office, and that when he "strongly protested" his complaints were "met with scorn and with the intimidating threat of immediate arrest on a charge of interfering with Federal men."

DELINQUENT TAX BILL SALE BY CITY NOV. 2

11,000, Representing $1,028,414 Unpaid, Will Be Offered by Collector.

City Collector William F. Baumann today was preparing to advertise for sale at the east door of the Civil Courts Building 11,003 delinquent tax bills on real estate, representing unpaid taxes of $1,-[illegible]38,414. They are to be sold Nov. 2 under the Jones-Munger law.

They include 2044 bills for 1928 and 1929 taxes on property assessed at about $3,000,000 amounting to $127,219, which are to be offered for the third time, there having been no bidders at the two previous annual sales. At former sales it was necessary that the bidders offer at least the face amount of the bill and penalties, but the law provides they must be sold for any amount offered when placed on sale the third time.

Consequently, many property owners who showed no interest in the sale of bills on their property at the previous sales are expected to adopt a different attitude this year. Speculators, likewise, are expected to be present on the lookout for bargains.

Owners of property on which bills have been sold have two years in which to redeem it before deeds are issued to purchasers of the bills. However, interest at 10 per cent a year and a 3 per cent delinquency charge must be paid.

Both Collector Baumann and his predecessor, Edmond Koeln, critics of the law, have elected to wait five years before advertising delinquent tax bill sales, as the law permitted them to do. The other bills to be offered include 2690 for $235,778 in 1930 delinquent taxes and 6269 for $865,317 in 1931 taxes.

Owners of most of the property involved owe taxes for subsequent years and some of them even for 1927 and other years prior to the enactment of the Jones-Munger law. The amount owed for 1927 and before was reported as $224,409 and for 1932 to 1935, $2,661,268. The total of taxes owed on the property involved, although no action has been taken on taxes delinquent less than five years, is $3,914,092.

The first sale under the Jones-Munger law was delayed from November, 1934, to April, 1935, to test the law. In it 2178 delinquent tax bills were to be offered but taxes were paid on 464 pieces after publication of notice. Only seven of the remaining 1714 bills were sold. Only four of 3426 bills were sold last November.

PUBLIC HEARING REQUESTED ON REGISTRATION FRAUDS

Committee Suggests That Gov. Park Name Judge Ryan and Glendy Arnold to Conduct It.

A renewed appeal to Gov. Park, for a public hearing of charges against the four members of the St. Louis Election Board, has been made by William J. Jones, lawyer, and Mrs. Louise Custer, two members of the committee of three appointed at a meeting held in Central Library July 23, to consider the wholesale registration frauds exposed by the Post-Dispatch.

Jones and Mrs. Custer suggest that if the Governor does not wish to conduct the proposed hearing in person, he request Circuit Judge O'Neill Ryan and Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold, Democrats, the latter a former chairman of the Election Board, to do so. If a third member of such a board of inquiry is desired, they suggest former Circuit Judge J. Hugo Grimm, Republican.

Fourteen charges, general and specific, are made by the two committee members against the four board members. One of these is that the election commissioners "lend themselves to the pernicious doctrine that a voter may establish a voting residence in a precinct other than the one in which he lives." They should have made a test case to establish the law in this matter, the complainants declare. In conclusion, the appeal asks the Governor whether he will permit himself to be "the tool of predatory interests."

SEWER AND STREET WORK BEGUN, FINANCED BY PWA

Southern Arsenal and Loughborough Projects Under Way, State Director Announces.

Construction of the Southern Arsenal sewers and improvement of streets, particularly Loughborough avenue, began last week with funds provided in whole or in part by the National Industrial Recovery Act of 1933, according to W. M. Spann, acting State director for Missouri of the Public Works Administration.

The sewer construction will cost $22,654, the street improvements, $22,320. At present in Missouri, Spann reported, 41 PWA jobs are being completed at a total estimated cost of $52,628,065. Ninety-six undertakings have been completed thus far. There are 3532 men employed on the 41 present jobs.

Lawyer Wants Governor to Remove New York Mayor.
By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Robert Charles Moore, New York attorney, asked Gov. Lehman today to remove Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York City on charges of "gross incompetence and demonstrated neglect" in connection with a labor dispute involving the Queens Independent Subway.

Moore handed a petition asking for LaGuardia's removal to a member of Gov. Lehman's official staff, who told him to take it to Charles Poletti, the Governor's counsel. Moore said he was filing the charges as a citizen of New York City. The charges alleged "willful waste of over $5,000,000; inexcusable delays, illegal increase of costs in the completion of Queen's Boulevard Subway, New York City."

PRESIDENT INSISTS PWA TAKE MEN FROM RELIEF

Holds to Rule on Grants From New $300,000,000 Program, Despite Ickes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A requirement that Federal grants for PWA projects be used only to pay workmen from relief rolls was maintained by President Roosevelt yesterday despite arguments by Secretary of Interior Ickes that this would greatly reduce Federal contributions to the average project.

The President, who heard Ickes' request for modifications and later told a press conference he did not know whether the rule would permit PWA to carry out its new $300,000,000 program, made one import exception. He said there was a moral obligation to approve projects of States and communities which already have held bond elections in good faith to provide their share of the cost, in the expectation that PWA would put up 45 per cent of the total outlay.

PWA officials said afterward that 2400 projects, involving $100,000,000 in Federal money, were in this class. Of these, 352 already have been approved and are being financed out of funds on hand before $300,000,000 was made available for a new program at the last session of Congress.

The President allotted $1,500,000 to the United States Re-employment Service to bring up to date its records on the kind of jobs relief workers can fill. He said the records in some cases had not been revised in three years, and that the new study should be useful in determining whether a community has adequate relief labor for a given project. He repeated that relief workers could be taken from a neighboring town if not available locally.

In a favorable position, the President asserted, are PWA applicants which can show that all the money given them by the Government will go to pay workmen taken from relief. He announced approval of between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 of such projects, dipping for the first time into the $300,000,000 fund.

SIKESTON EX-CONVICTS GET 5 YEARS IN TAVERN BURGLARY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Mo., Aug. 26.—Albert Carter and Everett Payne of Sikeston were each sentenced to five years in prison when they pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to burglary of a Sikeston tavern July 25.

Officers arrested Carter and Payne at their homes a few hours after they had allegedly knocked A. C. Henson, a New Madrid County farmer, unconscious at a Sikeston wagonyard in an attempt to rob him and had then broken into the tavern. They got nothing from Henson and very little from the tavern, since Vernon Heisler, one of the owners, surprised them as they gathered up whisky, money and cigarettes.

Carter and Payne were released from the Missouri Penitentiary two months ago after serving parts of two-year terms for auto theft.

COUNTY SEEKS TO AID 575 UNEMPLOYABLES

Trying to Get Bank to Honor More Warrants on Anticipated Revenue.

Efforts to provide some immediate relief to the 575 needy unemployables, wards of the St. Louis County Court, who have been without aid since early in July, are being made by county officials, who are attempting to get some bank to honor additional warrants to be drawn against the county's anticipated revenue for this year.

These payments, which members of the court hope to make by the end of this week to alleviate in some degree the distress its wards are suffering, will be for only half the usual monthly allotment to each person and will be the last payment that the county can make for relief this year.

The unemployables have been receiving from $8 to $25 each monthly from the county, depending on the individual case, the average monthly cost of their relief to the county being about $12,000. The number of those on the list has been reduced in the last two months from 850 to 575, during which 110 became recipients of old age pensions and the remainder were stricken from the list after a reinvestigation of each case was made by social workers lent to the county by private welfare agencies. The payments to be made this week will total about $4500.

Problem to Be Met.

At the same time, county officials are deeply concerned with the problem of caring for these persons for the remainder of the year and of how to avoid in the future any repetition of the annual necessity to cut off relief for the last four or five months of each year because funds have been exhausted.

The county has already given $72,000 this year for their care, three times as much as last year and 50 per cent more in seven months than was set aside in the budget for the entire year. It continued giving them aid only by diverting a major portion of the emergency fund into relief channels and by allocating increased liquor license collections for the same purpose. It now has no funds available and little balance between the amount of anticipated revenue and the amount of warrants drawn against which it can borrow.

Unless the burden can be shifted, temporarily at least, the unemployables must go unaided. The county is without funds, the private agencies are unable to carry any more than they are now caring for, and the Federal Government ceased direct relief last January.

Up to Municipalities.

County Judges Eugene G. Tighe and Emil F. Wohlschlaeger have instructed Counselor John E. Mooney to approach officials of the incorporated municipalities of the county in an endeavor to get each municipality to assume the burden of caring for the unemployables living within it. Until now, no part of the burden has been borne by the municipalities.

County Auditor Edwin O. Harper has already begun segregating the names of the persons on the county list by cities for submission to the municipal officials. It is his contention that the cities have as much responsibility for their care as the county, that because of the greater flexibility of their taxing powers they are more able to handle the problem than the county, which has strict statutory restrictions on its revenue, and that, almost without exception, these cities are operating with surpluses, part of which could be used for relief.

Beginning this year with a $450,000 deficit from last year, the county budgeted $48,000 of this year's revenue for relief for its 350 unemployables. A month later, when the Federal government ceased direct relief, approxiamtely 750 more were transferred to the county rolls, increasing the county's monthly cost from $4000 to about $12,000. The increased monthly cost is responsible for the county being unable to give relief during the entire year, although the budget, when made, had provision for it.

Warrants totaling $1,020,000 have already been drawn against this year's estimated revenue of $1,050,000. These include payment of the deficit and expenditures so far this year. A balance of only $30,000 remains against which the county can borrow. All additional obligations must remain unpaid and become part of this year's deficit. All county employes are unpaid for July and most of them will remain so for the remainder of the year.

Use of Balance.

Of the balance against which the county may still issue warrants, provided it can get a bank to honor them, $4500 will be used for the current relief payments, and the remainder will be paid in salaries to those employes of the county hospital who get less than $100 a month and who do not reside at the hospital. This should carry them until October. Members of the court are resolved that keeping the hospital in operation is as important as the relief question. The lower paid employes of the hospital experienced considerable difficulty last year getting enough carfare to get to work during the four months they went upaid. For many of them the wait for their salary would necessitate their going on relief.

Members of the County Court have been studying the advisability of proposing a $500,000 bond issue for relief purposes to be submitted at the general election. Auditor Harper believes that the bonds, if sold as needed, would be sufficient to carry the county's relief load over a period of five years, by which time, with proper budgeting, the county deficit should be abolished. He believes also the bonds could be retired over a 20-year period without increased taxes, by paying the interest on them and retiring them with general revenue funds. Annual payments of interest and principal would be about $40,000, considerably less than current relief costs.

Shoots Power Magnate, is Wounded

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—A former employe broke into the private office of W. H. Fraser, general manager of the Mexican Light & Power Co., it was reported last night by police, and shot him through the back. The assailant fired two shots which seriously wounded Fraser and then was shot with his own weapon, wrested from him by an employe.

ROOSEVELT EN ROUTE WEST ON DROUTH TRIP

First of Conferences on Nine-State Tour at Bismarck, N. D., Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S TRAIN, Aug. 26.—President Rosevelt traveled toward the West today, his announced purpose being to obtain first hand information on the drouth.

His immediate goal was Bismarck, N. D. From there tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt and his party will begin a swing through nine states.

At Bismarck, also, the President will begin a series of conferences with Governors, Senators and other State and Federal officials. Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican presidential nominee, will participate in a meeting at Des Moines, Ia., Tuesday.

Roosevelt's special train carried him this morning through Ohio, Indiana and into Illinois. His itinerary will take him back through this area later.

The President made his first rear platform appearance at Willard, O. A crowd applauded until he came out on the arm of his son, Franklin Jr. "How's everything going, all right?" the President asked. "I'm glad to see you. Thank you for the flowers."

Before leaving Washington late last night, the President said Congress would appropriate money for seed loans to farmers for 1937 crops. Shortly before, William O. Fraser, chairman of the Drouth Cattle Committee of the Agriculture Department predicted the Government would have to increase purchases of distress cattle from the drouth region unless good rain fell in the fall.

The President's party included Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress Administrator; William I. Myers, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, and Robert Fechner, Director of Emergency Conservation Work, all of whose agencies are directly interested in drouth developments.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt also are aboard the train.

SENATOR CARTER GLASS SAYS HE WILL VOTE FOR ROOSEVELT

Virginian Also Indictaes He May Make Speeches for President.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Senator Carter Glass (Dem.) of Virginia called on the President yesterday. He later said he would vote for the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt. The Virginian was invited to the conference by the President. He also indicated he might make a speech or two for the President, despite doctors' orders that he refrain from active campaigning.

Asked if the President requested him to speak for the New Deal ticket, the Virginian, who has opposed some of the Chief Executive's financial and spending policies said: "He did not."

But he volunteered quickly: "If you want to know whether I'm going to vote for the re-election of the President, I am. I never had any other idea."

Glass objected to published reports which he said "made it appear I was ironical and sarcastic in introducing the President" recently at Monticello, Va., home of Thomas Jefferson.

"It is an outrage to impugn a man's motives like that. The President was properly indignant about it and I was more so. It imputes inciviility to a man as well as insincerity."

Centennial Celebration at Clinton.

CLINTON, MO., Aug. 26. — A pageant depicting the history of this city during the past century will be the feature of the Clinton Centennial Celebration, being planned for Sept. 17, 18, and 19.

TURNKEY SLUGGED, 4 BREAK JAIL AT HARRISBURG, ILL.

Guard Attacked When He Opens Bullpen Door to Carry in Melons.

By the Associated Press.

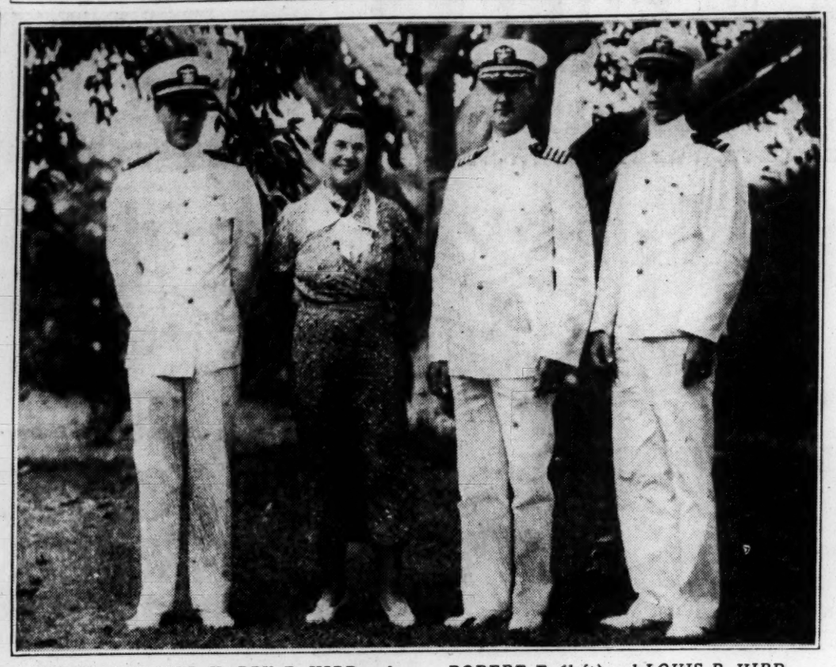

HARRISBURG, Ill., Aug. 26.—Four prisoners escaped from the Saline County jail last night by rushing Charles Brown, turnkey, who unlocked a bullpen door to carry in melons.

As Brown fell to the cell floor, after one of the four slugged him with an iron pipe, the men ran from the jail through the kitchen door.

The escaped prisoners are: Pete Burns of Golconda, held for automobile theft; "Long Tom" Fuller of Carmi, awaiting trial on a Dyer Act charge; Weldon Seymour of El Dorado, arrested a week ago in connection with a robbery; Virgil Morrow of El Dorado, held for robbery and burglary.

Several other prisoners in the jail had an opportunity to break but remained in their cells.

Virgil Hoffman, a former convict, 35 years old, died at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis at 11 a. m. today of a shotgun wound in the side, inflicted last night by an associate with whom he had quarreled over an automobile to which both claimed ownership.

Hoffman died refusing to give police any details of the shooting or to name the man who shot him. Police learned, however, from Robert Young, who lived with Hoffman at 5814 North Park drive, East St. Louis, that the shooting occurred in front of a resort known as Amie's Tavern, on Highway 40, near the Mounds Country Club.

Young, who was detained as a witness, gave police the name of the man who, he said, shot Hoffman. Young said the man he named was waiting in front of the tavern with a shotgun about 8:30 o'clock last night when he and Hoffman drove up in the automobile.

As Hoffman got out of the car, Young said, the man with the shotgun fired one shot which wounded Hoffman in the right side. Hoffman ran into the tavern, Young continued, and fell on the floor. Young said he and the man who had done the shooting helped Hoffman into the automobile and took him to the hospital. Leaving the hospital, they separated, he said.

Young was found by deputy sheriffs last night in Collinsville, near the home of the man whom he had named as the one who shot Hoffman. The man he named is being sought. The automobile which figured in the dispute is in possession of authorities, who are seeking to trace its ownership.

VATICAN CHARGES NEW ATROCITIES IN SPAIN

90 Deaths Listed in Osservatore Romano, Official Papal Paper.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 26.—Osservatore Romano, official organ of the Vatican, last night added a list of "Red atrocities" in Spain to previous Vatican assertions that monks and nuns had been tortured by Spanish belligerents.

The new "atrocities" include a total of 90 deaths, listed by the publication.

The newspaper assert that seven members of religious orders were shot after a raid on Buona Nova College at Barcelona; five friars, four priests and 40 worshipers were shot in Moncada village near Barcelona; 10 friars were "ferociously massacred" and 45 others held as hostages in Grignon, in Madrid Province.

Friars, the newspaper continued, were turned out of their quarters at Figueras after a futile search of the premises for arms, and all novices and students at Cambrils were placed aboard a boat unreported since.

Two chaplains and at least 22 friars were shot, the newspaper alleged, at the Institute of Brothers of the Christian School "and probably many instances of such vandalism could be cited."

The paper said "it is enough to say that Reds in all territories they occupied have not spared a single friars' school."

Earlier in the week high Vatican officials had termed "atrocious mockery" the appeal of Juan Garcia Morales, a priest and former Spanish Deputy, for Catholic aid to the Madrid Leftist Government.

AMERICAN HOMEOWNERS SAVE THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS EVERY YEAR

MORE HEAT FROM LESS FUEL

NO-MONEY-DOWN PLAN BRINGS CRANE COMFORT AND ECONOMY WITHIN EASY REACH OF EVERYONE

Take an ordinary match and light it. Place the palm of your hand beside the flame. It's warm.

Now place the palm of your hand over the flame. It's hot.

Both times it's the same match . . . the same amount of fire. But there's a big difference in the amount of heat you feel.

That explains the secret of Crane comfort and economy. Crane boilers have about 50% more heat-absorbing surface directly over the heating gases than the average boiler. Further, patented baffles direct the water over the hottest part of the boiler.

In that way more heat is taken from a given amount of fuel and carried to the rooms of your home.

"We wish to thank you for selling us on putting in our new Crane Boiler. We really have saved money by doing it. It's easy to run, seems to hold the fire longer, and we don't burn as much fuel as we used to. Besides, it keeps the house warmer."

THOMAS F. CALLAHAN, St. Louis, Mo.

FREE Estimate

Ask any responsible heating contractor for complete information . . . absolutely without obligation . . . on how you can enjoy Crane comfort and save real money on fuel. Your contractor will make a survey and give a free estimate upon request.

CRANE CO., 30 S. Sixteenth Street St. Louis, Mo.

I'd like to have more facts about CRANE Boilers that save fuel money, and how I can get one put in on the no-money-down plan. I understand that this inquiry places me under no obligation whatever.

DO YOUR HEATING DOLLARS GO UP IN SMOKE?

There's lots of heat in the fuel you buy. But whether it is carried to the rooms in your home or wasted on the way depends upon the heating system.

And as long as you're paying for the heat why not get plenty of it?

In fact you'll probably save enough on your fuel bills to pay for a new Crane Boiler and have some left. It happens all the time, Crane owners tell us!

EASY TERMS—NO MONEY DOWN

The Crane Finance Plan . . . no money down and three years to pay, government rates . . . applies not only to a new Crane Boiler but to an entire new Crane Heating System.

MAN DROPPED FROM PLANE CARRIES MESSAGE TO OVIEDO

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

GIJON, Spain, Aug. 26.—With thousands of Asturian miners, fighting as Government militiamen, drawing ever more tightly about Oviedo, the besieged capital of Spain's rich mining province, a rebel plane appeared over the city this morning. It circled. Besieging loyalists saw a man drop out. A parachute billowed behind him, then opened.

Government leaders said the man was a courier, carrying a message from rebel commanders in answer to a plea for reinforcements from the besieged insurgents. What the message was, only the rebels knew.

The insurgent efforts to have and hold Spain's northern coast, observers here thought, was inspired in part by a desire to control the rich manganese, iron and coal mines scattered through Oviedo, Santander and Vizcaya provinces.

Government leaders in the area insisted however, that the Austurian and Basque miners, even if defeated, would refuse to work under a Fascist Government. Hence the rebels were reported planning to bring in labor from other parts of Spain, if necessary.

SPANISH ENVOY TO TOKIO BREAKS WITH LEFTISTS

To Support Insurgents; Japan's Attitude Toward Him Not Determined.

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—Santiago Mende de Vigo, Spanish Minister to Tokio, notified the Foreign Office today he had broken off relations with the Madrid Leftist Government and henceforth would support the insurgents.

The counsellor of the Tokio Legation and the Spanish Consul at Kobe joined de Vigo in a statement asserting "owing to our innermost convictions we have broken off relations with the Madrid Government since July and now are identified absolutely with the movement led by Gen. Francisco Franco, Miguel Cabanellas and Gen. Emilio Mola, men of lifelong and dignified patriotic careers.

"The present struggle is between anarchy and Communism on the one hand and civilization, order and the respect for sacred rights for humanity on the other."

De Vigo professed confidence of victory for the insurgents and predicted Franco or Mola would be the next president of Spain.

INVESTMENT FIRM ACCUSED OF STOCK JUGGLING ATTEMPT

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The Securities and Exchange Commission has filed in the Federal District Court a suit against Lester S. and Aaron S. Saphier, comprising the investment firm of L. S. Saphier & Co., charging they attempted to manipulate the stock of General Bronze Corporation.

The suit, announced today, asked an injunction restraining the defendants from using the mails or other means of Interstate Commerce in disseminating information about General Bronze stock or any other security.

It charged the defendants with seeking from January to May, 1935, to create an appearance of activity in General Bronze stock, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, by entering into an agreement with Morris J. Butler of Boston and others for purchase and sale of shares of the metal company. Hearing on the suit has been scheduled for Sept. 8.

MINNEAPOLIS GROCERS APPEAL FOR OFFICIALS' AID IN STRIKE

Predict Food Shortage in Few Days Unless Truck Drivers Return to Work.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 26.—Asserting Minneapolis faced a food shortage within the next few days, delegates from the Retail Grocers' Association appealed today to State and city officials to help settle a strike that has tied up wholesale deliveries.

Wholesale company heads yesterday charged the strike, which has halted deliveries from the warehouses of 17 firms, was called by General Truck Drivers' Union 544 in an attempt to organize workers "by intimidation."

William Brown, president of the union, denied the walkout was for "any other purpose than to obtain increased wages" and union recognition.

The Retail Grocers' appeal was made to Mayor Thomas E. Latimer, Gov. Hjalmar Petersen and Attorney-General Harry H. Peterson.

Feather Tosser Escapes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Frank Woody Hockaday, of Wichita, Kan., who invaded the office of Assistant Secretary of War Harry Woodring and showered him with feathers recently, was at liberty today after a brief confinement in St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Hospital attaches said Hockaday, self-styled peace campaigner who advocated "feathers instead of bullets," escaped through a window.

NEW YORK LABOR GROUP INDORSES ROOSEVELT

Unanimous Vote Also Includes Gov. Lehman — Green's Speech Draws Jeers.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The New York State Federation of Labor in annual convention gave noisy indorsement yesterday to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and President Roosevelt and heard the Governor declare for a constitutional amendment to obtain a minimum wage law for women in industry "if necessary."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said that labor's "most pressing need" was for a six-hour day and higher wages.

Indorsement of the Governor and President came after Green said Lehman was "the leader in your fight fo rhuman rights over property rights."

The vote on the indorsement resolution was unanimous.

Green was greeted with shouts of "That's not so, you know it's not so" when he accused the Committee for Industrial Organization of "bringing disorder and reprisal by substituting force for orderly procedure."

"They are forcing the decision of the minority upon the majority and against the already expressed opinion of the majority," Green said in criticism of the committee's action.

"It isn't so," came the shout.

"It is so, and you know it is so," Green shouted in reply.

George Meany, president of the State Federation, rapped for order as jeering increased. Gov. Lehman sat with his aids watching the disturbance.

Green earlier had declared that he was not opposed to industrial unions, but that leaders of the group advocating such organization were "violating majority rule, which had ordered them to stop."

Green said the six-hour day and higher wages were necessary because "machines are replacing human hands, costs are being lowered, profits increased and labor is being made the victim."

West Virginia Labor Federation Indorses Roosevelt.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Aug. 26.—West Virginia's State Federation of Labor yesterday voted indorsement of President Roosevelt, criticised policies of United States Senator Rush D. Holt and shouted approval of the John L. Lewis' campaign to organize the nation's steel workers into an industrial union.

The 600 delegates took this action after hearing speeches by Van A. Bittner, district president of the United Mine Workers and director of the Western steel unionization drive, and Senator M. M. Neely.

Holt "broke" with Neely and Van Bittner after his election in 1934 and vigorously opposed a new Guffey coal control bill at the last session of Congress after the original measure had been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

The resolution on Holt scored the Senator for alleged "desertion of labor, opposition to Senator Neely and President Roosevelt and to the substitute Guffey-Vinson coal control bill."

EAST SIDE GASOLINE DEALERS TRYING TO SET RETAIL PRICE

The National Petroleum Retailers of East St. Louis, including dealers in St. Clair County, met yesterday to plan a uniform price schedule, which will become effective next Wednesday. Under the present system major oil companies set the tank wagon price to retailers and the retail price. After Wednesday, the companies will set only the tank wagon price, leaving the dealers to fix retail prices. Stations are being leased by the major oil companies to dealers.

The effort to agree on uniform retail price is being made to prevent a price war. Present retail prices, which will remain in effect until Wednesday, are 15.1 cents a gallon, 18.1 and 20.1 for the three grades. About 125 dealers attended the meeting.

NAZIS REJECT SOME OF JEWS WHO RETURN FROM SPAIN

Passports Taken From Those Who Fled From Germany Because of Hitler.

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 26.—German Jews, returning from Spain, were ordered last night by secret police to leave the Reich within 24 hours if they fled from Germany after the Nazis came to power.

There were about 50 Jews among recent groups arriving in Munich.

Passports were taken from those deemed ineligible and returned at the border selected by the Jew. Exceptions were made for the sick.

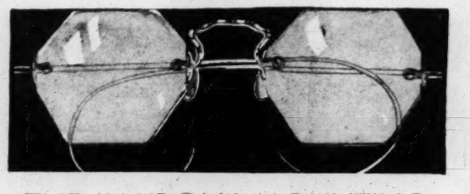

Police warned that if they were unwilling to leave they would be sent to "schooling camps," a term sometimes used for concentration camps.

Jews were not given financial assistance or food.

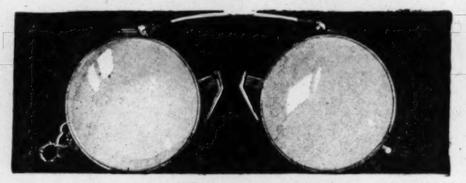

Killed in Leap From Plane.

CHAUMONT, France, Aug. 26.—A machine gunner was killed today because of the forced landing of a French bomber during army air maneuvers in Central France. The machine gunner leaped from the plane as it descended. His parachute did not open. The four other occupants of the plane remained in the craft and were not hurt.

CARDINALS 4, BEES 3 (5 Innings); WINFORD OPPOSES BUSH

Paul Dean Is Placed on the Voluntarily Retired List

PITCHER TO REST ARM; TO BE PAID FOR SEASON

Paul Dean is through for the season as a member of the Cardinals' pitching staff, which means that a severe blow has been struck at the Redbird pennant hopes. He has been placed on the voluntarily retired list.

Word of aproval by Commissioner K. M. Landis of Paul's application was received by the Cardinal office this afternoon from President Ford Frick of the National League.

Paul said today that Branch Rickey, vice president and general manager of the club, had called him into the office yesterday and told him to ask that he be put on the retired list; then to go home and rest his arm. The club assured him that he would be paid for the remainder of the season at the rate of his contract, said to call for more than $12,000.

"I certainly think that was nice of the club," Paul said, "and I sure do appreciate it. I hope I'll be able to do something next year to make up for it."

He plans to depart for his farm near Dallas, Tex., within a day or so.

Arm Trouble Since June.

Paul's trouble began in June when his pitching arm started to bother him. At first it seemed only a superficial ailment but when neither treatment nor rest did it any good, it was finally discovered that there was something seriously the matter.

X-ray photographs disclosed nothing but the pitcher complained that he could not throw a ball naturally because of the pain in his shoulder and then it was diagnosed as inflammation of the shoulder joint.

Meanwhile he made occasional attempts to pitch and once, in Cincinnati, it appeared that he was working out the trouble. But it came right back.

After that he rested for several weeks, then made an attempt to pitch in an exhibition game at Randolph, Mass. That time he looked so badly that he was sent to St. Louis for further treatment.

On a more recent trip he tried out the arm at Akron, O., and again was unable to pitch effectively.

Then Monday, with the Cardinals in a very bad way for pitchers, Manager Frisch asked Paul if he could pitch and Paul warmed up, and said he thought it would be all right. It was soon discovered, however, that he had nothing on the ball and when Pittsburgh routed him in the fourth inning it was plain that he was through for the season.

Rickey, sitting in a box that day, remiarked "That's not Paul Dean pitching out there; that's some other fellow."

Rickey's observation must have determined him upon the course he has followed and Paul is soon to be on his way, taking with him, in the opinion of many observers, a very large share of the Redbird flag hopes.

Paul, expected to be a 15 to 20-game winner for the Redbirds this season, has a record of but five victories and five defeats. His trouble first began June 17. He next pitched July 4 and then not again in a league game until Monday.

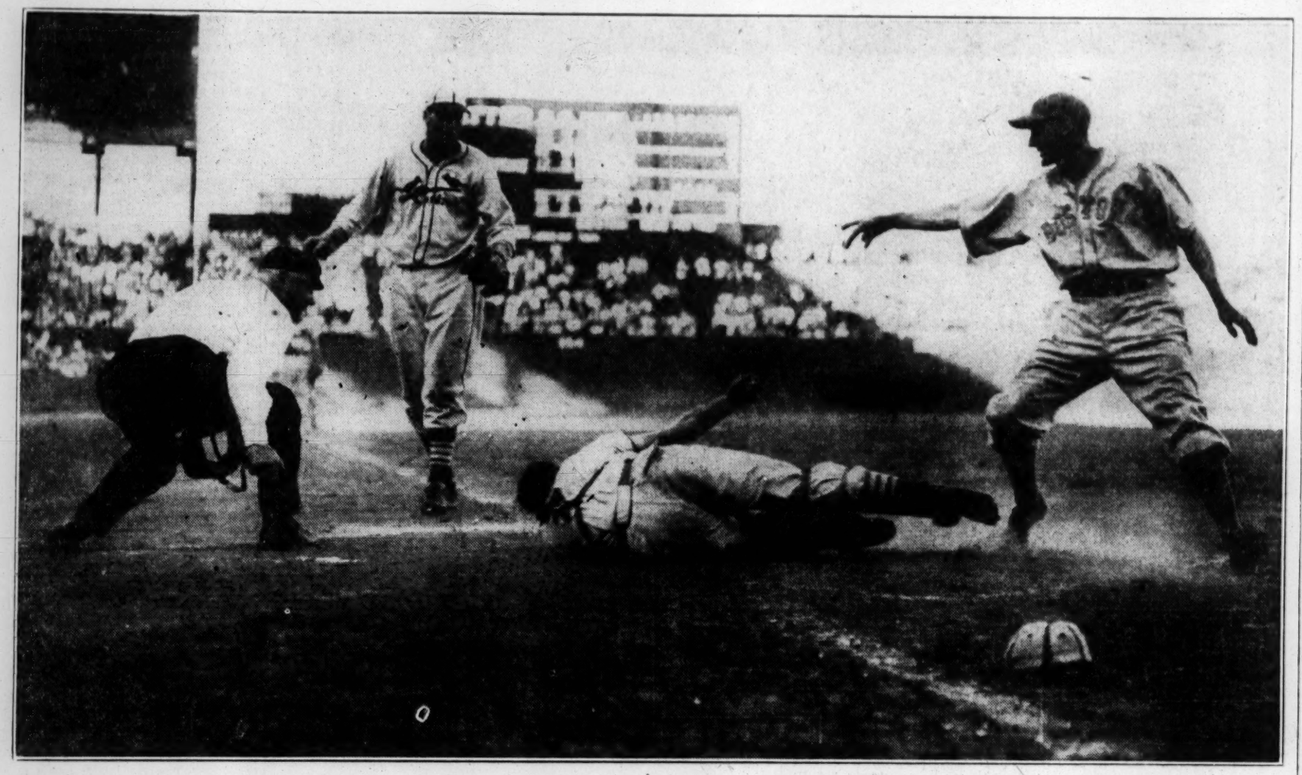

Sometime ago, the pitcher said he first noticed there was something the matter with his arm after a night game during a barnstorming tour which he and his brother, Dizzy Dean, made after the 1934 world series. He said he pitched a game at night against a team in Oklahoma and did well. Then he tried to pitch against the same club the next afternoon and discovered his arm was sore.

Rickey himself said just recently that he was pinning his hopes for the Cardinals' winning the flag this year on the recovery of Paul Dean, but since Paul has been out of the game the Cardinals have mustered all the additional pitching strength they could gather, including Flint Rhem, George Earnshaw and Silas Johnson. All three, however, have failed to fill the void left by Paul's absence.

Pippen Arrives From Coast.

Now the Cardinals have recalled Henry Harold (Cotton) Pippen, another right-hander, from the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast League, to bolster their faltering staff. Pippen arrived here by airplane last night.

Quigley Was There and Saw the Interference

Baxter Jordan, who sounds like a stage coach-driver, but who plays first base for the Boston Bees, was on third base in the fourth inning of the second game of yesterday's doubleheader with the Cardinals when Lee flied to Fullis. Fullis threw to the plate, a trifle wide, but Ogrodowski got the ball and by virtue of a desperate dive, tagged Jordan before he reached the plate. Dizzy Dean, moving from the mound to back up the play, stopped on the base path, and in the picture Jordan is pointing the finger at Dizzy and charging him with illegal interference. Umpire Ernest Quigley needed no such prompting. He saw the play and called Jordan safe because of Dizzy's tactics.

DAVIS DOUBLES TO DRIVE IN TWO RUNS IN FOURTH INNING

By W. J. McGoogan.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Aug. 26.—Manager Frankie Frisch presented another rearranged lineup as the Cardinals sought to break their losing streak which has now reached three games in succession, in the third game of the series with the Boston Bees.

Stuart Martin returned to second base, starting his first game in more than a month. Lyn King was in center field and Pepper Martin returned to right field.

It was "Johnny Mize day" and the prospect of the big, hard-hitting first baseman tossing a dozen or so autographed balls to the kids brought the boys and girls out by the thousands. There were perhaps 5000 of them in the park at game time but the paying customers were few and far between.

It was estimated that not more than 2000 were in attendance.

Cotton Pippen, the Cardinals' righthand pitcher, recalled from Sacramento, reported for duty and Manager Frisch said he probably would use him Friday in the first game of the series against the Phillies.

A report of the Cardinal casualty list—Dizzy Dean says his stomach is still bothering him; Pepper Martin says he has "charley horses" in both legs; Terry Moore has a badly skinned face which outside of marring his handsome features does not bother him but his right shoulder injured in his slide against Al Todd Sunday prevents him from throwing and that's the reason he remained on the bench; Frisch's leg is still painful and Virgil Davis is not entirely recovered from the injury to his wrist. Outside of that, all's well with the club.

Morgan, Magerkurth and Quigley were the umpires.

FIRST INNING — BOSTON — Warstler flied to Medwick. Eugene Moore tripled down the right-field line. Pepper Martin apparently thinking it was foul, walked after the ball. Jordan flied to King, Eugene Moore scoring after the catch. Berger grounded to Mize. ONE RUN.

THIRD — BOSTON — Warstler walked. Warstler was out stealing, Davis to Durocher. Eugene Moore flied to King. Jordan lined to Medwick.

CARDINALS—Stuart Martin got a double when Berger tried for a shoestring catch of his line drive. Pepper Martin flied deep to Berger, Stuart Martin going to third after the catch. Medwick was safe on Warstler's fumble, Stuart Martin scoring. Mize singled to right, sending Medwick to third. Davis doubled to center, scoring Medwick and Mize. Coscarart threw out Durocher, Davis moving to third. Garibaldi flied to Berger. THREE RUNS.

WILSON OF DODGERS KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS BY A PITCHED BALL

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—Rookie Eddie Wilson, Brooklyn Dodgers' right fielder, was hit on the head by a pitched ball in the fifth inning of this afternoon's game with the Pirates and was knocked unconscious.

One of Mace Brown's slants caught the major league freshman on the back of the head during a Dodger rally and felled him. He was carried off the field by teammates.

Wilson regained consciousness in the clubhouse. Dr. Gustav Berg described the injury as concussion and ordered his removal to St. John's Hospital.

FORMER MANAGER IN THE THREE-I LEAGUE ELECTROCUTED

By the Associated Press.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 26.—Harry Rigsby, who managed the Rockford baseball team in its last two years in the Three-I League, was electrocuted today when he came in contact with a 6900-volt transmission line while repairin ga transformer atop a pole on Route 173, four miles west of Caledonia.

Rigsby became a lineman for the Central Illinois Electric & Gas Co. after Rockford dropped its Three-I League franchise.

He formerly played in the Central and Western leagues.

CUBS WIN FIRST GAME OF DOUBLEHEADER

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The Chicago Cubs, making a desperate effort to keep pace in the torrid National League pennant race, this afternoon whipped Philadelphia, 4 to 2, in the first game of a doubleheader.

Although Bill Lee, on the mound for Chicago, yielded 10 hits, he bore down in the pinches. Passeau hurled for the Phils.

The Cubs scored all their four runs in a big third inning splurge made up of singles by Hartnett, Jurges and English and doubles by Allen and Herman.

Browns Beat Yanks, 5 to 2; Bell Drives In Four of the Runs

By James M. Gould.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Beau Bell's big bat spoke volumes here this afternoon as he drove in four runs and scored another to be the chief factor as the Browns defeated the Yankees, 5 to 2, to break a five game losing strak.

Ivy Paul Andrews also had plenty to do with the victory as he scattered eight Yank hits and pitched scoreless ball in the last seven frames.

Bell's Timely Triple.

The Yanks had a two-run lead until the fourth when the Browns scored once. Then, in the fifth, with Pearson pitching, Bell tripled with the bases filled and himself scored on a wild pitch. Malone worked the last three innings for New York. Bell had three of the Browns eight hits.

Crosetti opened the game for the Yanks with a literal bang—a homer—and in the second, Lazzeri drove Powell home with a double. The Browns were helpless until the fourth, when the first four men up hit safely. Only one run accrued for, with the bases filled, Bottomley struck out and Carey hit into a double play.

In the fifth, the Browns filled the bases with two down. This time, Bell came through. His triple sailed over Powell's head and three runs came in.

Andrews Stifles Rally.

Dickey and Selkirk singled to open the Yank sixth, but Andrews clamped down and got the next three including Pinch-hitter Ruffing. Malone then took up the New York pitching assignment.

The status quo remained unchanged throughout the remainder o fthe game despite the fact that Lazzeri opened the New York ninth with a double.

Phils Buy Player.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26—The Philadelphia National League baseball club announced last night the purchase of Fred Tauby, an outfielder, from the Dallas club of the Texas League, for delivery next spring. The Phillies will exchange an unannounced amount of cash and one player, to be named later, for the Canton, O., righthander.

WRAY'S COLUMN From Berlin

By John E. Wray.
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, August.

AMONG the scandals of the 1936 Olympics—and they set an alltime record numerically — was the supposed chagrin of Germany at the important role played by non-Aryans with the Mongolian and Ethiopian races putting on the bee, so to speak.

When Negroes were factors in winning seven of America's long list of first places, and the Japanese played such an important role in swimming events, the news-hounds were hunting for indignant reactions from the German press.

But such observations as this writer was able to read were mild. One German scribe wondered "what America would have done without the Negroes"—and the answer is obvious. Another thought it would have been better sportsmanship had the American advisers, knowing U. S. was far out in front of all competition in total points, used two white runners in the relay instead of Owens and Metcalfe.

* * *

Knew It Long Ago.

SCANDAL mongers tried to read into the actions of Der Reichsfuehrer in receiving only a few winners for special greeting, and in absenting himself on one day, a fear that he might have to exalt non-Aryan athletes.

But the face remains that there could have been nothing unexpected or embarrassing in the situation for Hitler in any Olympic development since it was known a couple of years ago that the Japanese and the Negroes would be important factors in winning.

Since the Olympic Games are world championships, it would be difficult indeed to draw race lines or to discriminate in favor of this or that ethnological group.

* * *

The Other Alternative.

THE other racial problem—the anti-Jewish sentiment — was not visible to the naked eye. In fact, the first and, as far as we 17 Athletes in Two Major Leagues Have Gone Through Every Inning Played by Their Clubs.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The Major League association of players who can stay in there and take it every day—Lou Gehrig, president—will show an increase in membership over 1935, if nothing happens to 17 hard workers before the close of the season.

Eleven players, six in the National League and five in the American, weathered every battle of the 1935 major campaigns. Only four of them, Gehrig, who with his world record string of 1773 consecutive games, is the only American League holdover; Gus Suhr of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Joe Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Dolph Camilli of the Phillies, are carrying on.

The other members of the 1935 chapter, Roger Cramer, then of the Athletics and now with the Boston Red Sox, the world champion Detroit Tigers' Hank Greenberg, Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox, Red Rolfe of the Yankees, Billy Herman and Augie Galan of the Cubs, Joe Moore of the New York Giants, and Ethan Allen, a member of the Phillies then, but a Cub now, have missed time this season because of injuries.

The 1936 list of possibilties includes three rookies, Leo Norris of the Phillies, and John (Buddy) Hasset of the jolly Brooklyn Dodgers, in the National League, and Roy (Beau) Bell of the St. Louis Browns in the junior organization.

Replacing Rolfe as Gehrig's stick-and-slug partner, is Frank Crosetti, the Yankee's shortstop. Lyn Larry, another shortstop, has been out there every day with Bell. Detroit, harried by injuries, has three stickers, Charley Gehringer, Goose Goslin, who is supposed to be nearing the end of his string, but doesn't act like it, and Third Baseman Marvin Owen. The other American Leaguers with perfect attendance marks are Bob Johnson of the Athletics and Billy Knickerbocker of Cleveland.

Suhr, who holds the National record—749 games to date, which entitles him to the vicepresidency of the association—heads a list of three Pirates. His mates are Outfielder Woody Jensen and Shortstop Arky Vaughan. Burgess Whitehead, the Giants' second baseman, is the remaining member of the group somewhat to the chagrin of observers who said, when Bill Terry gave the Cardinals Le Roy Parmelee and Phil Weintraub for him, that Whitehead was too fragile to stand steady employment.

This May Be a Winning Team Some Day

Steve Nielson, swimming instructor at the Westborough Country Club, believes in getting them young and working them hard, and his system has proved a good one, as his Westborough team has won the municipal championship in four of the last five years. The boys and girls in the picture are taking a community dive. Here Coach Nielson is putting a class of youngsters through their water paces. Dwight Hafeli, Washington U. football player, is Nielson's assistant.

Cards' Patched-Up Team Fails to Hold First Place

By Dent McSkimming.

That rough and tumble style of baseball that has characterized the Cardinals' games and won for the team the colorful, though possibly misleading nickname "Gas House Gang," has taken so heavy a toll in player strength that the team today is in a dangerously crippled condition with only a month of the season remaining.

Gas House Gang tactics may cost the Cardinals a pennant.

The batting order Manager Frankie Frisch was forced to place on the field for the doubleheader with the Boston Bees yesterday proves the point:

Terry Moore, Frisch, Pepper Martin and Virg Davis, all regarded as first-string men, were missing, directly or indirectly, due to injuries.

Two of the pitchers are suffering from sore arms—Paul Dean and LeRoy Parmelee; Dizzy Dean was physically weak and unable to go the full nine innings.

Running Out of Gas.

In keeping the St. Louis club on top the greater part of the season, the Cardinal players have fielded their positions recklessly, run the bases like Indians on the warpath; the pitchers have let loose with everything they had, and today the hospital list is almost as long as the number of actives.

Scoring 11 runs in the first inning of the first game, driving Si Johnson out of the box and continuing their slam-bang hitting against Ed Heusser, the Bees won in a riot, 20 to 3. They had a more difficult time in the second game, in which Dizzy Dean opposed Johnny Lanning, but, by getting rid of Diz in eight innings, they finally won in the ninth, 5 to 4.

As the Giants won from Cincinnati, the double loss dropped the Cardinals into second place, one and one-half games behind New York and two and one-half contests ahead of the third place Cubs.

After that terriffic first inning in which 15 Boston batters went to the plate, 10 getting safe hits and 11 scoring, the first game held little interest for St. Louis' partisan fans. They moaned and groaned through eight more innings and were glad when King grounded out in the Cardinal ninth to finish it.

Boston set a new record for the majors in the inning in getting 10 safe hits, seven of them doubles. The old mark of six was set by the Chicago Nationals, Sept. 6, 1883, and tied by Washington, June 9, 1934. However, the 11 tallies was not close to the peak performance of 18 in any inning, also made by the Chicago Nationals, Sept. 6, 1883. The most made by any club in any first inning was 15, by the Boston Nationals, June 18, 1894.

Dizzy Starts in Style.

Jerome Herman Dean, fresh from a three-days rest at home, and apparently fully recovered from a stomach disorder, opened up the second game with all the speed and fire of the National League's greatest pitcher at his best. He struck out the first two men to face him, and going into the fourth inning he had a lead of 1 to 0 and looked like a sure winner. His fast ball was cracking in Ogrodowski's glove like the explosion of a shell.

Then Jordan, the Bee's first baseman, reached Diz for a single to left—the first hit off him. Berger, a great hitter, flied out to left but Cucinello singled to left to put Jordan on third. Then Lee lifted a fly to Chick Fullis in short center, Jordan starting for home as the ball hit Fullis' glove. Dean, anticipating Fullis' throw to the plate, ran in to back up Ogrodowski in case of a bad throw. He didn't move very fast for he crossed the third base line just as Jordan came thundering in and the Boston runner swerved far inside the line. Ogrodowski gathered in Fullis' throw and, diving headlong, tagged Jordan before he reached the plate. But Umpire Quigley, upon an appeal from Jordan, declared the runner safe because of interference on the part of Dean. Boston players contended that Jordan had actually brushed against Dean. The run scored, despite heated argument, and the Cardinals were no longer leading. Diz got the side out and his mates came to bat in their fourth and presented him with three more runs.

Rip Collins and Joe Medwick hit home runs and Gelbert singled and Ogrodowski doubled to score the other.

Dean looked great in the fifth, pitching to only three batters, but he was staggering in the sixth when Boston scored on Jordan's double (a drive that kicked up the white foul line in right field, fair only by an inch) and Berger's single. Dean then was obviously tired and although he struck out two batters in the inning and had several others looking helpless, he was swinging desperate punches like a groggy prize fighter trying to land a lucky knockout. He skinned through the seventh but Gene Moore spoiled his day by opening the eighth with a home run drive to the top of the pavilion.

With one out, Berger again singled and so did Cuccinello, Diz retired Pinch Batter Thompson for the second out and was on the verge of victory when Coscarart slashed a single to center scoring Berger with the tying run.

Dean didn't get over the shock. He stretched out on the Cardinal bench at the close of the inning and when it was time to pitch the ninth said he couldn't make it, because of sheer exhaustion. Si Johnson relieved him and had two men out when the relentless Gene Moore singled, stole second and scored the winning run on Jordan's single.

Joe Medwick was on a great batting streak, too. At one stage of the afternoon he had hit safely in 10 out of 13 times at bat. No wonder he is leading the league.

Gene Fehlig Is Third in Junior Golf Tourney

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 26.—Dean Larsen, St. Paul, stole the show in the second day's play of the first national junior golf tournament at the Hillcrest golf course yesterday as he assumed a two-stroke lead over the field at the halfway mark with his 151 total.

Larsen started his second 18 of the tournament three strokes behind Bobby Graves, White Bear Lake, Minn., and blasted out a 74, two over par, to not only take the lead but pass his rival by two strokes.

Fifteen-year-old Gene Fehlig St. Louis, Mo., who had an 81 the first day, shot the best round of the tournament, 73, one over par. His 154 was good enough for third place.

Tied for fourth were John Haeg, St. Paul, and Billy Cooper, Rochester, Minn., each with 155s. Two Detroit (Mich.) players, Mike Uzelac and Drew Eggleston, were tied at 157.

DOUBLE HEADER DAYS BETWEEN GAMES

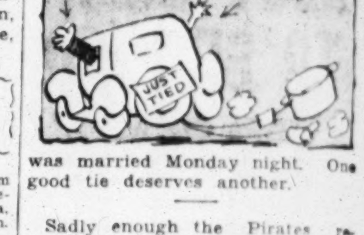

He Got Me, Pal.

OH, DIZZY dear and did you hear the news that's going round?
They say 'twas too much soda pop that knocked you off the mound.
For you it's usually a breeze to take them one and all,

"Dean Detton Throws Sonnenberg.

Think of that! We take it that Br'er Detton is now world champion of Salt Lake City.

The Pirates tied the Cardinals Sunday afternoon and Joe Medwick was married Monday night. One good tie deserves another.

Sadly enough the Pirates refused to stay tied. What they did to the Cardinals in the play-off Monday afternoon was nothing short of murder on the high seas.

The time has come, the Walrus said, to do something about those bozos coming into our ball orchard and knocking the old apple all over the place. We give you for today's game Pippen and Davis.

If Pippen and Davis (the latter a lineal descendant of old Ben himself) can't stop the apple knockers then it's time to rub out and start a new book.

"Babe Herman's Exit Mystifies Everybody."

The Hot Squat.

In those old timer games played under the rules of 1876 the umpire sits in a chair. And there have been not a few occasions in modern times when the customers would be perfectly willing to see the ump get the chair.

By the time Jim Braddock gets around to fighting again, maybe the customers will have forgotten all about him, and wonder who that old geezer is, anyway.

If it takes Jimmy's thumb a year to heal he might find that the pie is all gone by the time he tries to get a finger in it.

Like home runs, holes-in-one are getting so numerous that practically all the dealers have withdrawn their offers of prizes for those making the rara avis.

The aces propelled from the various tees

American restaurants hold the world record for the number of cuts that can be got out of one pie but reports from Berlin state that Germany walked off with the prize for the number of hot dogs that can be carved out of one dachshund. And they retailed at 20 cents the copy.

CHUCK KOCSIS, LOW AMATEUR IN OPEN, FAILS TO MAKE GRADE

Tom Draper Jr. Wins One Place Allotted St. Louis District With 142 From Five Entrants.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The results of a concentrated assault on par in the sectional qualifying rounds gave a definite indication today that it will take a good golfer to win the national amateur crown relinquished by Lawson Little.

Paced by the Walker Cup star, Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, close to 1000 golfers attempted to qualify on 29 fronts yesterday. One hundred and sixty succeeded after par and course records took a drubbing from coast to coast.

The Chicago district's 106 entries will battle for 16 places Sept. 1 because rain forced postponement yesterday and today.

Fischer, playing in the Boston district at the Country Club, Brookline, turned in the best 36-hole score in the nation, 137. On his morning round he knocked three strokes off the competitive record for the historic course with a 67.

He was only one stroke ahead of the New York district's pace setter for a field of 206—Frank Strafaci, 1935 public links champion, who carded a pair of 69's at Winged Foot.

The leaders at Washington—Roger Peacock—and at Portland, Ore.—Bud Ward of Tacoma, Wash.—shot 140's. It took 141 to lead at New Orleans, Atlanta and Cleveland.

Eight of America's Walker Cup squad scaled the qualifying grade, and only one—Harry Givan of Seattle—failed. Givan shot a 159 at New York, where his townsman and teammate, Albert (Scotty) Campbell, was second to Strafaci with 144. Reynolds Smith of Dallas was third with 145, and George Voigt of New York safe at 151.

Johnny Goodman of Omaha, former national open champion, led his home field; Walter Emery of Oklahoma City tied with Joy Cole at Tulsa, each shooting 75-67—142. Charlie Yates, at Atlanta, and Ed White of Austin, Tex., playing at Philadelphia, also qualified comfortably.

Two other Walker cuppers, Captain Francis Ouimet and George Dunlap, were among the eight former champions exempt from the sectional qualifying. Sixteen British players, including their 10 Walker Cup players, also were exempt, while six players in two California districts qualified two weeks

Prominent among players who failed to make the grade were Chuck Kocsis of Detroit, low amateur in the National Open; Billy Howell, former Walker Cupper from Houston; Young Billy Cordingly of Des Moines, Bobby Reigel of Richmond, and Sam Perry of Birmingham.

Draper Beats Cochran 2 Strokes.

Tom Draper shot a 36-hole score of 142, two under par, to qualify for the national amateur golf championship in the trial held at Norwood Hills Country Club yesterday with only five golfers competing. Draper, Washington University golf captain, was two strokes better than Bob Cochran, Norwood, who finished second.

Draper, playing his usual slow game, shot a 34 on one par on the first nine, while Cochran had a 36. On the par 37 back nine, Draper lowered par by two strokes, while Cochran was even better, getting a 34, so that Draper had a total of 69 to Cochran's 70 for the first 18.

On the fourth hole of the afternoon round, Cochran ruined his chances by taking a six on the par four hole. He finished with 39 while Draper had a par 37. Cochran came back with a 35 on the back nine, but Draper stayed close to him with a 36 and finished with a 73 to Cochran's 74.

Sid Salomon Jr., Westwood, Bill Edgar, Meadowbrook, and Dr. C. P. Leydecker, started play with Cochran and Draper in the morning, but only Dr. Leydecker played in the afternoon round. Salomon had a 77 and Edgar an 84 in the morning. Dr. Leydecker finished with a 152 total.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26.—Don Budge and Gene Mako, the United States Davis Cup doubles team, defeated Dave Jones, New York, and John Law, Pasadena, Cal., today to gain the semifinal round of the men's national team tournament at Longwood, 6—2, 6—4, 6—8, 6—4.

Frankie Parker of Spring Lake, N. J., and Gregory Mangin, the Newark (N. J.) veteran, shared the same semifinal bracket with Budge and Mako by out-battling John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., and Hal Surface, Kansas City, 9—7, 8—6, 6—0.

Only five of the 13 teams entered in the national interscholastic doubles tourney reported for action. Budd Turner and Eddie Brown of Baylor University, gained the final round by defeating Robert Snook and Harold Yeomans of Rensselaer, P. I., 6—0, 6—0, 6—1. Bobby Low and Harry Daniels of New York, qualified for the semifinals by defeating Nathan and Albert Ritzenberg of Georgetown University, 6—4, 8—6, 6—4.

WRAY'S COLUMN

know, only points scored by a Jewish athlete in the Olympic Games, were credited to Helene Mayer, German woman fencer, who gained a silver medal for second place.

Miss Mayer was teaching school in California, but accepted Germany's invitation to return and compete for the Deutschland fencing team.

As for Germany's supposed objection to using the two Negro stars, Owens and Mecalfe, in the 100-meter relay, it may be pointed out that the only alternative for the United States would have been to use the only two Jewish boys on the American team—Martin Glickman and Sam Stoller, reserve relay men.

• • •

That Phiffen Business.

THERE was tremendous agitation among Americans when the Olympic crowd began its "ausgepfiffen" stuff during the finals of the pole vault. Visitors were sure that Germany was giving us the razzberry. In fact, throughout the show, some of the reporters seemed to take the view that Germany was sore at us and waiting for a chance to rub it in.

The whistling, which can mean anything in America, had them going. And they were still cynical when a clipping from a Berlin paper revealed that—the language of the article—"In America it is a sign of encouragement to athletes to whistle" and it even described how to ausgepfiffen—put two fingers in the corners of the mouth and start blowing."

That poured oil on troubled waters. But a few days later, when during the 5000-meter race Salminen, the big Finn, began to dig his elbows into Don Lash and Murokosa, the stadium again burst into a fife-like shrilling of whistles, indicating beyond doubt, the severe disapproval of Salminen by the crowd.

• • •

And so, the scandalizers are still wondering whether we can safely interpret the whistling when United States athletes performed as approval, although whistling when the Finns fouled registered indignation.

• • •

Now It Comes Out.

THERE are those who say that the greatest scandal of the Olympic Games was the American Olympic Committee. And, of course, the principal proponent of this view is Eleanor Holm (Jarrett.)

The theme song selected for Eleanor's act was "Holm Sweet Home." Because of certain play girl activities in the lounge bar of the Olympic team's boat, Eleanor was dismissed and ordered home. She contended that she was free, white and more than 21, and entitled to all the privileges of a woman voter, including putting one foot on the rail. What she added when she went after the Olympic Committee following her dismissal from the team will have to be reserved for private transmission.

It was so hot that the committee soon discovered another weak spot in Eleanor's armor and suspended her from all amateur competition.

• • •

Worst Yet to Come?

THE right and wrong of the committee's act is still being internationally debated. Germany, strong for discipline, heartily approves the American committee's action. Certain editorials, however, contend that the committee did not have to go to extremes and furthermore that the inefficiency of its own representatives—chaperones and coaches—in letting the athlete get out of hand, fixes the blame on the committee.

The truth lies somewhere between these extremes because certainly the athlete showed little wisdom in repeating a violation of discipline after warning; while the committee could have handled the case more tactfully.

As to Eleanor, she long has been bordering on professionalism and capitalizing her swimming name to advance her interests in the movies.

• • •

OF all the great performers on whom America relied for firsts, the only real disappointment was the ponderous Jack Torrance, mightiest kugeltosser in the world, when all goes well.

Jack's best put was many feet short of his own world record and his failure gave Germany a first that it perhaps would not have had.

Torrance was not in condition and an ailment which prevented him from doing hard conditioning work kept him below par.

The Louisiana policeman weighed 320 in the altogether, and that was too much handicap for any athlete to overcome.

LOS ANGELES TEAM WINS LEGION TITLE

By the Associated Press.

BISMARCK, N. D., Aug. 26.—Los Angeles captured the Western Sectional American Legion Junior Baseball tournament here yesterday by defeating Seattle, 14-1, in the final contest.

McElroy, California pitcher, held Seattle batters to five hits while his teammates collected 16 blows off three opposing pitchers to coast to an easy victory.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 26.—Marion Miley continued her successful defense of her women's Western closed golf championship today, playing through a heavy rain to a 3 and 2 victory over Goldie Bateson of Milwaukee, the Wisconsin State champion, over the Country Club course.

The Lexington (Ky.) girl made the turn 4 up and then won the tenth, but lost three of the next five holes to be only 2 up.

On the 355-yard sixteenth, Miss Bateson was in a trap and Miss Miley, playing her usual careful, methodical game, got her par 4 to end the match.

Miss Bateson made a game fight against all the breaks, being confronted with four dead stymies on the first nine, none of which she was able to putt around.

Both players were soaked as they finished their game, Miss Miley disdaining even a raincoat as she plodded through downpours, which chased most of the other contestants to cover.

Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, three times Western closed champion, shot pars and birdies at Elizabeth Dunn, Indiana champion from Indianapolis, on the back nine to overcome a two-hole handicap at the turn to win, 2 and 1, and qualify to meet Miss Miley tomorrow.

MARANVILLE'S TEAM IS TIED FOR LEAD

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Aug. 26.—The Williamsport Grays shared first place today after a month of almost exclusive occupancy of the lead in the New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League.

Idle yesterday because rain prevented their game with Scranton at Williamsport, the Grays found themselves side by side with Walter Maranville's Elmira Pioneers, who made a clean sweep of their series with the Allentown Brooks, another pennant contender.

The Pioneers belted out a 5 to 2 win, mainly by virtue of Jack Kimball's five-hit twirling, and equaled the Grays' record of 31 victories and 21 defeats.

Hazleton lost to Wilkes-Barre by forfeit, 9 to 0, after the umpires, Sullivan and Moore, ruled the Mountaineers had delayed the game in the beginning of the eighth inning. At the time the Mountaineers held a 3 to 1 lead.

Hilda Haas Wins No. 20

Hilda Haas, gained her 20th victory of the season when the A. B. C. team defeated the South St. Louis Dairy by the score of 1 to 0 in a brilliantly played contest at National Softball Park last night. The unusual feature of the contest was the fact that 17 runners were left on base, 10 for the winners and seven for the losers. The First National Bank Club, which lost 14 consecutive games in the first-half season, have won four out of five contests in the second-half. Last night they defeated the 39th Street Markets, 8 to 3.

MRS. HALL SETS NEW MARK IN WINNING TRAPSHOOT TITLE

By the Associated Press.

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 26. — The "little fellows" had their inning today at the grand American trapshoot in a 200-target, 16-yard race for class championships, but the "talk of the town" still centered around yesterday's performances of Mrs. Lela Hall and Joe Heistand in retaining their North American clay target titles.

Hiestand, 29-year-old Hillsboro (O.) farmer, won the Class AA championship of America today when he broke 200 targets in a row to nose out a classy field.

Mrs. Hall, blue-eyed, 119-pound No. 1 citizen of the 144 residents of Strasburg, Mo., provided most of the fireworks in yesterday's show. She broke 196 of 200 clays from the 16-yard line, the greatest mark ever made in the battle for national feminine honors, and she did it under pressure.

Mrs. Marie Kautzy Grant of Fort Dodge, Ia., the nation's high average shooter in the feminine contingent, posted a 195, three above all previous records, while Mrs. Hall still had 50 targets to go. She needed 48 of those 50 to retain the title she won a year ago with 191 of 200.

Breaks 25 in a Row.

When Mrs. Hall missed two of the next 25 it looked as if she was through, but she blazed down the stretch without a miss and hung up the 196. Hiestand, the Hillsboro, O., farmer boy, repeated his performance of a year ago to win the men's championship. Just as in 1935, he broke 199 of 200 to tie with three others for the lead, and then beat them in a shoot-off.

Hale C. Jones of East Alton, Ill., the "champion of champions," finished second with 74 of 75 as Hiestand went "straight" through the 75 extra targets. Walter Beaver of Berwyn, Pa., the 1934 national clay target champion and 1933 Grand American Handicap victor, and C. C. Plummer of Flin Flon, Manitoba, were doomed on the first 25 extra targets, each missing once.

It was the third straight year Hiestand, Beaver and Jones tied for the crown, Hiestand winning twice and Beaver once.

The Western team of 10 defeated the East by 33 targets yesterday, avenging a defeat suffered a year ago. The East broke 1895 of the 2000 targets, while the West snared 1928.

The results:

COACHES TO DISCUSS RULES FOR ALL-STARS GAME WITH DETROIT

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, head coach of the college all stars, and George (Potsy) Clark, leader of the professional football champion Detroit Lions, will meet tonight for a debate on the rules to govern the meeting of their teams at Soldier Field next Tuesday night.

Bierman has declared his intention of holding out for the collegiate code, particularly the rule declaring the ball dead when any part of the ball-carrier's body, other than his hands or feet, touches the ground, and the location of the goal post 10 yards back of the goal line.

Clark is expected to request use of the professional rules governing the points. In the pro game, the goal posts are on the goal line, and a ball carrier may get up after going down and continue to advance until definitely stopped. With two goal-kicking artists, Earl (Dutch) Clark, and Glenn Pressnell, Coach Clark probably will put up a battle to have the goal posts on the goal line.

The pro rules on the two points were used in the 1934 and 1935 games between All Stars and the Chicago Bears. They played to a scoreless tie in the first game, but Jack Manders' place kick was the big factor in the Bears' 5 to 0 victory last year.

Newark Crowding Rochester Team For Second Place

By the Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 26. — The Rochester Red Wings, who were breezing along a few weeks ago at the head of the International League parade, now are faced with the problem of saving second place from the Newark Bears. Their hopes of overtaking Buffalo's fast stepping league leaders have almost vanished.

While Rochester has been slumping badly, the Bears have been just about holding their own and that's been enough to put them into the second-place argument. The only difference between them, after the Bears split last night's doubleheader, was a game and a half—three games in the lost column.

The Bears had a big chance to gain last night when they managed to get in 12 innings of a bargain bill before rain interfered while all the other contests on the evening's program were washed out. But after winning the seven-inning twilight contest, 6—5, they took a 3—1 setback in the floodlight game, halted after five innings.

After building up a 4—2 lead, the Bears nearly saw the first game go up in one big wallop as Shanty Hogan blasted an Albany homer with two aboard in the first half of the seventh. But the Senators couldn't stand prosperity. A couple of errors helped load the sacks, then Bill Baker smacked a single to bring home the winning runs.

Ray Phebus, Albany's mound ace, limited the Bears to four hits in the second clash while young Al Piechota couldn't make any headway at all. He yielded nine hits, bunched for scores in three different innings, walked two, hit two batsmen and committed a balk.

Owens, Hero of Four U. S. Triumphs at Olympics, Gets Gold Watch From Home Friends

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—Jesse Owens, a tired but happy youth, came home yesterday from his brilliant Olympic conquests to the thunderous cheers of his fellow townspeople.

The 22-year-old Negro flash grinned broadly and waved a handkerchief incessantly as the automobile in which he rode moved through streets flanked by thousands of admirers.

"Friends, I can't tell you how happy I am," said the record-breaking Ohio State University star at Public Auditorium, where the formal reception was held. "This is the greatest reception I've ever seen. It makes me very proud to be a citizen of Cleveland.

"As you know, my greatest ambition for a long time was to make the American Olympic team and run for the United States at Berlin. I consider I was very fortunate to come through the way I did."

Presented With Stop Watch.

"This is the sort of thing I dreamed about when Jesse showed such marvelous talent as a boy. Words can't express by feelings—this show is tremendous."

Gov. Martin L. Davey, Mayor Harold H. Burton and other officials paid tribute to Owens' sensational athletic feats. Owens was presented with a $500 gold stop watch with an engraved scroll carrying resolutions of the City Council lauding his triumphs. Publicly subscribed funds purchased the watch.

In Cleveland's Negro district the welcome reached its noisiest peak. Hundreds of colored boys and girls, dressed in their "Sunday best," sat along the curbs. M any rooftops were crowded with enthusiastic greeters. The throng shouted and whistled as those "who knew him when" sighted the beaming Owens.

A pelting hail and rain storm broke as the parade reached the heart of the city and the slow-moving procession became a "home stretch dash." Sirens screeching, the police motorcycle escort cleared a path in and out of safety zones and around street cars to the city's auditorium.

There the crowd, estimated by police at 4000 persons, heard the athlete say: "You say Cleveland is proud of me. I'll turn the tables and say with sincerity that I'm very proud of Cleveland."

GEORGIA TEAM GAINS FIFTH TRIUMPH IN SEMIPRO TOURNAMENT

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 26.—Buford, Ga., trounced Arkansas City, Kan., 12 to 0, last night in the national semi-pro baseball tournament here, becoming the only undefeated team in the meet.

Abe White of Buford turned in the best pitching performance of the tournament, allowing Arkansas City only three scattered hits, and being credited with 10 strikeouts.

It was Buford's fifth victory and Arkansas City's first defeat.

The game was called at the end of the seventh under a rule which provides that a team behind 10 runs or more at that point must forfeit.

Feller Taught Baseball by His Grandfather and Father

By the Associated Press.

VAN METER, Ia., Aug. 26.—Seventeen-year-old Bob Feller, who elbowed his way into major league baseball Sunday with the Cleveland Indians by striking out 15 St. Louis Browns, is on his way toward realizing the thwarted hopes of his father and grandfather.

Father William Feller and grandfather Edward Forret yearned to be major league ball players, but neither was good enough. Young Bob, who will not be a senior in high school until this fall, is, off his one, sensational appearance in the big time, all that Feller Sr. and grandfather Forret once hoped to be.

As far as the Browns could see Sunday, the youngster was out there by himself. Actually, however, he showed them speed, control and steadiness developed by his father and grandfather since he was big enough to throw a baseball.

"He was doing at Cleveland what his grandad and his dad both wanted to do when they were young men," Farmer Bill Feller said today, "play big league ball. But neither of us was good enough.

"So, Bob's grandad started talking baseball to him, almost as soon as he started to walk. Both of us played catch with him just as soon as he was big enough.

"Of course, we had the farm work to do (Feller farms 320 acres), but at the noon hour, or after the chores were done we'd let him throw to us. Bob also rigged up a ring through which he'd pitch. And after he got bigger, we laid out a pitcher's mound and a plate behind the barn.

"He learned to throw a curve pretty much of his own accord. I just kept insisting that he get control, and learn to keep his head, for anybody knows the minor leagues are full of pitchers with plenty of stuff they can't get across the plate.

"When one of his curves fooled me, slipped through my mitt and cracked three ribs, I realized the boy was developing fast."

"Bob's still got to learn to depend on his support," his father said today. I guess he still figures like he told me once:

"'Dad, I know the other fellows won't score if they don't get on bases.'"

KINNEY CONSTITUENTS WAIT FOR THEIR DIMES

Down-and-Outers Assemble Daily but, Since Primary, Distribution Is Once a Week

Every afternoon about 5 o'clock, a crowd of shabbily dressed men gathers in the alley just west of the St. Francis Hotel, 604 Chestnut street, and waits hopefully. They are some of the constituents of State Senator Michael Kinney, whose office is across the street in the Calumet Building, and they are hoping to be taken care of in the manner loyal constituents become accustomed to before primary election day.

For about three weeks before the primary Aug. 4, a man and his son, said to be political workers for Senator Kinney, came out of the hotel every afternoon and gave away nickels and dimes to the down-and-outers in the alley. On election day, Senator Kinney, facing a hard fight for renomination against the opposition of Jimmy Miller, boss of the Fourth Ward, himself gave out dimes in front of the polling place in the basement of the old Courthouse.

About Once a Week Now.

But the generosity of politicians, as these men have learned, is sometimes influenced by the season, and since the election the largess has been distributed only about once a week. And there has been some grumbling about it.

There were about 70 of the "floaters" in the alley Monday afternoon, seated on the cobblestones in little groups with backs against the wall of the hotel, or standing listlessly about, saying little, most of them not even interested in the ball game scores being posted on a blackboard in the handbook shop at the corner of the alley. At about 5:15, some of them began to walk away.

"Giving up?" a Post-Dispatch reporter asked one of them. "Yeah," said the man, "I guess there won't be nothing given out today. The fellow that hands out the money passed the alley a few minutes ago and he didn't stop."

Most of the down-and-outers showed their gratitude on election day—that is, they voted for Senator Kinney and his slate—one of them told the reporter.

He was Charles Craig, old Belfast Irishman. He was one of the group of homeless, who lounge on the worn stone ledge of the areaway on the shady eastern side of the old Courthouse in the afternoon, and sleep on the west side at night, completing the picture of decay presented by the dank, gloomy building the grassless ground the forlorn little trees.

Nickels for Unknowns.

He had shrewd blue eyes and grinned cynically as he puffed on a corn-cob and talked about politics as practiced in the Fifth Ward. Sure he voted for Kinney. Might as well as not. He had been in the money line a half dozen times and gotten a dime each time—the old-timers were given a dime and the unknowns only a nickel but he had known Mike Kinney for 20 years.

Did anyone ask him to vote for Kinney when he got the dimes? "No" he said. "That's taken for granted. We all knew where the dimes were coming from. Nobody said anything to us."

But how about the newcomers, the transients who weren't acquainted with local politics? "The rest of us would tell them," Craig said. "No, nobody checked up on us to see if we voted for Kinney. But most of us did. A dime means a lot to us. The booze-hounds can buy a half-pint of whisky with it, and for 15 cents you can get a lot to eat at restaurants around here."

Sandwich in one hand and his Camel in the other, Lou shows little of the strain of the 500-mile grind . . . 4½ hours behind the wheel of a roaring speed bullet, with every muscle and nerve tensed to the limit. Here is an epic example of how Camels at mealtime and after aid digestion and encourage a sense of well-being. In Lou Meyer's own words: "After all that pounding, I'll hand it to Camels for setting my digestion to rights! They make my food taste better and help it to digest easier. As long as I have a Camel, I know I'm headed for a swell feeling of well-being."

NEW YORK SUBWAY MOTORMAN tells of his experience. "I like Camels with my meals and after," says Clyde Smith. "I eat what I want . . . when I want it . . . and then smoke Camels. I'll certainly back that phrase, 'Camels set you right!'"

NEWS HAWK. Peter Dahlen, on one of the big newspapers, says: "Hurry, hurry—that's the life of a newspaper man—a life of irregular hours—irregular eating. It's swell the way Camels help my digestion—make my food taste better and set better. Camels don't frazzle my nerves."

Others have found that good digestion and a sense of well-being are encouraged by Camels . . . so

"for Digestion's Sake . . . smoke Camels!"

"I'LL TELL YOU WHAT I DO," says Miss Claire Huntington, expert stenographer, "to aid my digestion. I just make it a point to smoke Camels while I'm eating and afterwards. And my food tastes ever so much better and digests easier. Camels set me right!"

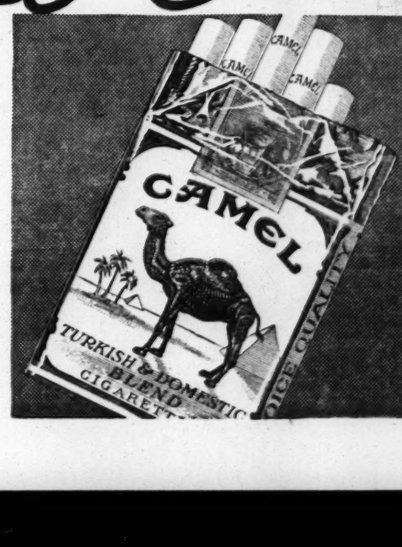

Good digestion and a sense of well-being are helpful allies for every one!

PEOPLE in every walk of life . . . men and women . . . agree that Camels ease strain and encourage digestive well-being. Millions of smokers find that "Camels set you right!"

Make Camels a part of your dining. The enjoyment of smoking Camels is followed by increased flow of the digestive fluids . . . alkaline digestive fluids . . . so necessary to good nutrition.

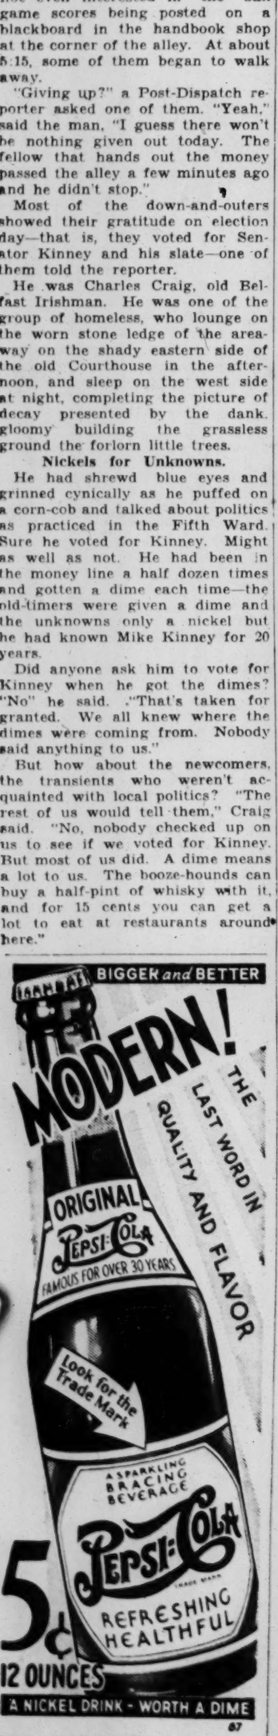

Camels never tire your taste or get on your nerves. And they bring you a cheery "lift" when you need it most.

ILLIAM BULLITT, NVOY TO RUSSIA, ETS FRENCH POST

Advocate of Recognition for Soviet Union to Succeed Jesse Straus As Ambassador.

TO TAKE UP DUTIES ABOUT SEPT. 20

Resignation of New York Department Store Head, Appointed in 1933, Based on Ill Health.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — William C. Bullitt, envoy to Soviet Russia, was named Ambassador to France yesterday by President Roosevelt after the President announced the resignation of Ambassador Jesse I. Straus, who is ill.

The appointment of Bullitt, who will sail for Europe about Sept. 20, removes from Moscow one of the Soviet Union's earliest American supporters. President Roosevelt, in 1933, gave him the job of cementing friendly relations with the Russians after 16 years of diplomatic frigidity.

Bullitt will not return to Russia before assuming his new duties. Loy Henderson, counsellor of the embassy, will remain in charge at Moscow until a successor is appointed.

Straus, who was appointed Ambassador to Paris on March 17, 1933, returned only recently to the United States on leave. In his letter of resignation he said his physician had ordered him to take a complete rest for six months.

Ambassador Straus' Letter.

Straus told Mr. Roosevelt that "Though my official association with your administration is, I fear, thus ended, my interest in the campaign will continue unabated, and I only wish I were well enough to take an active part, as I did in 1932."

Bullitt sought, in 1919, to persuade President Wilson to extend recognition to the new Russian Government and his eventual selection by President Roosevelt as the first American Ambassador to the Soviet Union was considered a reward for his years of recognition advocacy.

Bullitt won personal popularity during his stay at the Kremlin, where he introduced polo into the Red army and his subordinates taught Russians to play baseball. A friend of Maxim Litvinov, Russian Commissar for Foreign Affairs, Bullitt took a leading part in the negotiations prior to Russian recognition in 1933.

On Ford Peace Ship.

Formerly a newspaper man, Bullitt came to the capital during the World War, became known as one of Edward M. House's "bright young men." He went to Europe on Henry Ford's peace ship, and later went abroad with President Wilson to attend the Versailles peace conference.

There he persuaded the President to send him to Russia to survey conditions. After talking to Lenin he returned to Paris with a peace agreement from the Soviet. When Wilson turned it down he resigned in protest. Returning to the United States he testified at length before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the Paris negotiations.

President Roosevelt, announcing Straus' resignation yesterday, made public a letter in which he commended the New York department store head for "the splendid service which you have given the United States as Ambassador to France."

The President said: "If this administration shall be continued for another four years, I shall count on you returning as a part of it."

How Two of Founding Fathers Of Soviet Government Became Its Enemies and Were Put to Death

LEON KAMENEV.

Kamenev and Zinoviev Always "Professional Revolutionists"—Plotted, Then Repented; Last Time It Came Too Late.

MOSCOW, Aug. 26.—Soviet newspapers demand continued purges of counter-revolutionaries as they praise the state for putting to death 16 conspirators condemned for plotting to overthrow the Soviet Government at the behest of the exiled Leon Trotzky.

Meetings of workers continued yesterday to praise all concerned for executing the conspirators. Observers termed the secret executions, one of the boldest Bolshevik moves since the Czar and his family were put to death in a cellar in 1918.

Tried by Men They Led.

Leon Kamenev and Gregory Zinoviev, two of the executed were founding fathers of the Russian revolution. They had worked closely with Lenin, through prison terms, exile and underground agitation. After his death they had shared supreme power in Moscow for a few years with Stalin. Both men, once leaders of the Russian proletariat, were tried before the very men they had led to victory in 1917.

But two questions remain to puzzle the foreign world, bewildered by the curious trial. How could two leaders of a party known for its discipline and singleness of purpose be guilty of such treachery against their former comrades? If they are not guilty, what sinister pressure has forced them to stand in the small and crowded courtroom, before foreign correspondents, and compete with each other in the fervency of their confessions of complete and unmitigated guilt?

"Professional Revolutionists."

The answers to both questions may be suggested by the reply each of the accused had given many times to Czarist tribunals before 1917 when they were asked their occupation: professional revolutionists.

Both men were born in the same year, 53 years ago. Both joined the Bolsheviks, a hunted, underground conspiracy of workers and students, while they were still adolescents, before they could have voted had there been a vote. Both men, from the days of their boyhood, had dedicated themselves to the career of agitator, revolutionist and organizer of men in secret places.

Until now the Bolsheviks had never executed one of their own leaders. But from the first days of November, 1917, the leaders of all pre-war revolutionary parties in Russia have faced the accepted perils of their profession. Fanny Kaplan, a Social Revolutionary, shot three bullets into Lenin's neck on Aug. 31, 1918. Boris Savinkov, who had thrown bombs at a Grand Duke and at the Governor-General of Moscow, organized a terrorist campaign against the Bolsheviks and then, after a repentance before Soviet judges so eloquent that foreign reporters could not question its authenticity, threw himself from the window of his cell in the famous Ogpu prison on Moscow's Lubianka.

"The Master Agitator."

Trotzky, accused in the recent trial as the master mind of the conspiracy, described Ziinoviev a few years ago as "an orator of extraordinary power" and "the master agitator of the revolution." His high tenor voice, rumpled hair and thick lips set in a pugnacious face fitted the eloquence with which he could sway a crowd of workers in one of the industrial suburbs of 1917 Petrograd.

"Enemies used to call him the greatest demagogue among the Bolsheviks," Trotsky wrote. "This was their usual way of paying tribute to his strongest trait—his ability to penetrate the heart of the demogogues and play upon its strings. It is impossible to deny, however, that being merely an agitator, and neither a theoretician nor a revolutionary strategist, Zinoviev, when he was not restrained by an external discipline, easily slid down the path of demagogism. . . . The agitator of the revolution lacked revolutionary character."

Each of the accused was 20 years old when the first great schism split the Russian Social-Democratic party in 1903. Both followed Lenin into the faction which took the name of Bolshevik after that early quarrel. Habits of disagreement, conspiracy and minority action die hard. Even after Lenin had returned in 1917 from Switzerland to knit Russia's reassembled exiles and prisoners into an effective, political group, Kamenev and Zinoviev reserved the right to snipe at the party's program.

Resigned After Insurrection.

On Nov. 17, ten days after the Bolsheviks had seized power in Petrograd, Zinoviev and Kamenev resigned together from the party's central committee, convinced that the insurrection had been premature. Lenin won them back, but not even the gradual consolidation of Soviet power could remake minds already fixed in the pattern of conspiracy.

Born Apfelbaum, Zinoviev was a fugitive from his own country before he was 20, studying law at the University of Berne in Switzerland and wanted by the Czarist police. He took his name from that of a girl he met and married there, like him, a political fugitive, Zena Levin. In 1905 he was back in the working-class districts around Petrograd's Putilov steel mills, and his record for the next dozen years is the same bare recital of prison terms, exile, escapes, that filled the police dossiers of nearly all the 1917 leaders.

More than Kamenev, he shared in the pre-1917 elaboration of a campaign of revolutionary strategy. He took part with Lenin in the Zimmerwald and Kienthal conferences in Switzerland in 1915 and 1916 which laid the basis for Bolshevik policy after the abdication of the Czar. In April, 1917, he rode across Germany into Finland in the famous sealed train which the German army had provided for Lenin in the shrewd conviction that, returned to Russia, he would agitate against the war.

He Fled With Lenin.

During the long summer months of 1917, when no party dared to take control of Russia, Zinoviev wavered with Kamenev and the majority of the Bolshevik party. He fled with Lenin to shelter in a haystack after the abortive July revolt, but only the actual seizure of power by the workers in November convinced him that the time was ripe for revolution.

In March, 1918, he was elected president of the Leningrad soviet of workers' and peasants' deputies, a job he was to hold until 1926 and which was his chief political

TROTZKY PLACED UNDER STRICTER WATCH IN NORWAY

Faced With Immediate Arrest, Soviet Exile Agrees to Cease All Revolutionary Activity.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 26.—Threatened with immediate arrest, Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist exile, signed an agreement today to adhere to strict new regulations which will permit him to remain in Norway until Dec. 18.

The declaration pledged Trotzky, who has said it was his "duty" to avenge the 16 Trotzkyites executed in Moscow this week for a plot against Josef Stalin, to refrain from any form of revolutionary activity.

The chief of the state police, accompanied by eight officers and a chief of the Alien Office, arrived at Trotzky's house at Hoenefoss today and ordered him to sign the agreement immediately or face arrest.

At the same time police took up positions around the house, indicating Trotzky in the future will be kept under strict surveillance.

Trotzky, who was accused by the Soviet Government of directing the Russian plotters, yesterday offered to stand trial before a court in either Norway, Denmark or France, at which the Soviet might present witnesses to support their charges that he had engaged in terroristic activities.

The decision followed a report from the Department of Immigration that Trotzky had broken the conditions on which he was permitted to enter this country by directly advising anti-Government activity abroad, including a movement to set up Soviets in France to prepare for a French revolutionary movement.

Dec. 18 was the original deadline for Trotzky's departure from Norway, and the Ministry decided to leave it unchanged if he would sign the new declaration, to refrain from any form of revolutionary activity, direct or indirect, verbal or written, and including letters. Under it Trotzky's literary activity while in Norway would be limited to historical works.

RUSSIAN TROOPER KILLED IN SKIRMISH ON BORDER

Announcement of Fight With Japanese Made at Army Headquarters in Manchoukuo.

TOKIO, Aug. 26.—A communique from Japanese army general headquarters at Hsinking, Manchoukuo, announced tonight that a Soviet Russian calvaryman had been killed in a Japanese-Soviet skirmish on the Eastern Manchoukuo border, near Tungning.

The communique said about 20 Soviet cavalrymen, having crossed the river into Manchoukuan territory, encountered a Japanese army patrol at 11:30 a. m. today. The calvarymen fired first, the communique said, and the Japanese replied. The Russians were said to have retreated, leaving one body behind. There were no Japanese casualties.

Later, the report continued, the cavalrymen, reinforced by 70 others and two machine guns, concentrated near Poltavko and threatened to re-cross the frontier. Manchoukuo made protests to Soviet diplomatic authorities.

Last Monday, the Japanese military forces in Manchoukuo announced the execution of nine members of a "secret Soviet shock battalion" near Hailar, and the imprisonment of 28 others.

The men were accused by the Japanese of planning to terrorize the Manchoukan border country.

SIX POLICEMEN, FIVE CHINESE KILLED IN RIOT AT CHENGTU

Crowd Attacks Stores Selling Japanese Goods; Nanking Denies Laxity Charge.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, China, Aug. 27.—(Thursday). — A foreign office spokesman today said six Chinese policemen were killed in a vain attempt to stop a crowd which attacked a party of four Japanese at Chengtu Monday, killink two and injuring the others. Five rioters were killed, he added.

The spokesman said this answered Japanese allegations of laxity on the part of Chengtu authorities in protecting the Japanese. The mob, he said, destroyed the hotel at which the Japanese were staying and demolished several other business structures. It was reported at Shanghai the rioters smashed windows of stores handling Japanese goods. Local Chinese authorities were said to have expressed regret to the Japanese consulate at Chunking.

Further Chinese reports said the military had taken control at Chengtu as a result of continued anti-Japanese activity in which a Chinese merchant, allegedly dealing in Japanese goods, was dragged to public safety headquarters by a mob which demanded he be shot as a "traitor."

The Japanese said the two men were killed by a mob enraged by the proposed reopening of a Japanese Consulate. China has opposed re-establishment of the Consulate.

FOSSIL OF HAIRY ELEPHANT IN STATE 25,000 YEARS AGO

Piece of Eight-Inch Tooth Found in Digging Silo Trench Near Harrisonville.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 26.—Fossil remains of a prehistoric animal found recently on a farm near Harrisonville, Mo., were identified yesterday by paleontologists as those of a species of hairy elephant, estimated to have lived at least 25,000 years ago.

Dr. Raymond G. Stone, chairman of the biology department at Kansas University, made the identification from the fossil fragment removed from a silo trench on the Bill Van Sandt farm, nine miles south of Harrisonville.

The fragment was a section, about three inches in diameter, from a tooth estimated to have been about eight inches long, six inches high and four inches thick.

Claude Hibbard, assistant curator of vertebrate paleontology at the university, said the fossil was, as far as he knew, the first of a hairy elephant found in Missouri.

DR. SCHACHT SEES BLUM, OTHER FRENCH MINISTERS

He Is Thought by Some to Have Discussed Possible Return of Colonies to Germany.

PARIS, Aug. 26. — Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German Economics Minister, conferred today with Emile Labeyrie, Governor of the Bank of France, Premier Leon Blum and other ministers of the French Government, and was believed in some quarters to have discussed possible return of colonies Germany lost after the World War.

Although German sources said Dr. Schacht was here only to make a "courtesy call," informed observers believed the Reichsbank president would broach the colonial question. He has set no definite date for departure, and it was believed this would be determined by the reception given his proposals.

RIFF LEADER STILL IN EXILE

French Official Denies Abd-El-Krim Has Fled From Island.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Widely published reports that Abd-El-Krim, one-time Riff leader of a Moroccan revolt, had escaped from exile, caused a sensation in Paris yesterday, but the Minister of Colonies, after an investigation, declared Krim had not fled from the Isle of Reunion, in the Indian Ocean.

The Moroccan chieftain has lived in exile since his defeat by the French in his attempt to found an independent republic in North Africa.

France Builds Up Its Defenses Due to Hitler's Army Expansion

Convinced That Decree Increasing Training Periods Will Lead Germany Into War.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—France has begun intensive plans for strengthening its military defenses. Virtually all sections of French opinion asserted Chancellor Hitler's latest decree increasing military training periods from one to two years moved Germany toward war.

Gen. Marie Gustave Gamelin, Chief of Staff, and other military leaders conferred with Premier Blum and it was announced that effects of the Nazi decree creating an army twice the size of France's were being studied in the hope of reaching "rapid, practical decisions."

Officials said a high military committee including army Generals, Premier Blum and Yvon Delbos, Minister for Foreign Affairs, was continuing "serious consultations" but any decisions were not disclosed.

The suggestion was advanced unofficially that France convert its new public works program into reinforcement of national defense and possibly including creation of semi-military organizations.

Estimate of Geerman Forces.

French statisticians estimated that Germany, in addition to regular units which they placed at 1,365,000, would have 400,000 Nazi militiamen and 275,000 in labor camps organized along military lines.

Tension was increased by French dispatches from Warsaw reporting a recent interview between Hitler and Admiral Nicholas Horthy, Regent of Hungary, concerned with forthcoming proclamation of compulsory military service for Hungary.

Informed quarters said increasing French military service beyond two years definitely was out, but agreed the nation probably would move toward an increased mechanical effectiveness of the army and would strengthen military alliances, especially with Russia and Poland.

France and Poland.

The shift of Poland toward collaboration with France was thought here to counterbalance any apparent new attraction of Hitler for some other Eastern countries.

Informed sources said that military talks betwen Gen. Edward Rydz-Smigly, Polish Army Inspector, and Gen. Gamelin this month probably would be followed by steps to afford Poland Economic advantages.

Poland gave assurance of continued French-Polish military alliances at these conversations.

The Government, it was asserted, would continue a conciliatory policy but most quarters doubted that much progress would be made toward improving French-German friendship.

Official circles said no diplomatic protest against the German army increase was contemplated since Hitler "clearly has been going his own way since he began violating the Versailles and Locarno treaties."

Newspaper Comment.

The newspaper Excelsior placed German military strength for 1937, including semi-military organizations, at 2,450,000 men.

Le Journal asserted, "Nobody in Berlin seriously believes the Soviets are planning a war of aggression. Germany wants to be ready for her territorial claims."

The Chamber's Communist leader, Maurice Thorez, disclosed a new attitude of the French leftists in praising the army's chiefs. He declared Germany's action "strikingly shows the new danger toward dominance of Europe which might draw France into a war."

Conservative sections of the French press urged the Government to avoid a war between European Fascists and anti-Fascists by adhering to a policy of strict neutrality in the Spanish civil war.

BRITAIN, EGYPT SIGN ALLIANCE AND AMITY PACT

New Treaty Provides for Strengthening Suez Canal and Other Defense Forces.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—After five months of negotiations, Great Britain and Egypt signed a treaty of amity and alliance today.

Although the full terms of the pact will not be made public until Friday, it was known it provides for stronger forces to protect the Suez Canal for Britain and respects Egyptian claims to sovereignty.

British troops, it was understood, will evacuate Cairo, where they have been stationed for more than a half century, to be quartered on the banks of the Suez Canal when barracks there are ready. The British military air base and depot at Alexandria, however, will be maintained and strengthened.

The Egyptian Air Force will be strengthened and British military instructors will transform the Egyptian army—now little more than a glorified police force—into a strong, mobile, and well-equipped militia. In the event of war, all Egyptian defenses will be at Britain's disposal.

Egypt has abandoned most of its claims on the British-Egyptian Sudan. This territory, of strategic importance because it links Egypt to the British colonies of Central and East Africa, will continue to be governed mainly by Englishmen. Egypt, however, will share, and a battalion of Egyptian troops will be stationed at Khartoum.

Egypt will seek to end the existing extra-territorial rights which its 250,000 foreign residents enjoy, and the foreign population, which

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Effect of New Revenue Act.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

STOCKHOLDERS in corporations throughout the United States are not fully aware of what the Revenue Act of 1936 may mean to them. It will probably cause more changes in corporate management and fiscal policy than any legislation of this generation.

The act is rather abstruse and a bit ambiguous, but its drastic effect on certain types of basic management decisions may be illustrated by a simple hypothetical case. It may be assumed that the board of directors of a corporation has before it the disposition of taxable income for the year ending Dec. 31, 1936, estimated in advance to be $100,000. How should the board dispose of these earnings?

By paying the $100,000 all out during 1936 in cash dividends, the company's normal income tax would be $13,840, with no surtax on undistributed profits. If the payments are made in cash, the $100,000 will be lost to the corporation for its future use. Payment of no dividends, however, would add a surtax on undistributed profits of $17,622.80, bringing the total levy for the year up to $31,502.80, or at the rate of 31.5 per cent.

The board might feel it advisable to pay only $50,000 in dividends and reduce by $50,000 a current bank loan, but as the Government would collect an extra $4936.60 in taxes if the earnings are used to pay indebtedness instead of dividends, it is obvious that the bank would be requested to renew the loan.

If the corporation suddenly had an unusually favorable opportunity to buy the land and buildings it occupied for $80,000, the directors would discover that the purchase was not necessarily a bargain—the Government would collect $12,262.80 as a commission on the transaction in the form of a surtax on the undistributed profits so used.

Likewise, the board might consider the time appropriate for expansion by installing new machinery or replacing obsolete equipment, budgeting $60,000 of current earnings to be spent during the year for this purpose and paying the balance of $40,000 in dividends. Before signing the contracts, they would discover the actual cost of the machinery to be $67,139.60, because the Government would impose a levy on this transaction as a surtax on that part of the earnings not distributed.

A further cost scrutiny shows that for every dollar of current earnings paid for insurance premiums on the life of officers, the Internal Revenue Department would collect approximately 32 cents, such premiums not being deductible as expense in figuring either normal income taxes or surtaxes, when the company is the beneficiary.

Rain Crow: Yellow-Billed Cuckoo.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I NOTE that one of your correspondents wants to find out what sort of bird a rain crow is, stating that she has been unable to catch sight of one, although she has heard them often.

The bird which we call a rain crow in this section is the yellow-billed cuckoo (coccyzus Americanus). It is about the size of a turtle dove, but may appear somewhat larger, because it is a slender bird, and rather tall.

These birds are not easily seen because of their protective coloring of dull brown, and because they are very timid. However, we see them in the trees near our house almost every day during the summer.

For a Political Cleanup.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE been reading with a great deal of interest the part your paper has had in exposing the registration scandal; also the splendid editorials you have written asking that the situation be cleaned up.

I think it is the duty of every red-blooded American to lend you support in this great campaign for a housecleaning in our political situation. However, such practices as are found in the larger cities, such as Kansas City and St. Louis, are also effective in our smaller towns. It certainly is disgusting to have someone dictate to you how you must vote or else you will lose your job.

I do hope that Gov. Park will avail himself of his great opportunity and will co-operate with the citizens of St. Louis and Kansas City in cleaning up the politics in these cities. Then conditions in our smaller towns will soon adjust themselves.

GOV. LANDON AND THE TEACHERS.

The greater part of Gov. Landon's address at Chautauqua, N. Y., while sound enough, was without any special significance; if it had been delivered by most political leaders, it would have attracted little or no notice. His repudiation of the teachers' loyalty oath type of law, however, was both culturally notable and politically significant.

Gov. Landon described as a basic educational principle in Kansas the freedom of teachers from an oath "not required of all other citizens." His words on this point show a clear understanding of the spirit and letter of the Bill of Rights.

> I believe (he said) that a teacher has a right to the same freedom of speech in expressing his political, social or religious conventions as any other citizen. I believe that a teacher has the same right to work for the accomplishment of his political and social ideals as any other citizen.

Gov. Landon made it plain that he did not mean that the schools should be permitted to become propaganda devices for the various political and social philosophies held by causists. Here again his position is unexceptionable. The teacher must remain the teacher—must present the full facts in so far as they are known. But to do so he must be free from outside interferences and intimidations. He cannot tell his students the facts about government in the present-day world if he is a teacher in the District of Columbia, and so cannot make mention of Communism and what the Russian system stands for. (Gov. Landon, incidentally, would have made his position the stronger if he had come out for the repeal of the gag on education in the national capital.)

The Republican candidate's stand is politically significant because William Randolph Hearst, whose newspapers are ardent Landon supporters, has been one of the most rabid workers for teachers' oaths.

So far as we are aware, President Roosevelt has not committed himself against teachers' oaths, though he has made general references to the need for preserving civil liberties.

"In Kansas, we believe in academic freedom and we practice it," says the Republican nominee. So do we believe in academic freedom in Missouri, and so do we practice it. Indeed, freedom from teachers' oaths is general in this part of the country. When the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association met here last winter, we called attention to the fact that not only Missouri and Kansas have no teachers' oaths, but that Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Arkansas and Kentucky, all neighbors of Missouri, have rejected them.

The American system is not endangered by freedom of the teacher and his student to inquire and follow where the lamp of learning lights the way. On the contrary, that freedom is fundamental in a democracy and a prerequisite to its continuance. "Our educators should make a more than normal effort to see that our youth is given a background of our heritage and tradition—a fundamental understanding of the form and philosophy of our Government," says Gov. Landon. He is right, for then "we need have no fear of allowing our youth to study any and all systems of government to which their curiosity leads them."

UNFAIR TO AMBASSADOR DANIELS.

The Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus, meeting in Toronto, has charged the United States Ambassador to Mexico, Josephus Daniels, with ignoring public opinion in this country with respect to religious troubles in Mexico. This accusation is unfair. It is the standing policy of the United States Government not to interfere in the internal affairs of other countries. An overwhelming public opinion, we believe, supports the hands-off attitude.

The United States could not officially remonstrate against an internal policy in Mexico without setting a precedent for similar remonstrances with respect to policies all over the world. In no time, we should be the Meddlesome Mattie among the nations.

As for Mr. Daniels, he has carried on the good-neighbor policies of the Ambassadors who have preceded him, Dwight W. Morrow and J. Reuben Clark.

BLANTON IS BEATEN.

Representative Kent E. Keller of the southernmost Illinois district will not get to "pin back the ears" of Tom Blanton in the next session of Congress, after all. The noisy Texan's constituents have attended to that little chore themselves. Blanton ran second in the first primary several weeks ago and now he has been counted out in the run-off, the outcome of which virtually elected his opponent, Claude L. Garrett, a County Judge in the West Texas post-oak country.

In his 20 years in the House, the lawyer from Abilene had done his good work, notably under Republican rule, when he earned the sobriquet of "watch dog of the Treasury." But in recent times, he had become a rabid Red-baiter who saw bomb-throwers under the bed day and night. In this connection, his impertinence seemingly has known no limits. Not content with tacking the ridiculous educational gag on the District of Columbia appropriation bill, he recently sent an offensive questionnaire prying into the views of all teachers in the nation's capital.

When he began to devote himself to such un-American causes as these, whatever usefulness he might once have had was gone. The choice before the Seventeenth Texas District, reduced to its simplest terms, was between Blanton and the Bill of Rights. The Bill of Rights won. Other members of Congress will do well to keep the result in mind.

MORE TOWNSEND TESTIMONY.

Every time Dr. Townsend opens his mouth, he puts his foot in it. Some of the most damaging testimony in the congressional inquiry into his old-age pension movement came from the doctor himself. Now, in a receivership hearing at Cleveland, the Californian has shed more light on the inner workings of his inspirational and dues-collecting organization.

Dr. Townsend has the right to draw out funds from the organization treasury for any purpose whatsoever. He himself says so. To assist a hobby of his, a stereopticon project, the doctor used $500 of OARP funds. The treasury pays the traveling expenses of the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, now campaigning for the Lemke party. It has paid Mrs. Townsend's traveling expenses on a dozen transcontinental train trips, and all incidental costs. All this from the nickels and dimes contributed by aged persons to forward the cause of gaining $200-a-month pensions for themselves.

Dr. Townsend now denies that he draws a salary from the organization. Why, it will be asked, should he do so, with such exceptional privileges in handling its assets of $1,000,000 or more?

Opponents of Dr. Townsend and his movement should certainly favor free speech for him, and for more than the usual reasons. For whenever the doctor mounts the witness stand, he damages his movement far more than could the bitterest charges of its enemies.

ENDLESS CHAIN.

By extending the training period of military conscripts from one to two years, Reichsfuehrer Hitler has opened the way to a considerable increase in the size of the German army. From its present manpower of 500,000 or more, the army will grow to a force of 700,000 to 800,000 soldiers when recruits are summoned in October.

Why was this action taken? Berlin's official statement calls it an "unavoidable step" against the "purely offensive arming" by Soviet Russia. That Power, it is pointed out, two weeks ago reduced its age of conscription from 21 to 19 years, thus increasing its standing army from 1,000,000 to 1,300,000 men.

And why did Russia take its militaristic step? It was "obliged" to do so, Moscow said at the time, because Germany and Japan were increasing the size of their military establishments.

To trace the growth of armed forces one step farther back, why did Germany take the action which stimulated the Russian activity? When Hitler announced the reintroduction of conscription in Germany in March, 1935, he gave many reasons, and conspicuous among them was the "Bolshevist threat," which, in his view, imperiled Germany and could be met only by an adequate army.

The Russo-German military rivalry exemplifies perfectly the forces of jealousy, fear and rivalry that have converted most of the world into an armed camp. It is an endless chain, in which each nation tries to outdo its dreaded neighbor. The efforts to cut it short by agreement on mutual limitations have ended in ignominious failure, on land, on sea and in the air. It is an ominous race that is magnifying the danger of a greater world war every day that it continues.

NORMAN THOMAS WRITES A BOOK.

Norman Thomas, so we read, has written a 244-page book, and the work was done on a recent 10,000-mile campaign tour. It must have been done in hotel rooms, railway stations, in chair cars (where the Socialist candidate appropriately rides), between speeches and conferences. Since he does not have a large secretariat, Mr. Thomas could not even have been spared the manual labor of writing—the typing or, worse, the scribbling with pencil or pen, the correction of proofs, the verification of statements—all of that.

To professional writers, most of whom demand quiet, seclusion and freedom from other major tasks, Thomas has performed an astonishing feat. Contrast him with Flaubert, agonizing for hours over a single sentence, polishing and repolishing until the final painstaking result gives the impression of effortlessness. Of Milton, slaving for weeks over a short poem. Of Sinclair Lewis, laying out a novel in diagrams and cardboard figures before setting down a word.

We dare say, however, that Mr. Thomas was not interested in stylistic perfection; that his materials flowed from his fluent and graceful speeches; that he on occasion used pastepot and scissors. Even so, only dynamic energy could make it possible to produce a book under such circumstances. Like the professor who mastered a foreign language in the intervals while his wife dressed for dinner, the Socialist candidate for President is a glutton for work.

THE TRIBUNE'S APPEAL TO PREJUDICE.

In his recent speech at Chautauqua, President Roosevelt said:

> I have seen war on land and sea. I have seen blood running from wounds. I have seen men coughing out their gassed lungs. I have seen the dead in the mud. . . I have seen 200 limping, exhausted men come out of the line—the survivors of a regiment of a thousand that went forward 28 hours before. . . . I hate war.

It is a little difficult to believe that this passage would be seized upon for partisan purposes. However, it has been. Of it, the Chicago Tribune says: "Mr. Roosevelt seems to be developing an illusion that he was in the armed forces of the United States." It sets up a comparison between Franklin D. and Theodore Roosevelt. Both were Assistant Secretaries of the Navy when war broke out. Franklin D. stayed on the job. Theodore organized the Rough Riders and went to Cuba.

The Tribune also shows that, while Gov. Landon and Col. Knox served in the army, President Roosevelt, Vice-President Garner and Postmaster-General Farley did not. "It would seem that Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers anticipate that the Republican campaigners will make something of the record of their candidates and that it must be offset in advance by creating an impression that the Democratic candidates have a combat record."

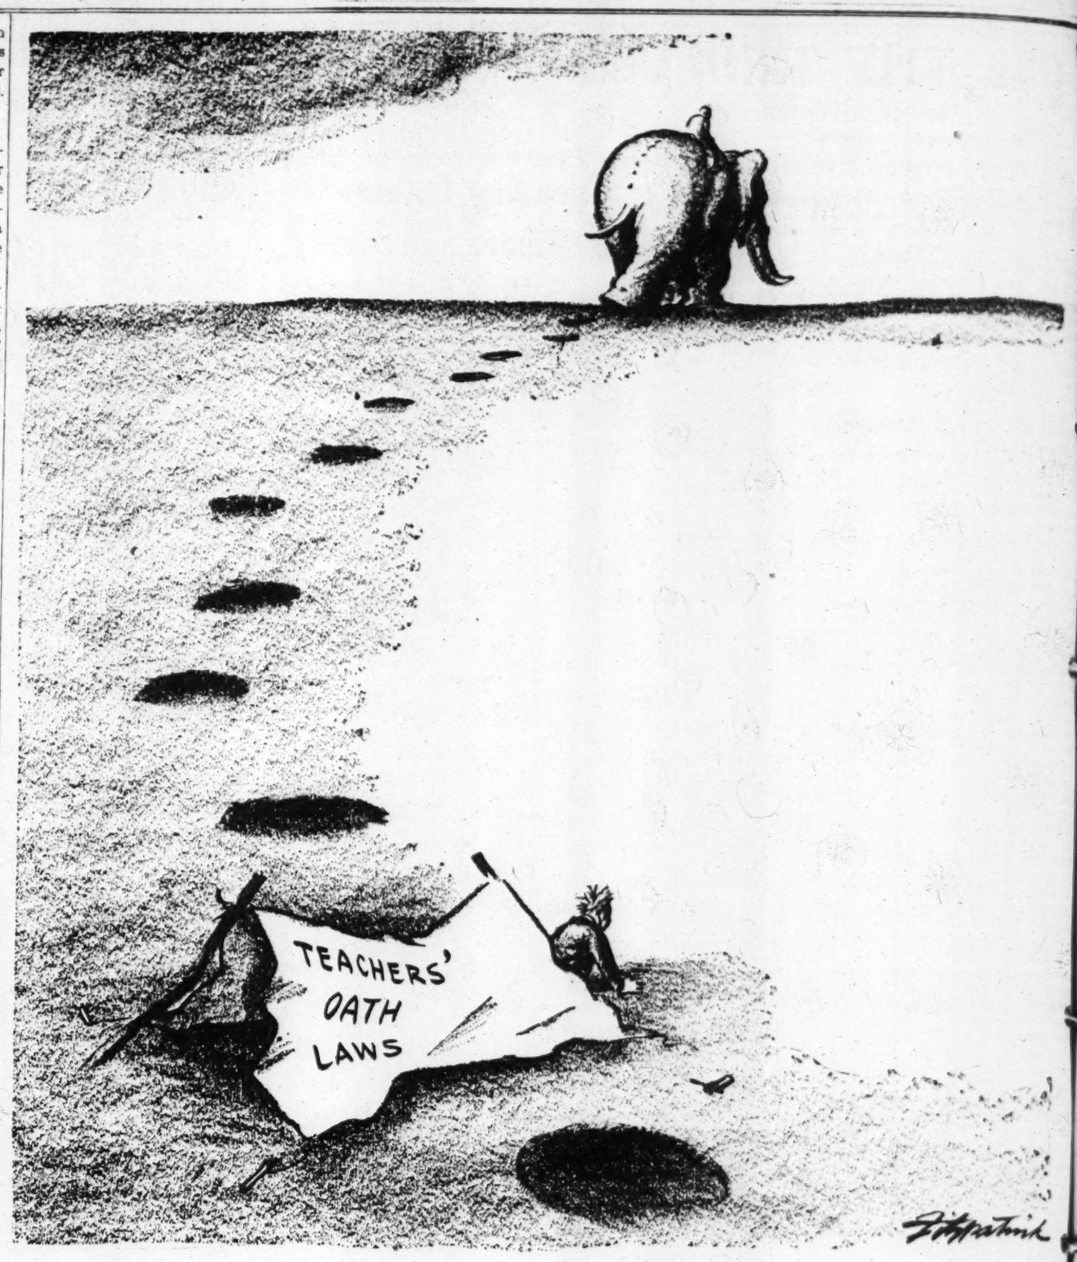

It is hitting below the belt for the Tribune to draw so far-fetched a conclusion from Mr. Roosevelt's Chautauqua speech. Mr. Roosevelt was speaking to high purpose at Chautauqua—and he has seen war. When his duties as Assistant Secretary of the Navy took him to Europe during the fighting, he insisted upon being taken to the combat area. At the time of the Allied counter-offensive of July, 1918, Mr. Roosevelt observed the advance to the Vesle.

Mr. Roosevelt's record during the war was a highly honorable and useful one. He has never tried to make it appear to have been something other than it was. The Tribune is manifestly making an appeal to blind prejudice. It is helping to make good the prediction that this would be a "dirty" campaign.

FOREST STUDY ABROAD.

Nine of the 31 fellowships awarded for study in Central Europe this fall and winter by the Oberlaender Trust of the Carl Schurz Foundation have gone to specialists in forestry or lumbering. Ferdinand A. Silcox and Christopher E. Rachford, chief and assistant chief respectively of the United States Forest Service, will be enabled to continue a study of forestry on a sustained-yield basis in Germany and Austria. Among the others in this group will be Ovid Butler, executive secretary of the American Forestry Association and editor of American Forests, and Tom Gill, secretary of the Charles Lathrop Pack Forest Education Board, who have done much to help create a public opinion in favor of the wise use of our forestry resources.

The Oberlaender Trust makes no mistake when it emphasizes study of Central European methods for producing forestry products. This has long been a continuous industry in Central Europe. The United States, which is just now providing for scientific reforestation on a large scale, has much to learn from the middle Europeans, who have made forests pay their way for many years.

1997 Acres of Federal Offices

Increase in number of Government agencies and employes is shown by figures on office space occupied in Washington; total has risen almost 50 per cent since 1933, figures show, to 1997 acres, equal to 40 Empire State Buildings; survey does not include all Federal functions, nor activities in other parts of the country.

From the United States News.

THE size of the building required to provide office space for Federal workers is growing larger; today it is almost half again as big as in 1933.

In 1933, the Federal Government owned or rented 61,000,000 square feet of office space for its thousands of employes; in 1934, this had grown to 72,000,000; this year, it totals 87,000,000 square feet.

Data for 1934 were computed from official records. Figures shown for the other years were computed in proportion to the change in the number of employes on the assumption that the amount of space required for each worker remained practically the same as in 1934.

That increase in the size of the Government between 1934 and 1936 means this:

If all Government offices could have been placed in one room in 1934, including all activities from postoffices to Federal relief offices, that room would have covered nearly three square miles, or 1653 acres, every part of which would have been usable either for desk space or storage of equipment needed in carrying on the tasks of the executive departments.

A person walking around that room would have traveled seven miles before returning to his starting point.

If all Government offices could now be placed in one room, it would cover more than three square miles, or 1997 acres. A person who attempted to walk around that room would have to walk more than eight miles instead of seven.

* * *

In both years, numerous activities of the Government are not included in computing the size of the room. Among these are the courts, legislative offices, hospital work of Veterans' Administration, field offices of the Forest Service and National Park Service, Civilian Conservation camps, military and naval activities which take place in army posts and naval stations, and third and fourth-class postoffices.

If skyscrapers had been built to house Federal offices in 1934, it would have been necessary to construct 78 the size of the Chrysler Building in New York City. It would have been necessary to build 33 the size of the Empire State Building.

If skyscrapers were built to house Federal offices this year, 95 the size of the Chrysler Building would be needed, 40 the size of the Empire State Building.

Expansion of Government offices has been even greater in Washington than in the field. Official records show:

In 1933, approximately 12,000,000 square feet of space was used.

In 1934, Federal offices in the capital used 14,000,000 square feet of space, one-seventh of which was rented.

This year, the Government is using 16,000,000 square feet of space in Washington, of which 2,821,786 is rented.

Government activities in the capital are located in 47 Government-owned and 90 rented buildings, ranging from monumental structures of classic architecture to historic homes, apartment houses, department stores and even theaters.

The degree of mobility of Government in Washington, particularly in the emergency agencies, is shown by the fact that 376 moves were made during the fiscal year ending June 30.

Officials who handle the renting of quarters have been kept busy during recent years by the expansion of new agencies. Both in field offices and in Washington, oftentimes matters are no sooner arranged for an office than there is another expansion, or another new office is organized and the hunt for good quarters has to be renewed.

* * *

If a major Federal building program had not been planned in 1926 and largely completed within the last three years, the shortage of office space in Washington since 1933 would have surpassed that of World War days.

During the war, the Government resorted to the erection of temporary buildings. Thus far, the present space emergency has not required such drastic measures. In fact, completion of the new Federal buildings has permitted demolition of the old temporary war-time buildings.

These buildings were poorly lighted, were firetraps, were hot during summer and drafty during winter. Demolition temporarily was halted to provide space for the recent expansion of personnel, but now the last of these buildings is scheduled to be torn down next year.

Passing of the old buildings marks the coming of the new type of Federal offices exemplified by the $17,500,000 Commerce Department building, largest Government office building in the world, and other new structures centered around the Mall.

* * *

To illustrate the modernization of the new buildings, Government officials point to this fact: 18 buildings are either completely air-conditioned or have large suites of offices which are air-conditioned. The equivalent of 11,000 tons of ice a day in refrigeration is used to keep these offices cool, making the system the largest in the world under the supervision of one agency.

Apportionment of space in the Washington buildings is considered by officials to be representative of space apportionment throughout the country, in most particulars.

An official tabulation shows that half the space is used for desks, 16 per cent for files, 11 per cent for storage space, 9 per cent for special equipment and 1 per cent for libraries, with miscellaneous activities occupying the remaining area.

Completion of the present building program, according to figures of the District of Columbia Assessor's office, will give the Federal Government land and buildings in the capital valued at approximately $600,000,000.

FATAL POLITENESS.

IF you knew somebody might put poison in your soup, you wouldn't hesitate to refuse an invitation to his house for dinner.

Floyd B. Olson

From the New York Herald Tribune.

IN Minnesota, Floyd B. Olson's name was spoken in many varying accents of fear or admiration, anger or disgust, but rarely without at least a tacit tribute to the power of his personality and the astuteness of his political management. Even after he was known to be gravely ill, his figure continued to dominate his own State; and though he was one of the least raucous of the voices of the radical-inflationist fringe, there were some who chose him, even while Huey Long was alive, as likely to prove its most formidable in the end.

For Olson (who boasted that he had never read a line of Karl Marx or Lenin in his life) seemed to be giving to that fringe a program of revolutionary consistency, which it lacked in the hands of Long or the lesser demagogues—a program that might survive and grow until it came with decisive force upon the stage of national politics.

His working alliance with Roosevelt from 1932 onward was supposed to be only the scaffolding with which to erect a real third party that might by 1940 bring him within reach of the presidency. Death has now ended that ambition, as it ended Long's dream of empire. But it leaves a hardly less interesting question behind it.

What was the character of the revolt which he represented, and how far might it have responded to any wide popular impulse? In 1933, he was one of the Western Governors who lent themselves to Milo Reno's agrarian price-fixing and inflationism; but it was in 1934, when he used the militia in the Minneapolis truck strike in a way favorable to the strikers' interest, that he made his real impact upon the national consciousness.

* * *

One could not help thinking of Gov. Altgeld of Illinois, over whose protests President Cleveland sent in troops to keep order in the Pullman strike in 1894; and could not help sensing the same fundamental issues in the bitter storms which thereafter raged about Olson's, as they had raged about Altgeld's, head. In a peculiar way, it was again a challenge to the basic system of law and order upon which any society must always rest.

Challenges of another sort the Governor distributed with a lavish hand. He wrote the doom of capitalism into his 1932 platform; he was a production-for-user; he was "as radical as hell." But it began to cost him significantly, his farmer support; his language was later modified, while actual program only pushed the implications of the familiar New Deal machinery of social security, relief doles and "soaking the rich" nearer to their ultimate conclusions in the extinction of the profit system.

How far could he have carried them? It will take a little time, perhaps, to bring his real significance into a proper perspective. But in the meanwhile, the President salutes him as a "massive figure," and the somewhat reckless fervor of a tribute one may read a hint of how much the New Deal had been counting upon him.

Olson's followers may now drift away after Coughlin or Lemke, or into a war with the Minnesota Democrats. In the Northwest, his death can hardly fail to pull down one of the props on which the New Deal was buttressing its position—but it was a prop dangerous enough for the country, if not, ultimately, for the Democratic party itself.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The German Evangelical Epistle

THREE documents of protest, and only three, have emerged from inside the dictatorships of Europe. All have come from Germany, and all are from the same source. It is the source which is significant. The totalitarian state suppresses all minorities. The German state has not only suppressed minority political opinion and all political criticism, but it has bent every institution of the public life into new patterns.

It has revolutionized the conception of science by denying objective research or the desirability of the quest for truth for its own sake. It has forced the whole academic life to accept a theory of biology and racial inheritance which is at variance with the prevailing thought of the world's anthropologists. It holds and insists upon the propagation of views of art for which few artists stand. It has swept out of existence that political party which, before National Socialism came into power, had the greatest popular support of any political organization in Germany, and it was a party with an economic theory, a social philosophy and a long tradition. It has revolutionized the theory and practice of law, suspending habeas corpus, denying men the right to open trial before disinterested juries, suspending the individual's protection against unwarranted search and seizure, and substituting, in many instances, a code of law by arbitrary decisions of star chamber Judges.

Socialists have fled abroad, and outside Germany have voiced their protests, or inside Germany have risked their lives by under-cover agitation. Scientists have left Germany, and so have artists and teachers. But no group of men of science, no academy of teachers or of artists, no Bar Association has risked concentration camps for scientific, academic or artistic ideals. One group, and one alone, inside Germany, has had the courage and the daring to attack fundamental theses of the totalitarian state, and attack them openly, read them publicly, sign their names and give their addresses, in the face of the dictatorship and for Germany and all the world to see. That group are the pastors of the Confessional German Evangelical Church.

* * *

Cut out of the Sunday newspapers the 2000-word epistle made public on Saturday in Berlin. Add to it the 4000-word memorial from the same source, published in this country on June 28. Lay beside them the document, "Theological Existence Today," the great manifesto which cost Karl Barth, the eminent Protestant theologian, his professorship at Bonn. And keep them for your children. If Christianity survives in this most un-Christian world, these three documents will belong to the great manifestos of Protestantism.

* * *

It will be argued by some and wished by many that these documents were more comprehensive; that they were not so confined to the protection of the German Evangelical faith. The answer is that no other guardians of a faith or a principle have done as much. It will be argued that churchmen in a country which still gives lip-service to Christianity are safer from reprisals than other dissenting groups. The answer is that the epistle of June 28 was followed by reprisals, and that pastors are today in concentration camps, while others are continually threatened. The men who penned these documents and presented them at the risk of their freedom do not even have the united support of the whole church behind them, for a great body of it has made peace with Hitler.

* * *

These epistles to the German Government and to the German people are not, in any case, mere documents of a specific religious faith. They are manifestos of freedom. While they complain in detail, naming names and citing instances of official attempts to wean away the people from the practice of religion through the church, they also attack in principle a basic tenet of the Nazi state. Robustly and audaciously, they deny the sovereignty of the state over all departments of life. They demand a limitation of the authority of government. And the limitation of political authority is the first and the eternal demand of liberty. They do not speak as the guardians of men's bodies or minds; they do not speak as the shepherds of science or of art. They speak as the guardians of men's souls. And they deny the authority of any mundane power over the soul of man. Man was born to serve God. There is one God, and Adolf Hitler is not His son, is the whole sense and meaning of this document. And they must know that freedom of conscience is the basis of all freedom, as it was the basis of Martin Luther's faith.

* * *

The documents perform another service. Accepting full responsibility, they reveal conditions in Germany, the publication of which might be interpreted as treason.

"Things have come to such a state with the German people that the honor of citizens is dragged through the mud because they are Christians . . . those who are resolved to cling to the Gospel are jeered and mocked because of their faith . . . the truth of the Gospel is attacked publicly, even by leading men of the state. . . . In the country of Martin Luther, evangelical Christians are prevented from bearing witness to the Gospel in public meetings. . . . The continual spying upon church activities must cease. The bans on church meetings in public places must be lifted. The fetters which bind the church press and Christian charity must be loosed. This we demand in the name of the living God from all who are in office in Germany."

* * *

Already this group of churchmen and many of the priests and higher officials of the Roman Catholic church have defied Government orders to extend the official anti-Semitism into the church. "The community of the church is not a community of race; it is a community of the Holy Spirit," said Cardinal Faulhaber. Thereby he testified to the noble principle of human unity.

The manifesto of the Protestant pastors will cause Christians all over the world again to consider what are the principles of the faith to which they so often give the merest lip-service. And among all who love freedom it will recall the word of Pericles: "The secret of liberty is courage."

COLUMBIA BABY WINNER AT MISSOURI STATE FAIR

Laura Louise Keele, 2 Years Old, Adjudged to Be 99.5 Per Cent Perfect.

By the Associated Press.

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 26.—Laura Louise Keele, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Keele, Columbia, was awarded the championship in the State Fair baby health contest today. Her score was 99.5.

Larry Dwain Huff, 1-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Huff, Avalon, was declared the champion boy. He scored 99.

With a 10 per cent increase in attendance over Tuesday of Fair week last year, St. Louis day drew the biggest crowd of the present season to the grounds yesterday.

Stanley Block, Kansas City, won the State Fair checker championship, with O. K. Hiner, Clarence, Mo., the runner-up. The summer meeting of the Missouri State Federation of Garden Clubs was held on the lawn of the State Highway Department exhibit. Today is Kansas City day.

ISADOR MANDLE, CLAY MINING FIRM FOUNDER, DIES AT 82

Came to St. Louis from Germany; Funeral Services to Be at 2 P. M. Tomorrow.

Isador Mandle, founder and retired president of the Mandle Clay Mining Co., at Whitlock, Tenn., died today of pneumonia at his home, 6330 Waterman avenue. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from his home with burial in Mount Sinai Cemetery.

Mr. Mandle, 82 years old, came to St. Louis from Germany when a youth. He worked for several years in the Joplin lead belt as a bookkeeper, but quit to prospect for clay deposits which he discovered at Regina, Mo. When the deposits there were exhausted, he went to Tennessee and in 1890 founded the company that bears his name. He always maintained a home in St. Louis even when his business was out of the State. His wife, six daughters, and a son survive.

LODGE IN GIANT CITY PARK WILL BE DEDICATED SUNDAY

Gov. Horner to Speak at Ceremony Opening Native Stone Building Erected by CCC Workers.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Aug. 26. — Dedication of the native stone lodge built by the Giant City CCC Camp in Giant City State Park, nine miles south of here, will take place Sunday afternoon, with Gov. Horner delivering the main address. Officers and workers of the Civilian Conservation Corps will be present at the ceremony, which is open to the public.

Two years of labor by the camp workers were necessary to build the lodge, entirely of native material. Every phase of the construction, including the hewing of logs, the quarrying of most of the rock, and the masonry work, was done by the camp men, under the supervision of the CCC officers and a few trained engineers.

On recent exhibition at the State Fair was a miniature of the lodge.

DROUTH TO CUT FOOD SUPPLY ONLY SLIGHTLY, SAYS REPORT

Figure to Be Only 3 Per cent Under Last Year's, Department of Agriculture Finds.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Department of Agriculture economists said today the drouth would have little effect on the United States' food supply from now until the end of next June.

A special survey on "the food situation" by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics said "the supply of food available for domestic consumption will be almost as large as last year."

Taking into account prospective yields and available supplies from the previous season, the report said the total food supply for the period ending in June, 1937, would be 3 per cent below that of last season and 1 per cent under the supplies following the 1934 drouth.

Action Filed in Reno Against Son of Ralph Pulitzer.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nav., Aug. 26.—Mrs. William Boldeman Pulitzer filed suit for divorce here today against Seward Webb Pulitzer, son of Ralph Pulitzer, of the publishing family. She charged cruelty.

The Pulitzers were married at New York City on March 23, 1932, and have a 2-year-old daughter, Sally, who is with her mother in Reno. An agreement providing for custody of the child and her future education was signed June 30, 1936. Mrs. Pulitzer has been staying at a dude ranch near Reno during her six weeks residence.

TREE MOISTURE CUT TWO-FIFTHS BY DROUTH

Many Native Varieties More Seriously Damaged This Year Than in 1934.

The moisture content by weight of trees generally, as a result of the long drouth this summer, is about three-fifths of what it should be under normal conditions, according to tests made by Shaw's Garden staff.

That means that an elm, for example, 50 feet high, with a trunk circumference of 38 inches and a branch spread of 65 feet, has nearly four tons less moisture weight today than the six and a half tons it had last spring, August P. Beilmann, Garden arboriculturist, explained today to a Post-Dispatch reporter. An elm of those dimensions was cut and weighed two years ago to determine moisture and solid content.

The normal moisture content of trees in spring, when water is plentiful, is between 55 and 60 per cent of the total weight of the tree, depending somewhat on location and varieties. Oaks, hickories and ash usually have less moisture weight than soft maples, poplars, sycamores and elms.

Tests made by Beilmann of various common trees at the Gray Summit Arboretum have shown that their moisture content has dropped to amounts between 23 and 40 per cent.

Trees Run a Temperature.

With the loss of moisture, the internal temperature of deciduous trees has increased to a point, 80 degrees or above, where they have dropped their leaves, wholly or in part.

The moisture deficiency tests were made by taking trunk borings, which were weighed and then dried in an oven for from 24 to 36 hours, until the wood showed a constant day weight. The results were compared with similar tests made at times when moisture was plentiful.

Only one evergreen reading was made, Beilmann said, of a juniper or native cedar, which showed a moisture content of 42 per cent, and an internal temperature of 94 degrees. Among the evergreens at the arboretum, the junipers have best been able to resist the drouth. Pines have suffered but little damage, spruces show some burning of the foliage, and arborvitaes have been badly scorched by the sun.

The native deciduous shrub withstanding the drouth best, Beilmann said, was the chittamwood, botanically Bumelia lanuginosa, which showed an internal temperature of 92 degrees, a moisture reduction of 77 per cent less than normal and still lived. It grows to a height of 15 feet, but is not recommended for ornamental plantings.

Native Trees Suffer.

Other native trees and shrubs in the section of the arboretum, representative of much of Eastern Missouri landscape, are seriously affected and far worse off than during the 1934 drouth, George Pring, superintendent of the Garden, said.

Soft maples, sycamores, hackberries, redbuds, cottonwoods, dogwoods, and many oaks are in bad condition. Few flower buds have developed on the dogwoods and there likely will be no appreciable display of white bloom on the hillsides next spring. Last year's buds were nearly all killed by the winter's low temperatures.

Hickories seemed to have best withstood the heat and drouth among the larger native trees.

"There is no doubt," Pring said, "that many native trees and shrubs, which were in healthy condition unaffected by disease, have been killed by the heat and drouth. That does not mean, however, that all trees which have dropped their leaves will die, for it is a habit of self-preservation, reducing moisture loss.

"Landscape changes are going on in many a Missouri glade and on hillsides. Weaker plants are dying and will be crowded out, a condition of the survival of the fittest."

WHY TWO OF SOVIET FOUNDING FATHERS WERE PUT TO DEATH

strength. It made him a Communistic version of a Tammany leader in New York, with his own complicated machine held together by his oratorical command over the workers' loyalty.

He was elected to the Politburo, the small group of men which ran the party, and was made first president, in March, 1919, of the Communist, or Third International. It was a letter, to British Communists, alleged to have been signed by him, which caused the downfall in 1924 of James Ramsay MacDonald's first Labor government in Great Britain.

Career of Kamenev.

Kamenev, too, whose name was first Rosenfeld, had known the exile cafes in Switzerland before the war and had worked with Lenin in Geneva. But he had returned to Petrograd in 1913, to edit the first numbers of the underground "Pravda." Exiled to Siberia in 1914, he returned to Petrograd in 1917 before the arrival of Lenin and Znoviev. After the same hesitation and doubt had tied his hands in the early months of the revolution, he emerged as a careful parliamentarian in party councils and a shrewd organizer, and was sent with Trotsky to negotiate the Brest-Litovsk peace with Germany.

He married Trotsky's sister, a brilliant party worker in her own right who was later to preside over the Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries. He was sent to London with Krassin to negotiate a commercial treaty, but was expelled by Lloyd George. He became deputy chairman of the Council of People's Commissars, and president of the Moscow Soviet. His scholar's face, with carefully barbered beard and mustache and distinguished-looking pince-nez, made him a useful foil to more uncouth leaders of the party in its early days of power.

At Lenin's Funeral in 1924.

These were the men who walked through the snow on Jan. 27, 1924, with Stalin, Bukharin, Rykov and Kalinin, bearing Lenin's body to its temporary mausoleum on the Red Square. Trotsky was at Sukhum, in the Caucasus, sulking like Archilles in his tent at the cabal which, he charged, had forced him into the shadows during Lenin's long final illness.

Kamenev and Zinoviev, he asserted, were leaders in this cabal, with the still little-known Georgian, Josef Stalin. It is true that for the next two years these men formed a triumvirate which held the most powerful posts in the Soviet Union. But Stalin, with Asiatic patience and the skill of a master organizer, was packing the party's key posts with his own men. By 1926, when Kamenev and Zinoviev had wearied of the comparative inaction of the new economic policy and pressed for some decisive revolutionary action, they shared only the symbols of power with a man who held its substance in his own hands.

Secret Meeting in Woods.

The three conspirators held a secret meeting in the woods near Moscow in the fall of 1926, and were at once expelled from the Politburo. The ensuing years list a series of accusations against them for factional opposition, recantations with humble promises to abjure underground tactics, and repeated accusations. On Nov. 7, 1927, the three lost their heads and came out into the streets on the anniversary of the revolution, demanding Stalin's overthrow. The attempt was a fiasco, and from that date it was clear to them at least that only by terror or conspiracy could they regain the power they had lost.

In January, 1928, the "Left opposition" was scattered in exile across Siberia and Central Asia. After living in Alma-Ata, Trotzky finally was exiled for good, but his two confederates again ate humble pie and were readmitted to the party. "It is Zinoviev's third appearance," Trotzky commented, "in the role of Judas."

With each repentance, the two former leaders received less important work in the Soviet Government apparatus, and with the increasing strength and unification of the Soviet Union their doctrinal differences became less and less important. Both were arrested in October, 1932, charged again with factionalism, but by May, 1933, they had signed a confession and apology which filled three columns of newspaper type, and again were restored to minor favor.

"Off the Road."

"My sin before the party is very great," Zinoviev wrote in this statement. "I, who could learn directly from Lenin, and after this from Stalin, went off the road and placed myself in the position of an apostate."

Their final arrest came in December, 1934, after the murder of Kirov, Zinoviev's successor as political boss in Leningrad. Zinoviev had been a minor editor on the staff of Bolshevik, a Soviet monthly, and Kamenev an obscure teacher. Both were convicted of complicity in the conspiracy which led to Kirov's murder, but not of direct connection with it, and after 107 others had been shot, Zinoviev was sentenced on Jan. 17, 1935, to 10 years in prison, and Kamenev to a five-year term.

It was from prison that both men were taken to stand trial on the charges of complicity in a far wider plot which had marked nearly all the present leaders of the Soviet Union for its victims. Their recent confessions of guilt were made after nearly two years of detention and after having heard the final collapse of their hope to rally support among the workers in the unanimous demand for their execution which was made by workers' groups all over Russia in the beginning of 1935.

Curious Gas Room in Moscow.

Ten years ago, it was whispered in Moscow that the Bolsheviks had invented a curious room into which they could pump gas which would make a prisoner emerge and confess to anything they wished. British engineers, Nepmen and old Bolsheviks were supposed to have received the treatment before their trials. In the case of Zinoviev and Kamenev, and the 14 defendants on trial with them, the record of the last 10 years and the conspiratorial habits which are the housemaid's knee of revolutionists, probably constituted sufficient explanation to the Soviet Judges.

CHILDREN OF TOWER GROVE PLAYGROUND IN PAGEANT

100 Boys and Girls Give "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" to Close Season.

Children of the Tower Grove Park Playground gave their first pageant yesterday when more than 100 boys and girls portrayed the story of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" in pantomime and dance.

Miss Rosemary Hart Case, director of the playground, said the children had practiced the dance movements since the opening of the playgrounds on July 15.

This year Tower Grove Park, which is under the supervision of a separate board, did not follow its custom of joining the other city parks in the annual City Playground Festival, but instead trained children in dramatics and presented a pageant as its final activity of the summer.

GRAIN MARKET IS IRREGULAR AFTER UPTURN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Wheat futures advanced 1⅝ cents a bushel today, reversing the recent downward trend, but then receded and fluctuated nervously around yesterday's closing level. Corn also worked higher, afterward more than losing the early gains as offerings increased.

The modest buying of wheat here was ascribed to interests stimulated by a revival in the European demand for Canadian wheat and by strength in foreign markets.

Wheat closed ⅛@⅞ above yesterday's finish, September $1.11½@⅝, December $1.10⅛@¼, and corn was ½@1 cent lower, September $1.12@1.12⅛, December lower. Oats closed unchanged to ¼ off, rye was ¼ down to ⅝ up, and barley and provisions showed little change.

The recent downward trend of grain prices was reversed early today. Wheat advanced more than a cent at times, paralleling gains at Liverpool and even sharper upturns at Winnipeg.

Factors stimulating to buyers included reports of harvest interruption by rain in parts of Canada and of good demand and buying of Canadian wheat by European importers. A report from Saskatchewan Province, Canada, said the wheat outturn in drouth areas was not as good as had been expected.

The cent or more rise of corn prices led by September contracts was partly sympathetic with wheat. In some quarters importance was attached, however, to the unusually small supply of corn here for delivery next month and it was pointed out Argentine corn probably would not be available in sufficient quantities. A move has been launched by some traders to prohibit the use of Argentine corn in making delivery on exchange contracts.

Oats and rye were fractionally higher influenced by strength in the other markets. Provisions also were firm, responsive to grain action rather than weakness in hog values.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 27,744,000 bushels, corn 12,206,000. Open interest in wheat was 92,134,000 bushels, and in corn 45,145,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 26.—September wheat was bid $1.14⅝, up ⅞c, on the local board. September corn sold at $1.15½.

Winnipeg wheat opened ½ to 1c higher and early was 1⅜@1½c up. The close was 1@1¼c higher.

Liverpool wheat was down ⅛c to up ⅛c at outset and in subsequent cable was ½d to 1¼d higher. The close was ½d to 1⅛d higher.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN.

In the cash grain market today soft wheat was ¾c higher; corn unchanged to 1c lower; oats steady.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Local wheat receipts which were 16,500 bu. compared with 21,000 a week ago and 84,000 a year ago included 50 cars local and 6 through. Corn receipts which were 61,000 bu, compared with 22,500 a week ago and 15,000 a year ago included 10 cars local. Oats receipts which were 20,000 bu. compared with 28,000 a week ago and 6000 a year ago, included 3 cars local. Hay receipts, 1 car local.

RAILROAD EARNINGS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Railroad earnings in July showed the widest margin of gain over the previous year in many months, a compilation of the results reported by the first 18 roads issuing statements indicated.

Gross income for the month was 28.7 per cent above 1935 while net operating income jumped 125.7 per cent. The sharply higher rate of gain in the latter evidences the fact that expenses have not risen to the same extent as income.

Gross income for seven months was 17.1 per cent better than a year ago, with net operating income up 40.1 per cent.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 3 LOWER TO 2 HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Advances of about 15 to 18 points on unfavorable weather and crop news were followed by partial reactions in cotton today. December after selling to 11.69, went to 11.60 under scattered hedging and realizing with the mid-afternoon market quiet at net advances of 7 to 9 points.

The market eased in late trading under increased liquidation and hedge selling, futures closing barely steady, 3 lower to 2 higher. October, 11.43; December, 11.51-52; January, 11.53; March, 11.60; May, 11.62; July, 11.62; spot quiet; middling, 11.88.

Oct. opened 11.56; Dec. 11.63; Jan. 11.68; March 11.72; May 11.71; July 11.69.

Trading was fairly lively after the opening and active months worked up another 2 to 3 points on the buying which seemed to come from the trade and foreign sources.

December sold up to 11.65 and March 11.73 or 12 to 14 points net higher and the market was ruling within a point or two of these figures in the second half hour. Buying was accompanied by further talk of a trend towards reduced estimates of the crop. There were reiterated rumors of co-operative interests estimating th yields at about 12,100,000 bales compared with an Aug. 1 indication of around 12,600,000.

Liverpool cables said the market there was influenced by buying and lower crops ideas which found offerings generally light.

The weekly report of the Weather Bureau said cotton had continued to make satisfactory advances over the eastern third of the belt but that high temperatures and lack of rain were again decidedly unfavorable in Western belt sections.

The report laid more stress on unfavorable features than had been generally expected. It failed to stimulate active buying but brought in some additional support and prices held very steady later in the morning.

December sold up to 11.69c and March to 11.78c with active months showing net gains of 15 to 18 points at mid-day.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The stock market shuffled over a tortuous path today and ended up by backing into slightly lower territory.

There was little change in the general business and industrial picture and the day's erratic performance was attributed largely to profit taking. The close was irregular. Transfers were around 900,000 shares.

The list got off to a firm start, but buyers failed to follow up their advantage and prices soon begon to skid.

Steels, amusements and specialties led the early improvement. They gave ground with the others as the session advanced.

Weak spots were comparatively few, however, and a number of issues managed to emerge with modest gains.

Common and preferred stocks of American Power & Light pushed up briskly when the corporation's directors ordered the first regular dividend payments on the preference issues since 1932.

Resistance was exhibited by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Schenley, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams, Deere, American Telephone, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Goodyear, Corn Products, Fajardo Sugar, Loew's, Warner Brothers, Gold Dust and Houdaille-Hershey.

Off fractions to two points or so were J. I. Case, International Harvester, du Pont, Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, North American, American Water Works, General Motors, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Zenith Radio and Allis-Chalmers.

Wheat at Chicago stepped up ⅛ to ⅞ of a cent a bushel and corn reacted ½ to 1. Bonds were spotty, although most U. S. Government securities again registered new year's highs.

Among additional share losers were Celanese, International Telephone, Auburn, Texas Corp., Boeing Douglas Aircraft, American Can, Celanese and U. S. Industrial Alcohol. Steady to firm were Dome McIntyre Porcupine and Alaska Juneau.

The French franc at mid-afternoon was .001-16 of a cent better at 6.58½ cents and sterling was unchanged at $5.03¼.

News of the Day.

The accentuated recovery of heavy industry was viewed as a sustaining influence, although the foreign outlook was still being watched with some apprehension by financial quarters.

The utilities were unresponsive to figures of the Edison Electric Institute showing power usage at another new record top. Electricity output for the week ended Aug. 22, was 15½ per cent above the total for the corresponding 1935 period.

Tuesday's revival of U. S. Steel preferred was attributed partly to hopes that the company's directors at their meeting in October may take steps to reduce the accumulations on this issue. The board declared a dividend of $1 on the preference stock in July instead of the 50 cents paid previously.

Some of the amusement shares again reflected the sharp upturn in box office receipts of the movie theaters. Loew's was said to be carrying a greater amount of gross to net than in the past several years.

The rails were in the laggard class.

Midweek Industrial Reviews.

Helpful to bullish forces was the mid-week review of "Iron Age" which said that ingot production, at a new peak for the year, was not keeping pace with demand.

The magazine found that many rolling mills were being pushed to the limit and that chances of a summer slump in steel output have disappeared. It was added that the larger companies are now predicting much higher operating rates within the next 30 to 60 days.

Merchandise purchasing agencies were understood to be making substantially larger forward commitments than a few months ago. In addition to increasing consumer purchases, threatening labor problems were bringing in many advance orders.

FINANCIAL BAROMETER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Measuring the recall of funds by member banks to meet the Aug. 15 increase in reserve requirements, interbank deposits of domestic units in leading cities dropped sharply this week.

Financial quarters say that this is the result primarily of withdrawal of deposits with the big city banks by the smaller country units. The trend is expected to continue for at least another week, since country banks have two weeks of grace in meeting the new requirements.

Week ended Aug 19	$5,750,000,000
Previous week	5,958,000,000

Advances in asking prices had some influence in slowing up trade. Average to good French combing length fine territory wools in original bags brought fully 83-85 cents scoured basis. Bulk short French combing lengths fine territory wools in original bags moved at 81-83 cents.

STEEL OUTPUT IS AT NEW PEAK LEVEL, 73

Production "Still Fails to Keep Pace With Insistent Demand for Finished Steel."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Although steel ingot production is at a new peak for the year at 73 per cent of capacity, output "still fails to keep pace with the insistent demands for finished steel," Iron Age says in its weekly review today.

"In fact," the publication says, "the ingot rate does not give the true picture of the steel industry's present high activity, as rolling mills in many plants are turning out from 80 to 100 per cent of theoretical capacity and still are unable to reduce materially their backlogs of some products, particularly sheets, structural shapes and plates, which, on the contrary, show a tendency to increase as new business flows in.

"Efforts of the mills to get customers' requirements have emphasized the unbalanced condition of steel plants, with ingot capacity greatly exceeding rolling mill requirements at some points, and the reverse situation existing elsewhere. Therefore, many rolling mills are being pushed to their limit, though activity of seel-making furnaces for the country as a whole does not fully reflect this situation.

"Now that chances of a summer slump in steel business have disappeared, steel companies are freely predicting higher operating rates within the next 30 to 60 days, which will necessitate the use of some high-cost equipment or units that have been in disrepair. Several steel company blast furnaces that have long been idle have been put in blast because of the shortage of scrap.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Although steel ingot production is at a new peak for the year at 73 per cent of capacity, output "still fails to keep pace with the insistent demands for finished steel," Iron Age says in its weekly review today.

"In fact," the publication says, "the ingot rate does not give the true picture of the steel industry's present high activity, as rolling mills in many plants are turning out from 80 to 100 per cent of theoretical capacity and still are unable to reduce materially their backlogs of some products, particularly sheets, structural shapes and plates, which, on the contrary, show a tendency to increase as new business flows in.

"Efforts of the mills to get customers' requirements have emphasized the unbalanced condition of steel plants, with ingot capacity greatly exceeding rolling mill requirements at some points, and the reverse situation existing elsewhere. Therefore, many rolling mills are being pushed to their limit, though activity of steel-making furnaces for the country as a whole does not fully reflect this situation.

"Now that chances of a summer slump in steel business have disappeared, steel companies are freely predicting higher operating rates within the next 30 to 60 days, which will necessitate the use of some high-cost equipment or units that have been in disrepair. Several steel company blast furnaces that have long been idle have been put in blast because of the shortage of scrap."

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Directors of American Power & Light Co., ordered the first regular dividend payments on the company's preferred issues since late in 1932. A quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share was declared on the $5 preferred, and $1.50 on the $6 preferred, both payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 8. COURT DECIDES IN FAVOR OF MANAGEMENT IN CONTEST

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A Supreme Court referee yesterday ruled that the management of B. F. Goodrich Co. was supported by the votes of more than the required 75 per cent of both classes of stock in the meeting last summer which authorized directors to place a $45,000,000 mortgage on the company's property.

The ruling resulted from a petition for a declaratory judgment brought by the company when the legality of certain proxies was challenged. The decision was handed down by Referee John G. Saxe, who was appointed to hear the case by Justice Lloyd Church.

Saxe found that the company had valid votes and consents for 4232 shares more of preferred stock than the three-quarters required, and 5433 more shares of common than were necessary.

David M. Goodrich, chairman of the board, said:

"It now seems clear that approval by the stockholders of the plan for changing the preferred stock, which has been recommended by the directors will, I believe, remove the last serious obstacle remaining at this time to securing for the company and its stockholders a more satisfactory capital structure."

At the time stockholders approved creation of the new mortgage, it was said that the management contemplated the issuance of $28,000,000 of 4½ per cent series bonds for the purpose of redeeming the present 6½ per cent bonds and for other corporate purposes. These plans were held in abeyance pending outcome of the contest.

Another special stockholder meeting will be held on Sept. 9 to vote on a proposal to create a new issue of $5 preferred stock to be offered in exchange for the presently outstanding 7 per cent preferred on which dividend accruals amount to $35 a share. It will be proposed to exchange 1.4 shares of the new stock, plus one-half share of common for each share of old preferred.

The Indenture contains provisions for the issuance of an additional $5,000,000 aggregate principal amount of bonds of the same or another series (but ranking pari passu with these Bonds) upon the request of the Company. In addition, provided certain conditions and requirements specified in the Indenture are met, the Indenture permits the issuance of additional bonds of the same or another series without limitation as to principal amount, ranking pari passu with these Bonds. The Indenture further permits the release of property from the lien thereof without notice other than application in certain instances to the Trustee and permits the substitution of certain types of property without notice. Irving Trust Company, New York City, is Trustee under the Indenture.

The provisions of the Indenture may be modified (subject to certain limitations set forth in the Indenture) with the consent of holders of 75% of the outstanding Bonds of each of the series to be affected by the proposed modification.

In lieu of making such payments in cash the Company may tender Bonds of the Series Due 1966 at cost to it or at the then redemption price, whichever is lower. All Bonds acquired by the Trustee for the purposes of the Sinking Fund are to be cancelled.

UNDERWRITING Subject to certain terms and conditions, the Underwriters named in the Offering Prospectus have severally agreed to purchase these Bonds from the Company at 100%, or a total of $35,000,000, plus accrued interest. HAUPTMANN TRIAL CENSURE LEADS TO BAR MEETING ROW Association President Says Report of Committee Was Not Authorized by Convention.

CHAIRMAN TAKES ISSUE WITH HIM

Publicity Stunts Were Attacked and 16 Recommendations for Reforms Were Presented.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Aug. 26. — Magazine articles by Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon, paid interviews by Hauptmann case jurors, the activities of Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, and what it termed a "publicity campaign" by counsel on both sides, received outspoken condemnation today in a report to the American Bar Association.

The report by a special committee on publicity in criminal trials was presented by Judge Oscar Hallam of St. Paul, former Justice of the Minnesota Supreme Court.

After Hallam's report had been read, William Ransom, president of the association, told newspaper men the report represented only the views of Hallam and his associates and "not the authorized views of the American Bar Association."

He said its publication was "unauthorized."

Clash Over Authority.

When apprised of Ransom's statement Hallam said:

"The committee which made the report was appointed by its section and the report was made before the proper forum."

Ransom, however, gave this version to newspaper men:

"Mr. Hallam's unauthorized release and publication of his draft report is regretted. The release and publication of the report by Mr. Hallam's committee of the section on criminal law as to the Hauptmann trial is unauthorized, irregular and improper.

"The report has not been approved or its release authorized by the House of Delegates (of the Bar Association), the Assembly, the Board of Governors or by the section. The subject matter of the report has been and is in the hands of a special committee of the association, itself, of which Newton D. Baker is chairman."

Those Who Signed.

Those who signed Hallam's report were: Albert Harno of Urbana, Ill.; Charles P. Taft II, Cincinnati, O., son of the former President, and John Kirkland Clark, New York City.

Conduct of the trial by Judge Thomas W. Trenchard received the approbation of the committee.

Judge Hallam's report went at length into the alleged "trial by newspaper" which accompanied the Hauptmann trial.

Argument in Press, Movies.

"We must not have two trials, one in court and one outside," it asserted. "The system of the public press arguing the case outside of the court during the trial is fundamentally wrong."

Picture-taking in the courtroom also was condemned. Of moving pictures made during the trial the report commented:

"In the balcony of the courtroom was installed equipment for recording in pictures and sound all the scenes at the trial. The producers were under injunction of the Court not to operate the contrivance during any session of court. They violated the Court's injunction. . . . So noiselessly was this done that the Court did not discover that the operation was going on. The deception practiced on the Court was indefensible and was, in our opinion, contempt of court."

Jurors Cashing In.

Paid interviews by jurors following the trial drew this comment: "We submit the practice of jurors 'cashing in' on the fame that comes to them by reason of their jury service is clearly objectionable and should not be allowed . . . If jurors understand that reward is in prospect, that fact may easily influence their verdict toward the side which seems to have the greater promise of reward."

The activities of Gov. Hoffman of New Jersey occupy nearly four pages of the report, which said:

"The spectacle of a member of a court on board of pardons going about searching for evidence which may impugn the verdict, calling upon prospective applicants in their cells, indulging in public discussion of the merits of the case established in court . . . is repugnant to our sense of propriety and is in our opinion unwarranted."

In conclusion the committee made 16 recommendations for reform of courtroom procedure. Included were bars upon the use of cameras in the courtroom, the use of subpenas to secure spectators' seats in court, bulletins by the defendant or comment upon the case by counsel or witnesses, and vaudeville appearances by jurors after the trial.

Finds Security Act Illegal.

A majority of seven members of the Social Security Unemployment Committee of the association reported that in its opinion nine of 11 phases of the Federal Social Security Act are unconstitutional.

The committee, summarizing its report, said:

"Conclusions of this committee as to the constitutionality of the various titles of the act do not in any way indicate the viewpoint that unemployment compensation, old-age annuities and the like are either undesirable or unnecessary adjuncts of our increasingly complicated civilization. On the other hand, they merely represent the considered opinion that under the AAA decision, the social care of citizens of a State, belongs exclusively to the State, except when the general welfare of the United States may be at stake.

"Accordingly, the Federal Government has no right by establishment of a Federal system, or by making grants in aid, to interfere with the freedom of each State in taking such steps in the caring of its own citizens as it deems proper and as may be consistent with its taxing and police powers."

"Grave Threat" to Liberties.

John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924, declared the Public Utility Holding Company Act was "the gravest threat to the liberties of American citizens that has emanated from the hall of Congress in my lifetime —or in the history of that body."

The New York corporation counsel asserted the act was unprecedented in its attempt to force compliance by refusing to non-registering companies use of the United States mails.

William D. Mitchell, former Attorney-General and chairman of a committee appointed by the United States Supreme Court to consider proposed rules of civil procedure, told the bar a perfect set of rules would not necessarily produce perfect administration of justice. Mitchell said that "however perfect the rules may be, the results depend largely on the character and quality of the men on the bench and at the bar."

He also expressed the hope appointments to the Federal bench will more frequently be made on the basis of merit, and not as part of a political spoils system."

A great opportunity, he declared, presents itself to the bar "to accomplish a reform in practice and procedure that will stand out as an important accomplishment of our generation."

C. F. Hosford, Jr., chairman of the National Bituminous Coal Commission, declared there was an "imperative need" for stabilization of the bituminous coal industry and adoption of an intelligent conservation program.

Addressing the mineral law section he asserted the industry had failed to "regulate itself."

This fact and the apparent inability of the individual coal producing states to deal with the problem, indicated, he said, that the coal conservation act of 1935, particularly insofar as its price provisions were concerned, was a measure based on sound policy and was a necessary and proper exercise of Government power.

"Today," he said, "there is much talk of 'free competition.' As a matter of fact it never existed in this country or elsewhere.

"It is interesting to note that many of those who decry what they call 'Government in business' and demand a return of free competition have depended for their business success upon activities of Government in their behalf.

"Protective tariffs, land grants in earlier years, loans and subsidies, the granting of virtual monopolies under patent and copyright laws all concretely evidence the interest of Government in private business. And the public utility world owes its success to the grants of monopoly and special privilege which the Government has seen fit to make."

FOR TWO MEN ON LOCOMOTIVES

Railroad Organization to Make Concerted Effort.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—An organized effort to gain the employment of two men in the cabs of all Diesel-powered railroad locomotives was decided today by division chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Asserting that railroads economized "in many instances by using only one man in the cab," D. B. Robertson of Cleveland, international president of the order, said, "we contend that this is not a safe procedure."

THREAT OF CIVIL WAR HASTENS 740-MILE RAILROAD IN CHINA

Hankow-Canton System Is Modern and Connects Interests Between North and South.

NANKING, Aug. 26.—Threat of civil war has prematurely thrown open for military use the Hankow-Canton Railroad whose completion was expected to help unite north and south with economic and political ties.

This 740-mile modern transport and communication achievement, connecting the Yangtze River port and the south coast metropolis, was conceived by Americans, begun by Chinese with British technical assistance and completed with money derived from part of the Boxer rebellion indemnity refunded by Belgium and England.

British manufacturers supplied 50,000 tons of steel rails and fittings, 570,000 ties and 500,000 barrels of cement for this line. It has 96 stations and 100 miles of sidings and loop lines. The first group of 24 locomotives arrived from British factories recently.

Besides hauling passengers between two of China's most thickly populated regions, the Hankow-Canton line was planned to transport wood oil destined for American paint factories, antimony for European industrial centers and coal and cereals from formerly inaccessible sections of Chinese hinterland to the coast and Yangtze Valley.

A group of American financiers obtained a concession from the Chinese Government 32 years ago to build this line. But domestic and international political wranglings, civil and foreign wars, obstructed progress.

TEXAS WOMAN DOCTOR SHOOTS HUSBAND TO DEATH IN OFFICE

Says She Fired After He Seized Surgical Knife During Quarrel.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 26.—Dr. Grace Humphrey Hood, Fort Worth physician, told last night how she shot and killed her husband, Ross Turner, during a quarrel in her office yesterday. Police said she told them she fired at her husband after she saw him seize a surgical knife.

Friends of the pair said Dr. Hood, who retained her maiden name for professional purposes, asked for a divorce from Turner, 51-year-old salesman, last month, dropped the suit, then separated again.

Dr. Hood told police and reporters she talked with her husband an hour before the shooting. Seeing him with the knife clutched in his hand, she said, she snatched a pistol she had carried since Monday night, and fired one shot.

Dr. Hood and Turner married two years ago. They have a son.

Dr. Hood was charged with murder last night and released on $3000 bond, after dictating a long statement. On being released she hurried to the home of her sister, where a patient was waiting.

WOMAN, 73, IN JAIL OVER DEBT

Vermont Truck Owner Held for Failure to Pay Judgment.

RUTLAND, Vt., Aug. 26.—A 73-year-old woman, Miss Mary Cassidy of Poultney, has been in jail here for a month for failure to pay a judgment of $475.

Miss Helen Koltonski, superintendent of the Riverside Reformatory for Women, said Miss Cassidy owned a milk truck which injured John C McNamara of Middleton in an accident and that a court order to pay him the $475 had not been obeyed. She must remain in confinement until the judgment is paid unless released on bail. Thus far, Miss Cassidy had not been able to furnish bail.

JUDGE UPHOLDS 1936 COMMODITY EXCHANGE LAW

U. S. District Court Dismisses Chicago Market Men's Suit Attacking Constitutionality.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—A suit challenging the constitutionality of the Commodity Exchange Act of 1936 on 19 separate counts was dismissed by United States District Judge John P. Barnes yesterday.

Denying an injunction to restrain enforcement of the act, which became effective June 15, the court upheld the Government's contention the law was "merely an extension of the provisions of the Grain Futures Act, which already has been held to be constitutional by the United States Supreme Court."

"The court is of the opinion," Judge Barnes said at the close of arguments, "that the Supreme Court in its decisions in the Schechter (NRA) and the Carter (Guffey Coal Act) cases did not overrule its previous finding in the case of the United States versus Olsen (Grain Futures Act) . . . .

Power of Congress Upheld.

Judge Barnes said there was no question in his mind that trading in futures as well as in cash on the commodity exchanges, as well as such markets as the Board of Trade, directly affect interstate commerce and were therefore subject to regulation by Congress.

The suit testing the legality of the act was filed by William S. Moore, Aug. 15, in behalf of himself and all other members of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Arthur Magid, one of his attorneys, expressed the opinion it was the first action in the nation to be directed against the act.

Charges of unconstitutionality were based principally on allegations of violation of interstate and due process of law causes. Improper delegation of legislative power to the Secretary of Agriculture and improper delegation of judicial power to the Commodity Exchange Commission.

NRA and Guffey Acts Cited.

Attorney Walter Bachrach, for the plaintiff, argued the interstate commerce clause did not apply to the activities of the Mercantile Exchange or its members, citing the NRA and Guffey Coal Act cases in support of his contention.

Arthur Miller, counsel for the Mercantile Exchange, joined with the Government in arguing against issuance of an injunction, saying Moore was only one of 475 members of the exchange, and that an order restraining enforcement might create chaotic conditions on the exchange.

The Commodity Exchange Act was passed after being in Congress for a year, but only procedural provisions are now in effect. On Sept. 13, commodity exchanges must be registered under the law as contract markets, and their members must be registered with the commission.

Amending the Grain Futures Act of 1922, the law authorized the Commodity Exchange Commission to regulate trading in wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, cotton, rice, flaxseed, grain sorghums, mill feeds, butter, eggs and Irish potatoes.

KILLER WHO ESCAPED IN 1931 RECAPTURED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 26.—Russell Leroy Miller, who escaped five years ago from the State penitentiary, where he was serving a life term for the murder of a St. Louis woman, was back in prison today, following his arrest last Monday in Treece, Kan.

He was dressed in striped clothing, which he must wear for 90 caped prisoners.

Miller was arrested by the police of Joplin, Mo., as he came from work at the Treece mine of the Wilbur Mining Co. His arrest was brought about after prison authorities had received word of his whereabouts. They declined to disclose the source of their information.

Blames Ex-convict.

At the prison today Miller blamed an ex-convict, whom he knew while he was in prison, for turning him in. He said the convict first visited him at Picher, Ok., but that he had "confidence in him and didn't run away." The convict saw him several times between then and the time police finally got him, he said.

It was on Sept. 17, 1931, that Miller escaped from the prison, walking away while working at one of the prison farms on the site where th Algoa reformatory now is. He immediately went to Joplin, where he lived under the name of Roy Franks and was rejoined by his wife and two children. Three more children were born to the family since his escape.

Readily admitting his identity when arrested, Miller told police that he had been employed steadily in the zinc mines in the tri-state district since his escape. His wife and children bade him farewell as he left Joplin last night in the custody of a prison guard. The wife said she would return to St. Louis, where she has relatives.

Miller's employers in the mining area said that his record as a machinist's helper has been good.

"I left a good record out there in the five years," Miller said, "and perhaps some of my friends there will help me to get a pardon or parole." He said he had "never had any trouble getting a job" but that he was now worried how his family would be supported. His job paid him $3.80 a day, most of which, he said, went for food and clothes.

Killed Cabaret Pianist.

Miller, now 31 years old, was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Callie Jean Black, 29-year-old cabaret pianist, who was found slugged to death in an alley in the rear of 4959 Delmar boulevard on Dec. 6, 1925. Miller, who at the time was employed as a truck driver, admitted the crime, which followed a home brew party at the home of a friend. He said he hit Mrs. Black with a piece of iron pipe after he had discovered that she had taken his wallet while he was asleep.

Three months after his arrest Miller attempted to plead guilty of the murder in Circuit Court but he immediately withdrew his offer when Judge George E. Mix informed him that he would sentence him to be hanged.

Six weeks later he went to trial on a change of venue before Circuit Judge Frank Landwehr. The first 11 men picked for the jury panel were all World War veterans. Since Mrs. Black on the night of the murder had been selling veterans' poppies, Miller became frightened and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty. It was then that the life sentence was imposed.

ARSON WARRANT AGAINST WOMAN IN TWO HOTEL FIRES

Miss Marie Stockdale Accused of Setting Blazes Before Arrest Monday.

A warrant charging Miss Marie Stockdale of the Newstead Hotel, 4398 Olive street, with arson was issued today by Assistant Circuit Attorney Henry W. Simpson.

Police reported she set fire Monday to paper napkins she had placed under a rug at the State Hotel, 609A Market street, and fled when frightened away by an employe. She was arrested an hour later leaving the Baltimore Hotel, 1603A Market street. Investigation there disclosed a burning mattress in one of the rooms.

FINED FOR CRUELTY TO HORSE

Ice Dealer Worked Ailing Animal Although Warned Not To.

Wolf Weinshul, an ice dealer, residing at 1409 Temple place, was fined $20 today by Provisional Police Judge Edward Ruddy for violation of the ordinance forbidding cruelty to animals. The fine was stayed on payment of $10.

The charge against Weinshul was filed by the Humane Society of Missouri, which had frequently informed him that his horse was unfit to use for regular work. He was warned Aug. 17, when he drove his horse despite the fact that it had a large sore on its back. The next day the horse dropped dead and Weinshul was arrested.

4000 Attend Missouri Fox Hunt.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

EVERTON, Mo., Aug. 26.—More than 4000 persons are attending the annual hunt of the Missouri Fox Hunters' Assocaiation, in progress here this week. Seventy-five dogs competed in the events yesterday and many others arrived today. Because of the drouth, the hounds are having considerable difficulty in picking up the scent. Hundreds of tents have been erected in the city park and adjacent tracts to accommodate the visitors.

BLACK LEGION ORGANIZER AND OFFICER SURRENDER

They and Third Man Arraigned on Murder and Criminal Syndicalism Charges.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—Arthur F. Lupp Sr., admitted State organizer for the Black Legion, Wilbur Robinson, whose title was "Brigadier-General" in the order, and N. Ray Markland surrendered today and were arraigned on two murder plot charges and a criminal syndicalism indictment. Hearing was set for Aug. 31. Markland, former Mayor of suburban Highland Park, and Lupp were charged by the grand jury with conspiring to kill Martin H. Zink, Highland Park Commissioner, and Arthur L. Kingsley, publisher of the community newspaper there, as well as with syndicalism.

Markland's surrender left all 22 defendants in the syndicalism case accounted for except Virgil F. Effinger, Lima (O.) contractor who is being sought, and Isaac (Pegleg) White, former Detroit policeman.

A commission appointed to inquire into the sanity of Harvey Davis, a "Colonel" accused of leading the group charged with kidnaping and killing Charles A. Poole last May 12, reported today that Davis is sane and able to stand trial. The trial of Davis and 11 others in the Poole case is scheduled to start in Circuit Court next Monday. A sentence of three to seven and one-half years in prison was imposed today in Circuit Court on Earl Angstadt, Black Legion member convicted of falsely imprisoning Robert J. Penland, Ecorse steel worker. Angstadt once served a prison term in Ohio for automobile theft.

KATTELMAN APPLIES FOR RELEASE ON BOND

Hearing Tomorrow; Broker Jailed for Contempt Has Appeal Pending.

Harold J. Kattleman, who has been in jail since Jan. 15 for contempt of the Federal Court, applied today for release on bond pending determination by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of his appeal from the order of Federal Judge George H. Moore committing him to jail. Judge Charles B. Davis will hold a hearing on the application tomorrow.

Kattelman, owner of the bankrupt H. J. Kattelman Co., installment plan stock-selling firm, went to jail pleading that he could not comply with Judge Moore's order directing him to deliver to the receiver for the firm certain stocks and bonds, $39,205 in cash and the firm's books and records.

He surrendered the stock and bonds in July and the books and records early this month. On each occasion he asked the Court to release him from jail, contending that he had done all in his power to purge himself of contempt. He has not, however, surrendered the $39,205 in cash.

RIVER FRONT CASE FILE MISSING

Record Taken From Court Clerk's Office in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The record of the St. Louis River-Front Memorial case is missing from the files of the clerk of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, it was learned today.

In place of the missing file the clerk's office has only a receipt with an illegible signature. Printing of the record has been temporarily delayed by the loss of the record. The Court of Appeals of the District has a complete record, however, which will be used if the missing file does not turn up. The Court of Appeals recently issued a temporary injunction against Secretary of the Interior Ickes and Arno B. Cammerer, head of the National Park Service, which will delay starting of the proposed memorial at least until October.

controls most of the country's trade and industry, will pay higher taxes to make up for the cost of a larger army.

After the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of both countries, Egypt will apply for membership in the League of Nations and will receive Great Britain's indorsement.

The historic importance of the treaty was stressed alike by Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, and Nahas Pasha, Prime Minister of Egypt and head of the Egyptian delegation.

Statement by Eden.

"I have seen it said," Eden proceeded, "that the treaty marks the end of an epoch in Anglo-Egyptian relations. I prefer to regard it as beginning a new stage. During this stage the relations between our two countries will largely be governed by the provisions of this treaty and by the articles to which we are setting our signatures."

Eden expressed the hope the treaty would enable the two countries "to work together in close amity for the furtherance of their common interests and a symbol of freely agreed and enduring partnership between the British and Egyptian peoples."

Nahas Pasha said the treaty offered "to a world which is prey to disquieting convulsions an example of how much balanced reason and hope can be secured by sincere understanding."

Negotiations for the treaty were headed by Sir Miles Lampson, British High Commissioner in Cairo, and Nahas Pasha.

J. W. HARRIMAN TO BE FREED FROM PRISON TOMORROW

Formal Order Sent to Penitentiary; Ex-banker Has Been Tutor in Business School.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — The Justice Department today took the last legal step necessary to free Joseph W. Harriman of New York, former head of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., from the Federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., tomorrow.

The Bureau of Prisons sent a formal order for Harriman's release on parole, recently recommended by the Federal Board of Parole, to Henry C. Hill, prison warden.

Harriman, once a powerful figure in finance, has served more than two years of a four and one-half-year sentence for banking malpractices involving more than $1,000,000. He was charged specifically with making, or having made false entries in the books of a Federal Reserve bank.

In granting Harriman's parole, prison bureau officials described him as "an unusually well behaved prisoner." He has been a tutor in the prison's business school and it is understood that following his release he will take a position with a business firm in New York.

ITALIAN CORPORATION DECREE

Rules Revised to Give Government Tighter Control.

ROME, Aug. 26.—With closer regulation as the aim, Fascist Italy revised its rules on corporate business today. A decree, published in the official gazette, said corporations with a capitalization of 5,000,000 lire (about $390,000) or more must have at least one official accountant as a director if the total numbero f directors is three, nd at least two official accountants if the total number is five.

Companies with smaller capitalization were made subject to virtually the same measure. The decree also specified that directors of corporations may not be employes of their respective companies or their relatives, up to the fourth degree.

CITY CHEMIST WON'T ANALYZE CONFISCATED BEER SAMPLES

Health Commissioner Says Department Is Too Busy Testing Milk.

The drive begun Sunday by Excise Commissioner Thomas L. Anderson against saloons and taverns where the Sunday closing law is being violated, met today with a temporary setback when Chief City Chemist Edgar Kisner declined to analyze samples of beer confiscated in 20 arrests.

Kisner was upheld in his decision by Health Commissioner Joseph F. Bredeck, who agreed that city chemists should not be interrupted in their task of analyzing milk in connection with the drive to enforce the milk control ordinance.

Anderson said he would cite those arrested to show cause why liquor licenses should not be revoked. Hearings were set for Sept. 8.

CITIES LEFT WITHOUT LIGHTS BY CENTRAL ILLINOIS STORM

Normal Also Without Water; Power and Telephone Lines Blown Down.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 26.—Crews were laboring this morning throughout Central Illinois to clear debris and restore telephone and power service after a wind, electrical and rain storm last night.

Normal is without water or lights and many streets are blocked by fallen limbs and wire. In Bloomington traffic was blocked, signs torn down and considerable damage reported. Colfax, Carlock, LeRoy and other cities were left in darkness. The Illinois Power & Light Co. said the storm was "the worst of the year" so far as its facilities were concerned.

Farmer City's fair, which opened Monday, was closed when wind leveled most of the tents and other equipment.

The reserve water supply in Normal lasted but a short time after the storm struck. A power station was put out of commission, stopping the Normal city water pumps. Brokaw Hospital was without lights during most of the night.

Reports from towns between Bloomington and Peoria said the storm blew down hundreds of trees and light poles.

DROUTH ENDS MOONSHINING IN SOUTHEAST MISSOURI

Government Agents Think Failure of Corn and Lack of Water Discouraged Liquor Makers.

A relentless drouth in Southeast Missouri has succeeded in stamping out moonshining in a district where agents of the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit, constantly combing the hills and backwoods of the district, have but slightly checked the illicit industry in the past.

Agents working in the district with headquarters at Poplar Bluff have reported to L. E. Cowan, their chief in St. Louis, that for several weeks they have been unable to find any evidences of moonshining. They advanced the opinion that the shortage of water and the complete failure of the corn crop in that section is the reason for present lack of violations of the internal revenue laws in a district where violations, heretofore, have been more numerous and more persistent than in any other section of the State.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 26.—Department of Justice men and Springfield police guarded the 40-acre estate of wealthy Mrs. Ida Young Denault today following threats on her life. Iron gates barred the entrances of the estate.

Mrs. Denault's daughter, Miss Sally Young, and the two children of her nephew, Paul B. Stephenson, police commissioner of Springfield, were under guard. Mrs. Denault, a widow, who controls a huge patent medicine fortune, was reported in New York.

WOMAN LAWYERS' CONVENTION BARS POLITICAL ADDRESSES

Action Follows Turmoil in Boston Hall When Speaker Assails New Deal.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—The National Association of Women Lawyers barred political addresses from its convention yesterday after a Boston attorney completed under protest his twice-interrupted speech against the New Deal.

Cries of "your time is up" rang through the convention hall as Francis P. Garland, a self-described Jeffersonian Democrat, termed the New Deal "a child of alien conception, nursed by Prof. Tugwell and other radical braintrusters."

Mrs. Rosalind Goodrich Bates, of Los Angeles, Cal., jumping to her feet, declared that Garland, there to welcome the women lawyers on behalf of the Massachusetts Bar Association, had exceeded his time with his remarks "on the iniquity of the New Deal." But Garland continued.

He said later he didn't know the women who were protesting.

"But," he added. "They undoubtedly were radicals and New Dealers."

He charged the New Deal leaders, "unable to carry out their policies without violating the constitutional rights of citizens, attacked the Constitution itself. Some of the radical elements want to abolish it while others refer to it as a relic of the horse and buggy days."

Once again delegates protested.

"But," said Garland later, "my address wasn't political. I was merely reviewing some of the duties of attorneys. I concluded the address by calling upon all lawyers to rally to the support of the Constitution, and the courts."

'NEW BARBARISM' IN WORLD, SAYS LONDON COUNCILMAN

Lord Snell Declares Statesmen Foster War and Historians Are Politically Minded.

By the Associated Press.

YOSEMITE, Cal., Aug. 26.—A warning by Lord Snell of England of a "new barbarism" in the world was considered today by the Institute of Pacific Relations.

"There is no use hiding the fact," said Snell, chairman of the London County Council. "That the world is drifting toward new irrationalism, mass impulses and phobias.

"Intellectualism has to face a new barbarism; face a world of politically-minded historians, war-fostering statesmen; a doctored press, tainted sermons, poisoned broadcasts, warped editorials, national and racial self-adoration."

Charges that China was "unfriendly" and sometimes "violent" toward Japan were made in a Japanese answer to repeated Chinese assertions that the Tokio Government practiced "aggression."

Kenkichi Yoshizawa, former Japanese Minister to Nanking, said the only remedy for the situation was more conciliation on both sides.

"I do not feel that everything Japan did in the past was right," said Yoshizawa, "but I am equally convinced that what China did was not always correct."

MAN ACQUITTED ON CHARGE OF TRYING TO POISON WIFE

References to Magic and Ill Omens Figure in Testimony of Trial at Palmyra, Va.

PALMYRA, Va., Aug. 26. — A jury acquitted Laster Rigsby, war veteran, yesterday, of a charge of attempting to poison his wife, after a trial punctuated with references to magic and efforts to overcome ill omens.

Mrs. Pearl Rigsby's complaints that she had become ill after eating cornbread resulted in Rigsby's arrest. She testified her illnesses followed meals at which she ate bread made from ingredients her husband had taken home.

She "poured milk on the ground to dry up a cow" from which she believed she was getting poison milk, Rigsby testified. He told officers after his arrest a Negro magician had "hexed" his wife into believing some one poisoned her.

KANSAS CITY PROSECUTOR WON'T CHALLENGE BOND VOTE

Tells Persons Alleging Fraud That He Has No Power to Act to Enjoin Issue.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 26.—W. W. Graves Jr., Jackson County prosecutuor, said today he had advised David M. Proctor he would take no steps to enjoin issuance of $2,465,000 in bonds for refunding county indebtedness which were voted in the recent primary.

Graves asserted he did not "know of any authority in the statutes" which would authorize him to institute a civil suit.

He was asked last Saturday by Proctor and his son, David M. Proctor Jr., representing Clarence B. Reed and others, to take such action on the ground that fraud had been committed in the election.

BROOKLYN PROSECUTOR'S HEARING OPENS AT ALBANY

Gov. Lehman Reads Charges Against W. F. X. Geoghan in Drukman Case.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman opened a public hearing of removal charges against District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Kings County (Brooklyn) today with the statement that the chief executive is "answerable only to his own conscience and to the people of the State."

The Governor repeated the three charges of incompetence, neglect and association with notorious characters preferred by an extraordinary grand jury after Geoghan had failed to obtain indictments in the Samuel Drukman murder case. A second grand jury later indicted three men and they were convicted of second degree murder on evidence presented by Hiram C. Todd, special prosecutor.

"I purpose to take up the charges in order," said the Governor, "and to receive all evidence concerning each one of them in the order of the specifications under each charge. I shall limit the hearing to the specifications." Before opening the hearing Gov. Lehman said political considerations would be barred from evidence.

Geoghan called to the stand as the first witness in his own defense, said his answer to all charges was a denial. "I, personally, and members of my staff worked harder on the Drukman case than on any other case in my 13 years' experience as a district attorney," he testified.

HIRTH PREPARES DROUTH PLEA TO ROOSEVELT AT HANNIBAL

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 26. — An appeal for emergency drouth assistance to Missouri farmers will be laid before President Roosevelt when he visits Hannibal Sept. 3.

William Hirth, president of the Missouri Farmers' Association, called today on all Missouri County court judges to hold mass meetings in their counties this week to gather information on what measures will best aid drouth-stricken farmers. He proposed that representatives from each county be sent to the Missouri Farmers' Association convention at Sedalia Aug. 31.

At the Sedalia meeting the county reports will be compiled into a state-wide report, designed to give Roosevelt an accurate picture of the Missouri situation. A state committee will be named at Sedalia to present the report to the President at Hannibal.

IMPORTS EXCEED EXPORTS BY $15,000,000 IN JULY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. — The Commerce Department reported today that imports exceeded exports by $15,085,000 last month. Exports amounted to $178,324,000, compared with $184,909,000 in June and $173,230,000 in July, 1935. Imports totaled $193,409,000 against $190,387,000 in June and $176,631,000 in July, 1935.

The drop in export trade since June was 4 per cent, with imports increasing 2 per cent. As a rule, the department said, both exports and imports show a small seasonal decline in July.

For the first seven months of this year exports totaled $1,332,471,000 and imports $1,356,562,000, an excess of imports of $24,091,000. For the same period last year, a $26,243,000 excess of exports was shown, exports being listed at $1,197,340,000 and imports at $1,171,097,000.

Increases in imports were said to be distributed among a wide range of commodities, including furs, whisky and spirits, cotton and wool manufactures, wood pulp and paper and nickel and tin among the most important.

30,000 FISH TAKEN OUT OF LAKE THAT IS DRYING UP

More than 30,000 bass, crappie, blue gills, cat and buffalo, varying in size from one-half pound to 10 pounds were rescued yesterday by a crew of men under Conrad Pfeil, deputy game warden of Belleville, from a 10-acre lake, which is drying up on the farm of Frank Moll, near Fayetteville, St. Clair County.

The lake, which Moll had kept stocked for 12 years, held an unusually large number of fish, Pfeil said. They began to die three weeks ago when the lake became shallow and the water stagnant. A method of freshening the water by churning it with an outboard motor was tried for a week, but with no rainfall the fish continued to die, and Moll appealed to the game warden for help. There is only a foot of water left in the lake.

Ten truckloads of the fish in tanks were removed to deeper public and private lakes in the vicinity. The seining crew worked from 3 a. m. to 4 p. m. getting the fish out.

MISSOURI PRIMARY VOTE 1,079,864, RECORD FOR STATE

Attorney-General McKittrick Got Largest Among Democrats With 754,800 —Elder Led G. O. P.

MAJ. STARK GIVEN 359,883 MAJORITY

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 26. — The vote cast in the Missouri primary election last Aug. 4 totaled 1,079,864, according to the official canvass of the election returns completed late yesterday afternoon by the Secretary of State's department. This figure established a new record for a primary election vote in the state. The previous high was 1,007,405 in 1932.

The high vote totals in the primary this year included 754,800 Democratic votes cast for Roy McKittrick of Salisbury, unopposed for the Democratic renomination for Attorney-General, and 325,064 Republican votes cast for Conway Elder of St. Louis, unopposed for the Republican nomination for an eight-year unexpired term as Judge of Division No. 1 of the Missouri Supreme Court.

Stark's Majority 359,883.

The majority of Lloyd C. Stark of Louisiana, Democratic nominee for Governor, over his only opponent, William Hirth of Columbia, was 359,883, according to the canvass. Stark received 538,354 votes and Hirth 178,471.

Former Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett of St. Louis, Republican nominee for Governor, received a plurality of 186,274 votes over James J. Barrett of St. Louis, former private detective. The vote was Jesse W. Barrett, 228,900; James J. Barrett, 42,626, and Claude L. Lambert of Kansas City, 40,140.

The name of Otto C. Botz of Jefferson City, Independent candidate for Governor, did not appear on the primary ballot and no vote was recorded for him in the primary totals. He filed for the office, subject to the November election, by petition.

Since the primary election Hirth, who conducted his campaign chiefly on a fight against domination of Democratic affairs in Missouri by the T. J. Pendergast Democratic machine of Kansas City, has issued a statement that he would vote for Jesse W. Barrett, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, in the November election, and urged his supporters to follow his example.

Results of Other Voting.

Lieutenant-Governor — Democratic, Frank G. Harris of Columbia, unopposed for renomination, 752,029. Republican: Former State Senator Manvel H. Davis of Kansas City, 127,933; Henri Chouteau of St. Louis, 31,022; John R. Davis of St. Louis, 91,550; Manvel Davis' plurality, 36,383.

Secretary of State—Democratic: Dwight H. Brown of Poplar Bluff, unopposed for renomination, 753,809. Republican: L. D. Thompson of Jefferson City, 129,091; Fred M Harrison of Gallatin, 114,066; Fred M. Crawford of Eldorado Springs, 58,394; Thompson's plurality, 15,025.

Winn, Unopposed, Got 753,774.

State Treasurer—Democratic; R. W. Winn of New London, unopposed, 753,774. Republican: Arch D. Williams of Kansas City, 176,852, and Larry Brunk of Jefferson City, former State Treasurer, 118,494; Williams' majority, 58,358.

Attorney-General — Democratic: Roy McKittrick of Salisbury, unopposed for renomination, 754,800. Republican: J. Grant Grye of Ilmo, 175,054, and Clarence A. Powell of Dexter, 119,223; Frye's majority, 55,831.

Judge of Division No. 1 of the Supreme Court, full 10-year term—Democratic: Judge Ernest S. Gantt, of Jefferson City, renominated, 390,474, and Lawrence McDaniel, of St. Louis, 287,555. Gantt's majority, 102,919. Republican: Charles C. Madison of Kansas City, 160,706, and Lieutellus Cunningham of Jefferson City, 132,109; Madison's majority, 28,597.

Big Business, Please Read.
An Okapi Sanctuary.
Government Might Aid.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1936.)

THROUGHOUT France and Europe generally, you buy gasoline, called essence, by the quart. Five quarts is a good deal of gasoline in Europe.

The price is about 12 cents a quart, our money, 48 cents a gallon. Compare that with prices in the United States where citizens, according to some professional minds, are crushed to earth by big business.

Thanks to America's well-managed big business, its gigantic production power making low prices possible, families in the United States have twice as many automobiles as all the rest of the world put together, plus twice as many miles of perfect roads as all the rest of the world possesses. Cheap automobile and gasoline produce the good roads.

In America the average family can afford an automobile. Europe's average family could no more think, sanely, of buying a decent automobile than it could of buying the Corsair, J. Pierpont Morgan's big yacht.

You should see the expression on the face of Monsieur Pinaud, who sells essence in France, when you tell him that in Texas and elsewhere oil has sold below 10 cents a barrel.

Our great oil, automobile and other units of "big business," that some professors would tear down, have their good points. They do, occasionally, produce big fortunes for individuals, but they also produce first-class gasoline, oil and automobiles at about one-quarter of European prices; and the individuals who build the big fortunes never take them out of the United States to heaven; and their silly heirs usually scatter them quickly. Read the "Society News."

One serene old French gentleman interests department store owners and employes in America. He worked 30 years in a big store in Paris, became thoroughly acquainted with its methods, then retired to his estate in a beautiful wooded section.

There as resident agent of the department store he looks after customers, collects money, has the new bicycle put in order if the brake does not work, or returns it to Paris, politely, if you are dissatisfied. His modest pay would not buy gasoline for a "big buyer" in New York or Chicago, but it satisfies him; each year he spends three months in Paris. He feels "we must not lose touch with the big world; and, after all, the very heart of the world is Paris." You will travel far to find a happier, white-haired man, or one more polite.

The okapi, strange striped beast of Africa, half-way between giraffe and zebra in appearance, was unknown to civilization until recently. Now the Belgian Congo, in the province of Kibali Ituri, establishes a sanctuary for okapis, that the rare, timid creatures may not die out. A white game warden will be in charge; natives do not take game sanctuaries too seriously. Digging pits to trap antelopes will be forbidden in the okapi sanctuary, lest okapi fall in.

How wonderful if Government, somewhere, could build a sanctuary for white-haired old men, who fall so often into the pits dug by get rich-quick schemers. In their days of youth and strength, they are more useful to the world than the okapi.

The Meaning Of Doubles

By Ely Culbertson

TO show your partner that your double is meant to be taken out, you must double immediately (at your first opportunity to double.) If you previously have had an opportunity to double, and have not done so, a later double will be for penalties and your partner should pass.

Ely Culbertson

A double never is meant for a take-out when your partner has made any bid, or when you have opened the bidding with a no trump bid or a forcing suit two-bid.

Finally, the doubled bid must be one no trump or not more than three in a suit.

Examples.

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Double
	(take-out)

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 hearts	Double

(Not a take-out, for West had a previous opportunity to double.)

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Double
			(take-out)

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 diamond	1 heart	Double

(East's double is not for a take-out because his partner has bid.)

A player who has opened the bidding may make a take-out double on the second round if his partner has passed his opening bid.

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	Pass	1 spade
Double

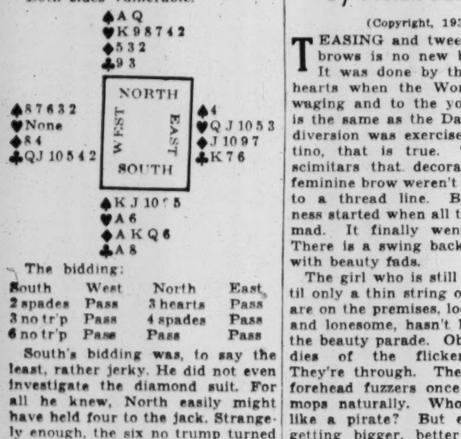

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	Pass	2 clubs

* * *

IT is a well known fact that, with eleven tricks in a hand, good play often will bring home the twelfth either by a squeeze or a throw-in play. In the former case, however, it often is necessary to concede a trick at a convenient time in order properly to adjust the timing of the subsequent squeeze. That was the case in today's hand.

South, dealer.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
3 no tr'p	Pass	4 spades	Pass
6 no tr'p	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's bidding was, to say the least, rather jerky. He did not even investigate the diamond suit. For all he knew, North easily might have held four to the jack. Strangely enough, the six no trump turned out to be the best contract.

West opened the club queen and declarer took stock. He could count 11 top tricks, but unless the diamonds should break three and three he would have to dig for the twelfth. With the thought that a squeeze might be necessary, declarer let West hold the trick. The club ace won the next lead and five round of spades were run off. When it came time for East to discard to the fifth round, the wisdom of declarer's course became apparent, because at that time East was faced with the choice of letting go the guard to either hearts or diamonds. Hoping that declarer had started with only three diamonds, East held on to his heart stopper, but now declarer brought home his diamond suit intact for the twelfth and fulfilling trick. If declarer had won the first trick, he never could have squeezed East.

Today's Question.

Question: For bidding purposes, how many playing tricks should one count to a suit of A K x x?

Answer: Two and one-half, the half being for the four-card length.

Instructions For Children When Visiting

By Angelo Patri

YOUNG people will be going on house visits during the vacation They ought to know how to be good guests. There is as much obligation upon a guest as upon a host, and that fact ought to be impressed upon young people. A few simple observances of good manners would not only make the guests visit pleasanter for him, it would endear him to his host and assure his welcome for all time.

Angelo Patri

A guest ought to know what clothes to take along. If he does not know what occasions he is to dress for it is simple enough to ask his hostess. She will be glad to tell the girl or boy just what to expect. It is painful for a hostess to arrange for a hike and a picnic only to discover that her guests have only spike-heeled slippers and evening clothes.

A good guest arrives exactly on time, is always on time for meals, and leaves exactly on the hour of the day planned beforetime. No matter what the temptation to stay may be, he goes.

The intelligent guest keeps his belongings in the room assigned to him and does not spread himself all over the house — his tennis racquet on the porch, his sweater in the living-room, his magazines on the lawn. When he goes, he looks over his room, checks his belongings and makes sure that he is leaving nothing behind for his hosts to express or mail to him.

Good guests never ask servants for special service. They make as little work for them as possible, remembering that the house servants do not take kindly to extra work. This bit of thoughtfulness will win the enduring regard of the lady of the house who has her own troubles with the household staff.

In leaving, the good guest has a grateful word for the servants, a personal good-by if possible. Before making the final gesture of farewell the good guest checks up in his mind the articles he has borrowed, if any, and makes certain that they have been returned. The borrowing guest, the one who borrows anything, from carfare home to dinner clothes, is not welcomed again. Borrow nothing. Don't carry off the book you were reading. Wear what you brought or do without. If an emergency arose that made borrowing or using something that belonged to someone else, then apologize briefly for the mishap and make good the expense or the loan immediately.

Once at home again the good guest writes a note to the hostess. That note ought to be something more than a bread and butter note. Maybe the writer cannot sparkle in his expressions of gratitude and pleasure, but he can say something that smacks of himself rather than of the form letter. What is wanted in the whole business of being a guest is a happy expression of pleasure in the company of the family that invited him.

Being a guest is a job, not a vacation pastime. The guest is to give pleasure, and according to his power to fulfill his obligation he and his hosts have "a good time." He can always rest up at home. That is what his hosts will do after he goes. The less rest they need after his departure the higher his praises will mount.

Angelo Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

THE MAN of FASHION

By ESQUIRE

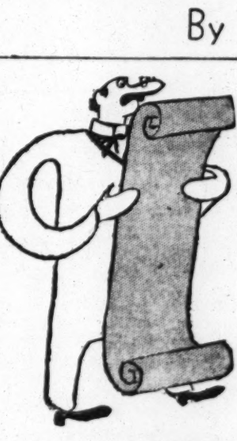

High Fashion for Higher Education

IN KEEPING with ivy-colored walls and the countryside atmosphere of the campus, university men are the foremost exponents of a nonchalence in clothes which should not be confused with downright carelessness. Their partiality to rougher fabrics and bolder patterns is indication of judgment and taste in the selection of clothes for school wear. The odd jacket and slack combination continue to be much favored and fairly bold patterned jackets in plain-back models are being used extensively with medium grey flannel slacks. A sleeveless pullover serves as a waistcoat with this combination. In suits, tweeds of either Irish or Scotch ancestry are highly practical and the personification of nonchalence.

IMPORTANT NOTE: In case you have any doubts about what to wear and when to wear it, we should be happy to send you a "CHART OF CORRECT DRESS—APPROVED BY ESQUIRE." Just send us a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Effect of Erect Posture On Mankind

Strain Is Put on Digestion And Respiration by Upright Position.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

"MAN," defined Plato, "is a two-legged animal without feathers." All of his pupils accepted this pronouncement except Diogenes, who plucked a cock and bringing it into school, said, "Here is Plato's man." The definition was then amended by adding, "with broad, flat nails."

Dr. Clendening

Plato and all other philosophers seem to feel that man's upright position is an advantage to him. It has made him lord of creation. Perhaps so, but not without some cost.

The worst effects of the erect posture are upon the digestive and respiratory systems. According to their architecture, man was never supposed to be upright. And added strain is put upon these systems in some individuals by the alternate assumption of the erect posture while waking and of the supine posture while sleeping. It is a credit to most of us that the terrible strength of our architecture is able to stand up under the strain.

Our digestive tract was meant to be operated in the horizontal position. The stomach lies sideways, and when we are lying on our backs or on all fours, the exit of the stomach into the intestines (the pylorus) is on a level with the retaining pouch. When we stand up the pylorus is held high, but the lowest level of the pouch sinks down. In people with flabby abdominal muscles, the stomach may indeed sink away down, and when it is filled with a heavy meal there may be considerable mechanical effort involved in getting it through the opening. Again, the upright position may cause the large intestine to sag, leading to such functional troubles as constipation or mucous colitis.

* * *

THE respiratory system nose and lungs—are designed so that in the all-fours position they drain secretions and contaminations out of the body. In the erect position, these secretions and contaminations tend to remain in the sinuses and roots of the bronchial tree. Gravity favors the entrance of foreign material into the trachea and lungs, and the stagnation of secretion formed in situ.

As an evidence of the operation of this principle, it is known that such infections as lung abscess tend to occur in the lower lung lobes in man and when, as very rarely happens, they occur in animals, it is in the anterior lung portions. Sinus disease is almost unknown in animals.

Of course, Nature has provided a protective mechanism so far as the lungs are concerned. The glottic reflex is part of it—meaning that the glottis and vocal cords are very sensitive to the presence of foreign particles in the air, and when they are irritated set up a cough to expel them and so protect the lungs. In the windpipe another portective device in the form of the delicate hairs lining the opening of the bronchi and all waving in a current upward toward the mouth tend to rid the lower respiratory system of germs and foreign particles, and help to overcome the mistake of the upright position.

In treating lung infections, the patient is often hung over an apparatus so that the head is lower than the waist, thus promoting drainage by posture.

The whole subject once more emphasizes the importance of rest in the supine position for both digestive and respiratory troubles.

Eyebrows Are Getting Bigger And Heavier

By Helen Jameson.

(Copyright, 1936.)

TEASING and tweezing the eyebrows is no new beauty whim. It was done by the little dear-hearts when the World War was waging and to the young fry that is the same as the Dark Ages. The diversion was exercised in moderatino, that is true. Those pretty scimitars that decorate the noble feminine brow weren't weeded down to a thread line. But the madness started when all the world was mad. It finally went the limit. There is a swing back. Thus it is with beauty fads.

The girl who is still plucking until only a thin string of old settlers are on the premises, looking forlorn and lonesome, hasn't kept up with the beauty parade. Observe the ladies of the flickering screen. They're through. They're growing forehead fuzzers once again. Not mops naturally. Who would look like a pirate? But eyebrows are getting bigger, better and wider and girls are looking human again.

What is the ideal eye lambrequin, what does it look like? It is dark of color, carries a high luster, slightly in the middle section, tapers to a fine point at the far end. The straight line, the lowered one and the eyebrow that approaches its twin all impart a sinister expression. The high arch almost forming a half circle gives an expression of chronic surprise.

Correct Placing Of Scatter Rugs

By Elizabeth Boykin

"MY RUGS lead a restless life!" I'm always shifting them around, but I would appreciate some rules on the subject of where to place scatter rugs." The lady who asked us that problem has a Cape Cod cottage with early American furniture, hooked rugs and pert little sprigged wall paper. "I could use an idea or two about furniture coverings, too. . . . I'm so tired of the things you see all the time."

In the first place, there aren't many rules for placing scatter rugs, but the rules there are are awfully important. The main one is—don't put them "cata-cornered." Another is—keep the size of the rug more or less in proportion to the floor space . . . for instance don't put a little bit of a rug in the middle of a big empty floor space.

Now then about this particular living-room—it's so pleasant already that we feel like a butt-in-sky to have our say. The walls are aquamarine which is charming with maple furniture by the way. The draperies are of figured chintz on a rust or coppery colored ground with blue-green pleated ruffles, and the glass curtains are in very very pale maize organdy . . . they're criss cross and tied back—the draperies are hung straight from a pole. Above the fireplace on the mantel shelf there is a big copper plate and two interesting copper jugs. We are asked about furniture coverings . . . we'd have the sofa in a chevron weave material of copper color and two chairs in the same weave in a nice shade of blue-green. Then a figured material for a little love seat—something that co-ordinates the various colors in the room, or perhaps the drapery material could be repeated here.

Stronger Pockets

When sewing pockets on aprons or dresses, double a small piece of the material and put underneath at the top of the pockets. It will keep them from tearing so easily when caught upon things.

COOK-COOS -- --- -- By TED COOK

MEN WHO FORGE TO THE FRONT

It wouldn't be fair to go on with our invoice of America's assets without offering a Chautauqua salute to Ivy B. Hasselblatz, public relations counsel for the Laundry Owners of America. Thanks to Hasselblatz's hostile attitude, housewives no longer pull down the shades and refuse to answer the doorbell when the laundryman calls. "Indeed," says Hasselblatz, "we have torn to shreds the argument that laundries are mere profit-seeking institutions. When a woman carelessly says that the laundry is using sulphuric acid in the suds, I give her a vitriolic reply. I have no patience, anyway, with customers who think only of material things. The laundries have a problem, yes; but we are approaching a solution —a strong solution."

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a girl 18 years old and the third eldest of a family of five children. My father is fairly well off, my brother contentedly employed, my sister attending college, and my whole family seems perfectly happy and prosperous. More than once I have heard strangers say that we are the happiest, most harmonious family they ever have seen. And, to all outside appearances, I suppose this is true.

But, Mrs. Carr, I am so disgusted inside myself that I don't know what to do except ask for your advice. Perhaps my parents and sisters and brothers are satisfied with their lot, but I am not. I can tell what is going to happen every day. I know what Mother will say, and what Dad will say and what everyone else in the family will do and say. I'd like to do something crazy just for a little excitement. I cannot get thrilled over a movie or a date with boys or picnicking or swimming. Whether I am a case for a psychiatrist, I do not know. But something has got to happen or a million little things inside me will explode.

Please tell me what to do before I go crazy with the mediocrity of my life. A GIRL.

You may have very real talents, which, at this age, are trying to be released and trying to express themselves, and it is likely that your temperament may be entirely different from that of any of your family. This happens when people have creative minds. In this case, what you need is work as a form of expression—but only you can tell in what direction it might take form. If you have any real talents, you should know it even if it is only in embryo. And you could be busy, head over heels, if you would try to look into the activities offered in so large a city and are with so many opportunities for self culture. Possibly a little community work, such as is offered in the volunteer department of the Community Council, might start your brain on the search for really interesting work.

If it is art or music or other branches of culture—go right to the sources and look them up. There is no excuse for stagnating or being satisified with allowing yourself to be bored with monotony. Hike out and get something.

I have spoken of these things because girls of your age, really are sometimes puzzled about the life plan they would make. But—you may, in truth, typically imagine yourself lost and dismayed and perhaps take a sweet satisfaction in dramatizing yourself and your life so that it gives a picture of the tragic maiden in hopelessness and despair. Usually this type is too well cared for, fed, clothed and gently indulged. And what this type needs is a swift push out into the difficult realities of life.

And my face is all broken out with pimples. What can I do for this? WAITING PATIENTLY.

Certainly, a young girl your age should rise when older people shake hands with you. What's the matter? Does the chair pull?

Send me self-addressed, stamped envelope, and I will give you some suggestions for the pimples. But be careful not to eat too many sweets and not to infect your face by putting soiled hands on it. You may outgrow the pimple stage, but you must take care of your health.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WANT to try and locate some relatives in St. Charles, Mo. Could you be kind enough to tell me how I can get to St. Charles? Can one go by street car or bus, or does one have to take the train? I live in South St. Louis and I would like to go there soon. ANXIOUS.

Probably it would be best to use a notice in the "Personals" column of the want ad section of the Post-Dispatch. You could make yourself known to them through this medium.

You can take the Hodiamont car to Wellston, then take a bus to St. Charles. This is an independent bus line.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I SHOULD like very much to know about the new dances and how to try to teach myself at home how to do them. Is there a book or pamphlet I could read, so that I can learn? MARY.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

RECENTLY you failed to mention the Ladies' Auxiliary of the St. Louis Cycling Club when listing bicycle clubs in St. Louis. No doubt this was through an oversight or possibly because of no late information regarding this club.

Ours was the first of its kind established in this city, and to date can boast being the largest and most active Women's Cycling Club in the United States. We not only have quantity (60 members) but quality riders as well. Just two months ago six of our girls spent the most unique vacation touring the State of Wisconsin via bicycles for two weeks; having traversed a total of 600 miles. At the same time, two others spent one week in a similar manner. Several of our members, too, have made a century run, that is, pedalled 100 miles in one day.

We conduct bike tours every Sunday, the total distance ranging from 20 to 50 miles. Then over holidays, a two-day trip is arranged, making an overnight stop and returning to St. Louis the next day. Regular monthly meetings are held the second Thursday of each month at Van Horn's Farm, 8:30 p. m.

We welcome new members or guest riders at all times.

FLORENCE FREIHAUT,
Secretary.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I SAW a letter some time ago about a club for girls doing housework and nursing. The St. Louis Housekeeping Club is such an organization. The object is to help, especially, girls from out of town and those who are ambitious to make a success of their work. This is open to all girls of good character and there are classes for those who are inexperienced.

There is also a club for ladies employing domestic help, to bring about a better understanding between employer and maid, so that housework will be a profession and not a drudgery. For this there is a special interest in those who have been doing housework in St. Louis for years. I will thank you if you will print this in behalf of working girls. MRS. L. F.

Before passing this information on, it will be necessary for you to give me substantial business reference. I think it may be very helpful both to employers and the employed, but I am obliged to ask everyone in these cases for credentials.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

Social Backgrounds —Youths Driving Cars and State's Motor Laws.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

SOMETIME ago you wrote an article on how a person reveals her social background by the way she speaks. You gave examples of tabu words and phrases and pointed out wrong pronunciations which Miss Oldname would never use. I have been thinking over this for some time and would like to ask you this question: Is it quite fair to condemn Miss Nobackground for using them if she has not had the same earlier advantage as those of Miss Oldname?

Emily Post

Answer: That article was in no way intended to condemn Miss Nobackground but merely to make her aware of something that is a fact. The words we choose and the way we pronounce them tell the whole story of our early advantages—or unless corrected, their lack. If Miss Nobackground is serious about wanting to change her rating, the very best way to do this is to overcome whatever faults she may have in her speech. In short, to give a parallel examples: When we hear a foreign accent, we know the speaker is not American; when he has no accent, we don't.

Dear Mrs. Post: I was much interested in your article in regard to a group of young girls about 17 years old driving their own cars, or those of their parents, to take their boy friends on dates. I take no exception whatever to your conclusions in the matter, but believe you have overlooked a rather vital point in so far as many of the States are concerned, where it happens to be unlawful for holders of junior licenses (those under the age of 18) to drive any cars whatsoever, except for the purpose of attending school or on the business of their parents or guardians. In no event are they permitted to drive one-half hour past sunset nor in large cities at any time. I thought perhaps you would want to make mention of this point because I happen to know that there are many cases on record where unfortunate parents have been bankrupt by the illegal use of their cars by their children holding junior licenses.

Answer: In the article quoted I was thinking only of the manners of young people, and not of motor laws. But certainly it did not occur to me that any holder of a driver's license could fail to know exactly what his license permitted him to do. I am more than glad to print your letter because for nothing in the world would I encourage any driver to even slightly disregard any State's motor laws.

Souvenir Issue For Centennial Is Withdrawn

THE one cent Century of Progress souvenir sheets of 25 stamps has been withdrawn from sale at the Philatelic Agency. With the withdrawal of this stamp there remains but one of the Farley imperforate issues still available to collectors from the Postoffice Department. The one remaining is the three cent Century of Progress souvenir sheets of 25 stamps. This sheet will probably be withdrawn in the very near future.

Both the one cent and three cent Century of Progress sheets were printed on the stamp press included in the Government Exhibit at the Century of Progress, Chicago. These sheets were first placed on sale on Aug. 25, 1933, at the Philatelic station in Chicago which was operated in connection with the annual convention of the American Philatelic Society which was being held in Chicago at that time.

At the time of announcing that the one cent Century of Progress was withdrawn on Aug. 19, 1936, the Postoffice Department also announced that 193,239,100 of the Mother's day rotary press stamps had been sold before withdrawal; 4,761,306 of the Omaha souvenir sheets; 70,726,800 of the Connecticut stamps. These figures on the above issues are total sales after these stamps were withdrawn from sale. The Postoffice Department also announced that the following figures for the following stamps are the total numbers authorized or which will be authorized to be printed; San Diego issue, 1,000,000; Boulder Dam issue, 75,000,000; The Michigan issue, 75,000,000; and the Texas issue, 125,000,000.

The Anthony Stamp.

The first printing of the Susan B. Anthony stamp took plaie last week. The designer of this stamp was Victor S. McCloskey Jr. The engraver of the lettering on the stamp was Edward M. Hall and the engraver of the picture, Carl T. Arlt. The plate numbers for the new stamp are as follows: 21,588, 21,589, 21,590 and 21,591. The Susan B. Anthony stamp is being printed on the rotary presses.

At the ceremonies incidental to the first printing Clinton B. Eilenberger, Third Assistant Postmaster-General, said "more than two years ago the Postoffice Department recognized and honored the mothers of the nation by issuing a Mother's day stamp. We honor not only the great leader, Susan B. Anthony, but also pay tribute to the women of the country who have contributed so much to the progress of the nation."

On Broadway

By Walter Winchell

Walter Winchell

Sounds Like Her.

The recent story about King Edward answering the telephone in Buckingham Palace is still topped, we think, by the one about the reporter assigned to get a statement from Mrs. Roosevelt.

He looked up the number of the Roosevelts' East Sixty-fifth street house and dialed it. "May I speak with Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary, please," he asked.

"I'm sorry," was the reply, Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary isn't in now, but this is Mrs. Roosevelt. May I take the message?"

And She Could.

The Retort Proper.

Jed Harris was recalling the time he was broke and sent word to Otto H. Kahn that he had a new play and needed backing. Harris forwarded the manuscript.

The late Wall Streeter-play angel wrote in reply: "I have read your piece and I don't think it will be a hit!"

"I asked you for your money," wired Jed, "not your advice!"

Sudden Thought.

Too many newspaper authors, who pirate themes and ideas, do it this way: "With apologies to so-and-so."

Instead of apologizing to their readers.

Sensayuma.

We witnessed it near the Palace, where "Green Pastures" was the attraction.

A little old lady was felled by a careless driver. As they carried her from the gutter onto the pavement to have a long wait for the ambulance, she sighed: "I wanted to see 'Green Pastures'—but not so soon."

Imagine.

Burns and Allen tell it on themselves. Jobs aren't so scarce, perhaps. They recently lost their chauffeur and maid, married folks.

All because the stars bought a new limousine with one of those windows you can slide up or down behind the driver, when you want privacy.

"I've been with you a long time," explained the chauffeur as he resigned, "and when you push up that window it shows you don't trust me."

Heheheh.

Add Similes.

As suspicious as a suicide in Berlin. . . . Reed Lawton's: "As improbable as a fashion sketch of H. Broun in Esquire." . . . Leo Reisman's: "The kind of a smile that showed the teeth—not the heart." . . . "Dainty as a baby's sneeze." . . . "Forgotten as the moment before sleep." . . . BLUE HONEYMOON

-o- A Two-weeks Serial -o-

By LOUISE HOLMES

Nancy Makes an Engagement With Jim and Offers Her Sympathy—He Is Bitter Over the Situation.

CHAPTER THREE.

DOUBTFUL where Jim might be found, Nancy called the club where he lived. Waiting, she held the telephone with tense fingers. Suppose he had moved; suppose——

"Stanley speaking."

"Jim, this is Nancy," she said, as naturally as she could with her heart pounding against her ribs. That was what calling Jim did to her.

"I want to see you, Jim," She said it as if she had been seeing him daily. "How would you like to take me somewhere for dinner?"

There was an instant's silence when she wondered if his funds were as low as hers, then, "I'd like to, Nancy. Shall I stop for you at Danford's?" Then he knew no more of her changed fortunes than she had of his.

"I'm at home," she told him.

"All right—I'll be along about 6:30. Mighty nice of you to call."

Nancy replaced the receiver on the hook and pressed her fingers against her eyes. When she took them away they were wet. "There's no use fighting it," she said to herself as she reached her small back room. "I love Jim Stanley and I always will—always and always."

They were seated at a table in the corner of the Avon inn and their orders had been taken before they verged on personalities.

"Jim," Nancy said, her eyes sweet and friendly, "I heard only this afternoon what has been happening to you. I'm so sorry about—everything."

Jim looked down at his hand, nervously twisting the stem of a tumbler. "I wondered if you knew," he said slowly.

"It's rotten for you. I know how you must feel."

He shrugged wearily. "I had grand ideas at first of sticking it out, of standing up to it, but I don't know—I'm licked, I guess."

"Oh, no, Jim!"

"You see, when you have a reputation for dishonesty——" his lips twisting wryly.

"But you're not that!" quickly.

"They say I am."

"But they'll find out. Things like this can't happen." She noticed the lines of suffering around his mouth, the discouraged sag of his shoulders.

"Well, it did happen — three weeks ago—and I've walked the streets ever since trying to find someone who believed in me, someone who would give me a chance. But it's no use. My last hope died today and I'm clearing out in the morning." A little smile broke the hard line of his mouth. "You don't know what it meant to have you call. I was packing and—and thinking I hadn't a friend in the world—that no one cared——" His lips had the stubborn set of a small boy fighting unmanly tears.

"No use," shaking his head. "If I stay I'll be on the city. I'm not quite busted yet, and I'll go while the going is good."

"I have no family. My mother died during my last year at college and after that there was nothing to go back to Cleveland for. My roommate gave me a letter to Si Bartlett and I came out here. I thought I was lucky to land a good berth in his bank, thought I was lucky because he seemed to like me, took me home, introduced me to—his family. His dull tone became suddenly brittle. "Better if I'd washed cars in a garage."

They were silent as the waitress served them. When they were again alone Nancy asked, "Then where are you going?" The thought of Jim going away was like a knife in her heart.

"North," he told her. "When my grandfather died, he left me his hunting and fishing lodge, 'Road's End,' he called it, and I guess that about describes the place. It's on Moon Lake in Northern Minnesota. I've never seen it—never thought of it except to pay the taxes, but there it is, waiting to take in the black sheep of the Stanley family."

• • •

SHE watched him with pitying eyes as he continued. "A small income went with the legacy, hardly enough to pay my club dues and keep my shoes shined here, but enough to eke out a miserable existence in that God-forsaken spot." After a short silence, he went on. "For the first time since my mother died, I can see some reason for it. I'm glad she didn't live to see this thing happen to me—it would have hurt her so."

Nancy wanted to take him in her arms and comfort him. He was going away to fight it out alone. Then a thought came to her—so preposterous a thought that she pushed it hastily aside. But it left her shaken and excited.

"But, Jim," she said, "can't you talk to Mr. Bartlett?"

He changed his position angrily. "That's just it. He made no accusation, gave me no chance to deny or vindicate myself."

"But your friends——"

"I have no friends," bitterly. "I've seen them turn away. Nope," he sighed, "there's nothing to do but clear out, and I'm off in the morning."

As he talked the tormenting thought reasserted itself with such force that, when his voice died away wretchedly, Nancy leaned forward and put an imploring hand on his arm.

"Take me with you," she said, and added, "please, Jim!" as he stared at her dazedly. At last he shook his head.

"You wouldn't want to go with me," he said shortly. "A man can't drag a girl down with him. That's what Sylvia——" He stopped there. He hadn't meant to mention Sylvia, but he was so filled with the bitter thought of her that the words slipped out.

"But if I want to go? You'll be so lonely all by yourself. You'll need someone to cook for you and sew on buttons, and—and things." Her voice was eager and hushed with entreaty.

"Have you any idea what I would be leaving?" desperately.

"This is your home—your friends are here."

"Jim," she interrupted recklessly, "do you know that I lost my job two months ago? That I've walked the streets every day since and have found nothing to do?" She could feel that at last she had his attention.

"My room rent is a month past due and I'm fully as desperate as you are. Perhaps more so because I'm a girl, and because my grandfather didn't leave me a hunting lodge or—anything." When Jim only stared at her she added in a voice choked with tears, "I asked you to take me to dinner because I was hungry, Jim—hungry." She was openly weeping now.

"Your hunting lodge with the taxes paid sounds like heaven to me." She took a sip of coffee in an effort to steady her lips, but two tears rolled down her cheeks and splashed in the golden liquid.

"I say—this is terrible!" Jim's sympathy was as great as hers had been.

"People don't starve; they don't even get very hungry—I keep telling myself that. But I'm so frightened, Jim."

"You must eat your dinner, you poor little kid," he said gently. "Get a good hot meal in your tummy and then we'll talk this thing over and see what can be done. There must be a better way for you than to hide out in the north woods with me."

"I want to go. Please take me—I'll work hard." Tears threatened again.

"Now, none of that." He cut her steak, buttered her roll and coaxed her to eat. And the warm food did help. The tears disappeared, color crept back in her cheeks and the dreadful weariness left her body. Jim attacked his dinner with a pretense of enjoyment. When they had finished he looked at his watch.

"How about it?" he asked. Have a little more courage now?"

Nancy nooded. "But I still want to go with you." For a long moment her brave eyes looked into his sober ones.

• • •

"YOU win," he said at last, pushing back his chair. "Stay right here while I see if I can raise a justice or someone." For a split second his grin reminded her of the Jim she had known. "I've set my heart on leaving in the morning, you know."

As she waited, Nancy's emotions were in a jumble. Jim had agreed. They were going to be married! The thought sent prickly thrills through her body, made her hands weak and unsteady. But what if Jim regretted his acceptance of her proposal; what then? By the time he returned to the table she had dizzily decided to take one thing at a time.

"All set," he announced. "For 10 bucks the justice will meet us at the city hall in half an hour."

"But 10 bucks——" Nancy searched in her bag for beauty aids. If one was getting married . . .

"I can stand it—I've saved a little." Jim's expression changed, and Nancy knew what he was thinking. He had saved his money for his marriage to Sylvia. And now he was marrying Nancy. For a panicky moment she wondered if she were doing a mad thing.

They were both silent as they drove to the City Hall, silent as they went through the partly darkened corridors. There was something forbidding about the deserted building. Their footsteps rang and echoed with a hollow chant. The door lettered "Justice of the Peace" was locked and they stood before it nervously waiting.

Jim said thoughtfully, "Can you beat it?—two of us in the same boat." He sighed heavily, but at Nancy's stricken look smiled with an attempt at lightness. "It's all right," he encouraged her. "It'll be great to have you go along."

Uncertainly she removed her gloves and Jim looked at her hands ruefully. "I'll get you a ring tomorrow—we can use this tonight." He drew a heavy fraternity ring from his smallest finger and they gazed at it fearfully.

A sound of brisk footsteps caused them to start in apprehension. Nancy put a timorous hand on Jim's sleeve. "If you'd rather not—" she faltered. Suddenly the thing they were about to do seemed preposterous.

Jim patted her hand reassuringly, the man unlocked the door and they went inside. It was all queer after that and not at all impressive, rather unreal and dreamlike and fantastic. Then they went back through the resounding corridor and out into the chill darkness. Nancy was acutely conscious of the heavy ring on her finger.

At the rooming house door Jim pressed several bills into her hand. When she would have resisted he said, "For the room rent. Tell Mrs. Smith you are leaving in the morning." He was quite calm and matter of fact. Nancy wondered if he would kiss her. He never had, but didn't husbands usually? The thought was but a flash through her bewildered brain.

"We'll start early and make it in one day," Jim was saying as he walked across the porch. "Only about 500 miles. Take anything you want. The back of the car will be empty."

"All right, Jim," she quavered. A cold something reminded her that Jim loved Sylvia, that he was already repenting of his rash act, but a small riotous gladness possessed her. She was Jim's wife—she was going away with him. Come what might, they were going away together.

"Good-night, Nancy."

"Good-night, Jim—I'll be ready."

Mankind's Use Of Good Sense And Judgment

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

SOMEONE has said that the only dramatic thing about life is the end of it. Death is definite, decisive, final. As far as this world is concerned, it is the end of the story.

But life is not dramatic, or seldom so. It has no thrilling plot, no grand climax after which we live happily ever after, no villain who is put safely out of the way and done for.

For most of us life just runs along like a stream, with few rapids and no steep falls. Tragedy, violence, desperate situations are the exceptions, not the rule; and it is better so.

Men and maids court, marry, build homes, raise families. They have upsets and downfalls, but they carry on cheerfully, find the world full of interest, and have many joys along the way.

Life has its dangerous curves, to be sure, but we get by. All of us pass a dozen tragedies every week without getting mixed up. We have plenty of chances to smash things, but we do not.

All of us know moods when we are ready to settle things once and for all. We feel like packing up and leaving, or burning the house down and dropping the whole sorry mess.

But, fortunately, we have reserves of good sense, sound judgment, and right feeling which keep us from making a mess of things. We have more ballast than we are aware of—most of the time.

A train does sometimes run off the track, but more often it stays on. At times we lose our temper, fly off the handle and tell some man what we think of him. We regret it afterward.

As a rule we manage, somehow, to get along and things come out right. At least they turn out better than if we had made fools of ourselves and spilled the beans.

To each is given a slice of life, large or small. The thing to do is to take it as a gift, enjoy it, make the most of it—live it without fear or folly, and as faithfully as we can.

The Duck Family Finds and Helps A Lost Chicken

By Mary Graham Bonner

"YOU don't need the fire department for a chicken's burning feet when we have a pond here!" quacked Mrs. Quacko. "Anyway we should find the chicken first and see just what is the matter."

"Here," came the sad voice of the lost chicken.

"But where is here?" quacked Mrs. Quacko. And then she added: "I think he must be over in that patch of trees back of the pond. The voice seems to come from there."

"I don't know. It's getting very dark. I am scared, oh, I am so scared," the chicken wailed.

"We'll get you right away," quacked Mrs. Quacko, and they all went in search of the chicken. His voice was so weak that it was hard to tell just where he was, but they found him at last back of the trees.

"Let me see your feet," said Mrs. Quacko gently as she came close to the little chicken. "They probably burn because you've walked over hot roads for too long a time. But do not worry. They are not on fire."

"They began to catch fire on the last road I walked—it was so bumpy, so hot and dusty."

"There, there, they aren't on fire. You just have a kind of sunburn and road burn. I'll wrap them up in this nice cool moss."

Mrs. Quacko wrapped some cool moss that grew in a damp part of the woods around the chicken's feet.

By Mary Graham Bonner

"YOU don't need the fire department for a chicken's burning feet when we have a pond here!" quacked Mrs. Quacko. "Anyway we should find the chicken first and see just what is the matter."

"Here," came the sad voice of the lost chicken.

"But where is here?" quacked Mrs. Quacko. And then she added: "I think he must be over in that patch of trees back of the pond. The voice seems to come from there."

"I don't know. It's getting very dark. I am scared, oh, I am so scared," the chicken wailed.

"We'll get you right away," quacked Mrs. Quacko, and they all went in search of the chicken. His voice was so weak that it was hard to tell just where he was, but they found him at last back of the trees.

"Let me see your feet," said Mrs. Quacko gently as she came close to the little chicken. "They probably burn because you've walked over hot roads for too long a time. But do not worry. They are not on fire."

"They began to catch fire on the last road I walked—it was so bumpy, so hot and dusty."

"There, there, they aren't on fire. You just have a kind of sunburn and road burn. I'll wrap them up in this nice cool moss."

Mrs. Quacko wrapped some cool moss that grew in a damp part of the woods around the chicken's feet.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1.—My opinion is that this young lady was just a star-spangled little fool. I can't think of a thing more to say—in polite society. O, yes, I might add that when either men or women get the notion they cannot be honest with the opposite sex they are the ones who are dishonest; and they are dishonest because they do not want the other sex to know their real selves.

2.—Dr. Carney Landis, psychiatrist, as noted in the Scientific American points out that only one type of mental disease has increased during the past 22 years—the type due to hardening of the arteries of the brain, something that only takes place in old age. This type has increased from two cases per 100,000 people to 14 per 100,000—a rise of 700 per cent. However, Dr. Landis thinks this rise is not due at all to the strains of modern life but simply to the increase in the number of old people. This seems to account entirely for the apparent increase. Numerous authorities that I have consulted find no real increase in mental diseases in recent years. They diagnose mental diseases better nowadays and thus discover more cases than formerly.

3.—Since I do not drive a car myself I think I can take a calm, unbiased, unemotional, unprejudiced, cold-blooded, unegotistical view of the matter and I shall say that if there is an auto-driver who is not an egotist I have never seen him or her. They all think they are good drivers, and the older and worse they get, the more egotistical they become. They may be Casper Milquetoasts as pedestrians but, put them behind a wheel and Bernard Shaw is a model of modesty, meekness, and self-effacement in comparison.

Unbeaten Path

By B. Nel Smith

THE stream of life, Harvey Miller reflected as he stood by the office window watching the play of light on Mary's hair, could often be guided into the proper channels. And a man could then take what was his due—the love of a girl like Mary and business success. Sometimes, of course, it was necessary to step from the beaten path to do it, but small deflections could be made up later on; much more than made up. What a sap he would have been to let Cam walk away with Mary!

It had been a bright thought to kill two birds with one stone—gather a little nest-egg and get rid of Cam with the same motion. A few figures had done the trick; or rather, parts of figures—ones into sevens, zeros into sixes. It had been dead easy! When Cam's year was up he could be staked to a nice little business of some kind. It would be pretty hard for him to get a job.

The telephone in the private office rang and Mary rose from her desk to answer it, then remembered that the door was locked because the boss hadn't come in yet. She went to the window and stared out over the bay where the lifting fog revealed, in the distance, the gray walls of San Quentin. Her face twisted suddenly and she leaned her head against the sill.

"I can't bear it," she sobbed. "Just think of Cam being shut up out there!"

Harvey put his arm around her and her nearness thrilled him; it was the first time he had been so close to her. He would console her—that would pave the way for the rest. It wouldn't take long, a few weeks at most. They'd get married and have a youngster right away. That would hold her; make her cut loose from Cam entirely.

"Don't cry, Mary," he said tenderly. "A year isn't so long. It's not bad over there. They're really pretty decent to the prisoners!"

She leaned against him, as she had leaned against the window sill, limply, for support. Harvey's pulses quickened. If she fainted, as she did yesterday when Cam was sentenced. . . . Poor little girl! She really felt bad, but she'd get over it. And—he'd be there to catch her on the rebound!

"But he didn't do it!" she moaned. "I don't want him to go!"

She turned away and went back to her desk; her hands moved in slow, blind motions as she uncovered her typewriter. "I don't think I can stand it here without Cam!" She drew a sobbing breath. "He looked so white and so—all alone when they said he was guilty!"

Harvey scowled at her forlorn back. She was carrying the thing too far! He'd have to let her know that he was boss now.

"I feel bad, too, Mary but we've got to snap out of it. We . . ."

"I don't like the tone of your voice!" The words came from the open doorway.

Harvey's gaze dragged slowly upward, reluctant to confirm what his ears had heard. Cam's voice! Cam's eyes — boring, probing. Cam's right hand in his coat pocket that bulged. Cam had sworn that he'd find out who had framed him and when he did—the guy would have to take his medicine.

Harvey was bigger than Cam, heavier, but he didn't dare move. Cam had taken the law into his own hands; he was always ranting about justice. He's escaped, someway. And he'd rather hang for murder than do time for something he didn't——

"Awfully efficient." Cam spoke softly. "Turn out the work. Go right up the little old ladder of success."

Harvey wet his lips. She worshipped the crazy fool. Maybe she'd get up and come between them. Why didn't she move instead of just sit there, staring as if she'd seen a ghost.

Cam shut the door with his left hand without turning and leaned against it, his right hand still in his pocket, motionless. Harvey tried to look natural, tried to grin, but the muscles of his face wouldn't work. Why didn't somebody come in, so the police could be notified. If the boss didn't hurry he'd find a dead accountant. Dead! It was ghastly.

"He's dumb with joy," Cam said. "Who would have thought of it?"

* * *

DEAD! Or out there inside those gray walls. Coarse food and clothes. Herded from one place to another with a gang of criminals. Stared at by visitors. . . .

If he could only wipe the sweat from his forehead, but he didn't dare. He wet his lips again. "Don't shoot, Cam! And don't send me—out there. I'll sign a—confession, if you'll let me go."

"How nice," Cam said quietly. "So he's going to talk. Well," he looked at Harvey thoughtfully, "if I let you go I've got to repay the money you stole, so—if the boss comes in he needn't know till afterwards. Take it down, Mary."

Harvey told just how he'd done it. After all, it was pretty clever. Well, it was a big world and he'd always wanted to see more of it. It wouldn't be so bad; he wouldn't be sap enough to get caught. He'd always been a quick thinker. There, he'd signed it.

The room was still as he crossed to get his hat. Footsteps in the hall. Heavy footsteps. The boss. He was coming and—the boss still believed that Harvey Miller was an honest man. Yes—Harvey was one quick thinker. He faced about, his hands high in the air as the boss opened the door.

"Read that signed confession that he's holding!" Harvey cried. "I was forced to sign that at the point of his gun!"

The boss turned to Cam, looked him over from head to foot. "I would have bet my last dollar on you. Hand over that gun!"

Sam hesitated and his face reddened. "Well, you see, after you got my sentence suspended I came back to go to work and I didn't think I'd have time to stop for lunch, so I brought this," he said as he lifted his hand from his pocket and laid a sandwich in the extended palm.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE GHOSTLY FLIGHT—An Aeronca C-3 cabin plane ran away from its pilot, who had just approached as it stood in the field and cranked its propeller. The throttle was open, and there were no blocks under the wheels. The ship roared off at top speed, took off cross wind and was in the air after a 75-foot run. It climbed to 100 feet, made a perfect bank to the right, flew over a three mile radius and returned to the field at the Tulsa Commercial Airport, April 17, 1936.

THE NAME OF JOHNSON—William T. Johnson, who received 44,049 votes as candidate for the office of Clerk of the Supreme Court of Minnesota, although he had no political past, made no campaign and spent no money, ascribes this result to the magic of the Johnson name. The present incumbent of the office was re-elected with 74,123 votes after an aggressive campaign. But this in no way diminishes the prestige which the name Johnson seems to enjoy. There was another defeated candidate who polled 11,000 votes less than Mr. Johnson, although he, too, is a political figure and made a vigorous election campaign.
